Models In Paleobiology:

Models in Paleobiology Thomas J. M. Schopf, 1972 Models in Paleobiology, Edited by Thomas J. M. Schopf Thomas J. M. Schopf, 1972 Evolutionary Paleobiology James W. Valentine, 1996-12-15 Representing the state of the art in evolutionary paleobiology this book provides a much needed overview of this rapidly changing field An influx of ideas and techniques both from other areas of biology and from within paleobiology itself have resulted in numerous recent advances including increased recognition of the relationships between ecological and evolutionary theory renewed vigor in the study of ecological communities over geologic timescales increased understanding of biogeographical patterns and new mathematical approaches to studying the form and structure of plants and animals Contributors to this volume a veritable who's who of eminent researchers present the results of original research and new theoretical developments and provide directions for future studies Individually wide ranging these papers all share a debt to the work of James W Valentine one of the founders of modern evolutionary paleobiology This volume's unified approach to the study of life on earth will be a major contribution to paleobiology evolution and ecology Paleobiology, 1997 Neutral Models in Biology Matthew H. Nitecki, Antoni Hoffman, 1987 Neutral models are constructed to help scientists understand complex patterns of form structure or behavior that may not be observed directly In this unique volume eight distinguished scientists present a comprehensive study of the use of neutral models in testing biological theories They describe the principles of model testing and explore how they are applied to research in molecular biology genetics ecology evolution and paleontology In addition to the editors the contributors include Stephen Stigler David Raup Paul Harvey L B Slobodkin Stuart Kauffman William Wimsatt and James Crow Testing Character Evolution Models in Phylogenetic Paleobiology April Wright, Peter J. Wagner, David F. Wright, 2021-08-26 Macroevolutionary inference has historically been treated as a two step process involving the inference of a tree and then inference of a macroevolutionary model using that tree Newer models blend the two steps These methods make more complete use of fossils than the previous generation of Bayesian phylogenetic models They also involve many more parameters than prior models including parameters about which empiricists may have little intuition In this Element we set forth a framework for fitting complex hierarchical models The authors ultimately fit and use a joint tree and diversification model to estimate a dated phylogeny of the Cineta Echinodermata a morphologically distinct group of Cambrian echinoderms that lack the fivefold radial symmetry characteristic of extant members of the phylum Although the phylogeny of cinctans remains poorly supported in places this Element shows how models of character change and diversification contribute to understanding patterns of phylogenetic relatedness and testing macroevolutionary hypotheses The Paleobiological Revolution David Sepkoski, Michael Ruse, 2015-03-04 The Paleobiological Revolution chronicles the incredible ascendance of the once maligned science of paleontology to the vanguard of a field With the establishment of the modern synthesis in the 1940s and the pioneering work of George Gaylord Simpson Ernst Mayr and Theodosius

Dobzhansky as well as the subsequent efforts of Stephen Jay Gould David Raup and James Valentine paleontology became embedded in biology and emerged as paleobiology a first rate discipline central to evolutionary studies Pairing contributions from some of the leading actors of the transformation with overviews from historians and philosophers of science the essays here capture the excitement of the seismic changes in the discipline In so doing David Sepkoski and Michael Ruse harness the energy of the past to call for further study of the conceptual development of modern paleobiology Genetics, Paleontology, and Macroevolution Jeffrey S. Levinton, 2001-08-06 An expanded and updated second edition comprehensively looks at macroevolution integrating evolutionary processes at all levels to explain animal diversity Foundations of Macroecology Felisa A. Smith, John L. Gittleman, James H. Brown, 2014-08-22 Macroecology is an approach to science that emphasizes the description and explanation of patterns and processes at large spatial and temporal scales Some scientists liken it to seeing the forest through the trees giving the proverbial phrase an ecological twist The term itself was first introduced to the modern literature by James H Brown and Brian A Maurer in a 1989 paper and it is Brown s classic 1995 study Macroecology that is credited with inspiring the broad scale subfield of ecology But as with all subfields many modern day elements of macroecology are implicit in earlier works dating back decades even centuries Foundations of Macroecology charts the evolutionary trajectory of these concepts from the species area relationship and the latitudinal gradient of species richness to the relationship between body size and metabolic rate through forty six landmark papers originally published between 1920 and 1998 Divided into two parts Macroecology before Macroecology and Dimensions of Macroecology the collection also takes the long view with each paper accompanied by an original commentary from a contemporary expert in the field that places it in a broader context and explains its foundational role Providing a solid coherent assessment of the history current state and potential future of the field Foundations of Macroecology will be an essential text for students and teachers of ecology alike Landscapes of Human Evolution James Cole, John McNabb, Matt Grove, Rob Hosfield, 2020-02-13 Fourteen papers are presented here in honour of John Gowlett John has a wide range of research interests primarily focused on the human genus Homo and is a world leader in understanding the cognitive and behavioural preconditions necessary for the emergence of complex behaviours such as language and art
