by rediscovering that most potent traditional response to a history in crisis the apocalyptic temper Dewey focuses on seven novels that touch the variety of generic experiments and postures of the post World War II American novel These novels by Vonnegut Coover Percy Pynchon Gaddis and DeLillo represent a significant argument concerning the American literary response to living within the oppressive technologies of the Nuclear Age Departing from other studies that veer toward speculative fiction or toward the more narrowly defined religious angles In a Dark Time defines the apocalyptic temper as a most traditional literary genre that articulates the anxieties of a community in crisis a way for that community to respond to the perception of a history gone critical by turning squarely to that history and to find in that gesture the way toward genuine hope Dewey's new approach consists of applying the theory of apocalyptic literature to a body of essentially secular writings Dewey resists the traditional approach studying works dealing with nuclear devastation to focus on how a generation of literary responses have dealt with the larger questions about how to live with the recognition of End times Dewey convincingly demonstrates that this literature reminds its moments in history that only in a dark time will the eye begin to see
