Modern Era Of Coronary Thrombolysis:

The Modern Era of Coronary Thrombolysis Richard C. Becker, 2012-12-06 Coronary heart disease remains the leading cause of death for men and women in the United States and other industrialized nations Acute myocardial infarction accounts for a majority of these deaths approaching 750 000 yearly Thrombolytic therapy has revolutionized the treatment of myocardial infarction saving lives to a greater extent than any treatment developed to date The identification of patients best suited for thrombolytic therapy has been a challenging task as has the ideal adjuvant strategy Further the noninvasive diagnosis of treatment successes and failures as well as the expeditious triaging of patients requiring mechanical surgical revascularization have been difficult to define but progress has been made recently The emergence of information vital for patient care has appeared at an extraordinary pace with hundreds of articles being published yearly Unfortunately a resource devoted to the area of thrombolysis does not exist making the dissemination of information to physicians scientists and health care providers problematic The Modern Era of Coronary Thrombolysis is designed to bring the medical and scientific communities up to date It will serve as a foundation for future investigation as well as a resource which can be referred to for many years to come

Surgical Options for the Treatment of Heart Failure R. Masters, 2007-12-14

Despite the significant decline in heart disease mortality rates over the last 25 years heart failure has remained a significant problem. We are now confronted with large numbers of terminally ill patients for whom conventional therapies for heart failure have been exhausted and for whom repeated hospital visits are necessary. There now is a major thrust towards a management strategy which embraces a comprehensive approach including vigorous preventive measures and earlier surgical interventions. This book outlines the major surgical options for the treatment of heart failure and brings together a very broad base of opinions with contributions from several outstanding individuals. With the improved knowledge and techniques to control rejection transplantation has become the central pillar in the surgical management of this group of patients. Unfortunately because of limited donor supply the technique cannot be applied to large numbers of patients. A great deal of excitement however exists in the potential for xenotransplantation as a supplement to homotransplantation. The use of cardiac assist devices has become a reality with several hundred LVADs and BiVADs implanted throughout the world and cardiac replacement with total artificial hearts continues to be used successfully as a bridge to transplantation. We are on the threshold of the broad application of assist devices to provide prolonged relief of heart failure and restore patients to an ambulatory home environment and hopefully return to the work force in significant numbers. Textbook of
