Modeling The Attrition Of Military Pilots:

Modeling the Departure of Military Pilots from the Service Marc N. Elliott, Kanika Kapur, Carole Roan Gresenz, 2004

High numbers of voluntary departures from the services by military pilots have periodically caused considerable concern among military administrators and policymakers both recently and in previous periods of high attrition. In this study the authors explore some determinants of the fixed wing airplane pilot attrition problem among male pilots in the Air Force Navy and Marine Corps and the responsiveness of attrition to changes in military compensation. The authors estimated a pilot attrition model that examines the impact on attrition from factors such as compensation civilian airline hiring and deployment. This study produced several noteworthy findings including 1 Increases in major airline hiring tend to increase military pilot voluntary departures to a great degree in the Air Force and to a lesser extent in the Navy 2 although attrition was found to be quite responsive to bonus pay counteracting a sizable increase in major airline hiring could be costly particularly for the Air Force 3 the significant Impact of civilian major airline hiring on pilot attrition calls for a pilot management plan that will enable the armed forces to respond to strong outside in

Modeling the Departure of Military Pilots From the Services, 2004

High numbers of voluntary departures from the services by military pilots have periodically caused considerable concern among military administrators and policymakers both recently and in previous periods of high attrition. In this study we explore some determinants of the fixed wing airplane pilot attrition problem among male pilots in the Air Force Navy and Marine Corps and the responsiveness of attrition to changes in military compensation. We estimated a pilot attrition model that examines the impact on attrition from factors such as compensation deployment voluntary separation programs and civilian airline hiring. Data sources include military personnel files and information on civilian airline hiring and compensation. The model is simplified in order to abstract from complex modeling issues such as the existence of multiple decision points and bonus contracts of differing lengths. We focus on voluntary attrition within a few years of the end of the initial service obligation. Although we were able to verify the insensitivity of our results to a number of specification and sample checks our results do depend on a number of simplifying assumptions that may not be fully testable. Results from the pilot attrition model should therefore be interpreted in light of these assumptions.
