Mothering a Bodied Curriculum Stephanie Springgay, Debra Freedman, 2012-01-01 This collection considers how embodiment mothering and curriculum theory are related to practices in education that silence conceal and limit gendered raced and sexual maternal bodies Advancing a new understanding of the maternal body it argues for a bodied curriculum a practice that attends to the relational social and ethical implications of being with other bodies differently and to the different knowledges such bodily encounters produce Contributors argue that the prevailing silence about the maternal body in educational scholarship reinforces the binary split between domestic and public spaces family life and work one s own children and others children and women s roles as mothers or others Providing an interdisciplinary perspective in which postmodern ideas about the body interact with those of learning and teaching Mothering a Bodied Curriculum brings theory and practice together into an ever evolving conversation
