Modernization in Ghana and the U.S.S.R. Robert Edward Dowse, 1969 Comparison of some aspects of economic policy economic planning and economic administration in the USSR and Ghana covers aspects of economic development with particular reference to industrialization socialist economic theory and political theory centralization of control political aspects the role of education etc Bibliography pp 104 to 107

Modernization in Ghana and the U.S.S.R. Robert E. Dowse, 2024-12-02 First published in 1969 Modernization in Ghana and the U S S R examines the aspects of politics of modernization in two states the U S S R and Ghana One of the major contentions of the volume is that they faced a variety of similar problems and their responses to these had a great deal in common The most obvious similarity between the two was the single party state with a relatively high degree of control exercised by the party leadership over the party There are also many similarities concerning attitudes to economic development and the outside world The problem that most concerned the new leaders of Ghana and Russia was that of economic development Political priorities were assessed in the light or by the standard of systems of ideas of ideologies The overall thesis of the book is that although Marxism Leninism and Nkrumaism differ greatly the leaders of the two countries in fact behaved in a remarkably similar fashion and the author shows that their responses had as much to do with similar problems as with ideological patterns This book is a must read for students and researchers of comparative politics

The Economy of Ghana M.M. Huq, 1989-02-06

Ghana in Search of Development Dan-Bright Dzorgbo, 2017-11-22 This title was first published in 2001 When Ghana became independent in 1957 becoming the first country in Sub Saharan Africa to banish colonialism there was a general optimism that irreversible socio economic development was about to unfold But by the end of the 1970s Ghana paradoxically became the first country in Twentieth Century Africa to have experienced socio economic decline What failed Ghana This book seeks to answer this question By combining sociological economic political and institutional perspectives this book focuses on the interplay between state politics and socio economic development It provides a model which suggests that Ghana s postcolonial development has suffered mainly as a result of the failure or inability of governing elites to develop consensual politics and a clearly specified long term development objective that could be widely understood accepted and have relevance for policy making This book presents a much needed self assessment of the post colonial development experience which contends that governance economic management and institution building are basic challenges without which the search for development is likely to falter

The Cultural Foundations of Economic Development Emily Chamlee-Wright, 2002-11-01 Chalmlee Wright argues that international aid programmes have often been unsuccessful because they are imported The economics of the Austrian School provide a far stronger theoretical framework which can introduce cultural analysis into questions of economic development and other market processes

Republic 1960-1966 Trevor Jones, 2023-12-20 Originally published in 1976 this book describes one of the most important and colourful episodes in black Africa's twentieth century history Kwame Nkrumah the dynamic leader who brought Ghana to independence in 1957 abandoned the Westminster model of representative government to which his country once seemed so well suited He reached out towards the goals of Pan Africanism and socialism emphasizing the primacy of political action to regenerate his people and their continent But his vision of the political kingdom led quickly to the destruction of his Republic and his hopes Using the then latest evidence to examine political life parliament civil service farmers workers and army in Ghana's first Republic the author argues that Nkrumah's experiment failed because his rule was strong enough to distort traditional values but was unable to transform them The result was a bizarre and paralysing mixture of despotism and anarchy which defied political analysis in conventional terms Political Domination in Africa Patrick Chabal, 1986-10-09

This collection of essays brings together historians and political scientists from Britain France and the United States who from widely differing perspectives and traditions have been involved in the process of rethinking African politics They present here the outline of a new approach grounded in universal political theory rather than on theories of Third World political development This seeks to integrate the history of Africa from pre to post colonial with concepts of political theory as they have been applied historically to the analysis of Europe and America The book addresses a wide audience students of African history and politics of Third World development and of political theory Department of State News Letter

United States. Department of State, 1969 Structural Adjustment and Mass Poverty in Ghana Kwabena Donkor, 2019-01-22 First published in 1997 this volume looks at the rationale for the implementation of and the economic and social effect of the World Bank Structural Adjustment Policy SAP in Ghana from the early 1980s to the early 1990s It shifts the focus from a primarily economic evaluation of these programmes and includes issues such as their impact on vulnerable groups within the Ghanaian society and on poverty in general Therefore it must be asked whether the ordinary Ghanaian has gained anything from any wealth creation in Ghana The book will be useful for both academic and policy purposes

Newsletter United States. Department of State, 1969 Economic Underdevelopment in Ghana and the Impact on the Agricultural Sector Walter Miller, 1980 Interpreting Political Responsibility John Dunn, 2014-07-14 In this volume one of the leading political theorists of our time addresses what he believes is the major task of political theory showing human beings how they have good reason to act in the historical situation in which they find themselves Dunn argues that humans today depend more abjectly and extensively than ever before on the capacity of some of our number for skillful political action There are many reasons for this dependence closely linked nuclear threat and financial systems massive trade flows that sustain or imperil the well being of all modern populations and the awesome scale of the unintended ecological effects of human production Why has modern political theory failed to relate these factors systematically to one another and to provide people with adequate reasons for action To answer this twin query Dunn brilliantly deploys the resources of the historical development of Western political thinking in counterpoint with some of the main lessons of international political economy The concluding essay reasserts that the classical virtue of prudence has a central place in contemporary politics The conditions of modern politics it maintains require the exercise of prudence not merely by political military and economic leaders but also by the populace at large Overall this selection of Dunn s most influential work of the past decade reflects his remarkable range of interests including Locke s ideological importance the nature of trust in politics rights liberty responsibility at a national level postcolonial African politics and political community The book will be required reading for students from a variety of disciplines Originally published in 1990 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905
