Modernity And Its Discontents:

Modernity and Its Discontents Steven B. Smith, 2016-08-09 Steven B Smith examines the concept of modernity not as the end product of historical developments but as a state of mind He explores modernism as a source of both pride and anxiety suggesting that its most distinctive characteristics are the self criticisms and doubts that accompany social and political progress Providing profiles of the modern project s most powerful defenders and critics from Machiavelli and Spinoza to Saul Bellow and Isaiah Berlin this provocative work of philosophy and political science offers a novel perspective on what it means to be modern and why discontent and sometimes radical rejection are its inevitable by products Modernity and Its Discontents Steven B. Marsh, John D. Caputo, 1992 The introduction by Merold Westphal sets the scene Two books two visions of philosophy two friends and sometimes colleagues Modernity and Its Discontents is a debate between Caputo and Marsh in which each upheld their opposing philosophical positions by critical modernism and post modernism The book opens with a critique of each debater of the other s previous work With its passionate point counterpoint form the book recalls the philosophical dialogues of classical times but the writing style remains lucid and uncluttered Taking the failure of Enlightenment ideals as their common ground the debaters challenge each other s ideas on the nature of post foundationalist critique At the core of the argument lies the timely question of the role that each person can play in creating a truly humane society Modernity and Its Discontents James L. Marsh, John D. Caputo, Merold Westphal, 1992 Contemporary philosophy are by no means simply the exposition and defense of Habermas and Derrida for Marsh and Caputo bring to the discussion their own long formation in continental philosophy as interpreted and practiced in North America Moreover given their even longer formation in the Christian tradition they are not bound by the dogmatic secularism of Habermas and Derrida But the point of contact is not so much religious as political and the fundamental Postmodernity and its Discontents Zygmunt Bauman, 2013-05-20 When Freud wrote his classic Civilization and its Discontents he was concerned with repression Modern civilization depends upon the constraint of impulse the limiting of self expression Today in the time of modernity Bauman argues Freud s analysis no longer holds good if it ever did The regulation of desire turns from an irritating necessity into an assault against individual freedom In the postmodern era the liberty of the individual is the overriding value the criterion in terms of which all social rules and regulations are assessed Postmodernity is governed by the will to happiness the result however is a sacrificing of security The most prominent anxieties in our society today Bauman shows derive from the removal of security The world is experienced as overwhelmingly uncertain uncontrollable and frightening Totalitarian politics frightened by its awesome power the new social disorder frightens by its lack of consistency and direction The very pursuit of individual happiness corrupts and undermines those systems of authority needed for a stable life This book builds imaginatively upon Bauman's earlier contributions to social theory It consolidates his reputation as the interpreter of postmodernity The book will appeal to second year undergraduates and above in sociology cultural studies philosophy and anthropology

Travel, Time, and Space in the Middle Ages and Early Modern Time Albrecht Classen, 2018-10-22. Research on medieval and early modern travel literature has made great progress, which now allows us to take the next step and to analyze the correlations between the individual and space throughout time, which contributed essentially to identity formation in many different settings. The contributors to this volume engage with a variety of pre-modern texts, images, and other documents related to travel and the individual's self-orientation in foreign lands and make an effort to determine the concept of identity within a spatial framework often determined by the meeting of various cultures. Moreover, objects, images, and words can also travel and connect people from different worlds through books. The volume thus brings together new scholarship focused on the interrelationship of travel, space, time, and individuality, which also includes, of course, women's movement through the larger world, whether in concrete terms or through proxy travel via readings. Travel here is also examined with respect to craftsmen's activities at various sites, artists' employment for many different projects all over Europe and elsewhere, and in terms of metaphysical experiences, catabasis.
