psychology takes the form of absolute distinctions between puritan and nonpuritan characters between individuals corrupted by moral rationality and those who are simultaneously free of moral corruption and social involvement In this way Faulkner is able to create the impression of a comprehensive treatment of important social concerns and universal moral issues Like Henry James he makes as much as he can of clearly defined dramatic events until they seem to echo the potential complexity and depth of situations outside the realm of fiction When this technique is successful the reader is left with the impression that he knows a Faulkner character far better than he could know an actual person At the same time the character retains the atmosphere of complexity and mystery imposed upon it by Faulkner's handling of style and structure This method of characterization reflects Faulkner's simplifications of experience and yet suggests the inadequacy of any rigid interpretation of actual behavior The reader is supplied with special eyeglasses through which the tragedy of the South as well as humanity's general inhumanity to itself can be viewed in a perspective of simultaneous mystery and symbolic clarity The Modern
