Postsecular Poetics Rebekah Cumpsty, 2022-08-11 This book is the first full length study of the postsecular in African literatures Religion secularism and the intricate negotiations between the two codified in recent criticism as postsecularism are fundamental conditions of globalized modernity These concerns have been addressed in social science disciplines but they have largely been neglected in postcolonial and literary studies To remedy this oversight

this monograph draws together four areas of study it brings debates in religious and postsecular studies to bear on African literatures and postcolonial studies The focus of this interdisciplinary study is to understand how postsecular negotiations manifest in postcolonial African settings and how they are represented and registered in fiction Through this focus this book reveals how African and African diasporic authors radically disrupt the epistemological and ontological modalities of globalized literary production often characterized as secular and imagine alternatives which incorporate the sacred into a postsecular world

Ceremony and Text in the Renaissance Douglas F. Rutledge, 1996 Ceremony and Text in the Renaissance is a contribution to the history of cultural semiotics in Early Modern Europe Prof Thomas M Greene's theoretical exposition introduces a series of articles that consider the interaction between literary production and ceremonial performance in the larger cultural text of the Renaissance The Renaissance engaged in a greater number of ceremonial performances than the preceding era but the Reformation had irrevocably altered the language of ceremony reducing its magical efficacy and diminishing its ability to inspire community According to Professor Greene the essays address one large but limited area of semiotic practice the social role of ceremonial performance during the early modern period examining the interplay between ceremonial and the narrative dramatic or poetic text

Making the Fascist Self Mabel Berezin, 2018-10-18 In her examination of the culture of Italian fascism Mabel Berezin focuses on how Mussolini's regime consciously constructed a nonliberal public sphere to support its political aims Fascism stresses form over content she believes and the regime tried to build its political support through the careful construction and manipulation of public spectacles or rituals such as parades commemoration ceremonies and holiday festivities The fascists believed they could rely on the motivating power of spectacle and experiential symbols In contrast with the liberal democratic notion of separable public and private selves Italian fascism attempted to merge the public and private selves in political spectacles creating communities of feeling in public piazzas Such communities were only temporary Berezin explains and fascist identity was only formed to the extent that it could be articulated in a language of pre existing cultural identities In the Italian case those identities meant the popular culture of Roman Catholicism and the cult of motherhood Berezin hypothesizes that at particular historical moments certain social groups which perceive the division of public and private self as untenable on cultural grounds will gain political ascendance Her hypothesis opens a new perspective on how fascism works
