Rethinking The Education Of Deaf Students Theory And Practice From A Teachers Perspective:

Rethinking the Education of Deaf Students Sue Livingston, 1997 Here is a compelling and controversial text which asserts that Deaf students should be treated no differently than non Deaf students The author a veteran and practicing teacher rejects the predominant view of Deaf students as special learners in need of language remediation and repair Instead she maintains that for Deaf students as well as their hearing counterparts the primary educational goal is the making and sharing of understandings in various subjects Furthermore she views this as a process that occurs naturally concomitantly and reciprocally with the acquisition of language regardless of one s hearing ability Livingston s assertion clashes with conventional Deaf education which presumes that the wider learning begins after students master a sign system that codifies and reconstructs English With a cumbersome orderly piecemeal and unnatural approach this traditional view frequently forces teachers to water down curriculums in an attempt to make English more readily acquired As a result Deaf students are deprived of rich and challenging content Rethinking the Education of Deaf Students offers an alternative and demonstrates how American Sign Language ASL and English can coexist in the same classroom embedded in the content of what is being taught Through clear theoretical explanations field tested teaching strategies authentic examples of students work lesson plans and sections on assessment Livingston suggests ways to help students become educated language users Her ideas hold enormous implications for those who teach Deaf students develop school budgets design programs and train future teachers More important they may hold the key that unlocks the potential of Deaf students of all ages to become voracious readers and accomplished writers

Bilingualism and Bilingual Deaf Education Marc Marschark, Gladys Tang, Harry Knoors, 2014-06-02 In Bilingualism and Bilingual Deaf Education volume editors Marc Marschark Gladys Tang and Harry Knoors bring together diverse issues and evidence in two related domains bilingualism among deaf learners in sign language and the written spoken vernacular and bilingual deaf education The volume examines each issue with regard to language acquisition language functioning social emotional functioning and academic outcomes It considers bilingualism and bilingual deaf education within the contexts of mainstream education of deaf and hard of hearing students in regular schools placement in special schools and programs for the deaf and co enrollment programs which are designed to give deaf students the best of both educational worlds The volume offers both literature reviews and new findings across disciplines from neuropsychology to child development and from linguistics to cognitive psychology With a focus on evidence based practice contributors consider recent investigations into bilingualism and bilingual programming in different educational contexts and in different countries that may have different models of using spoken and signed languages as well as different cultural expectations The 18 chapters establish shared understandings of what are meant by bilingualism bilingual education and co enrollment programming examine their foundations and outcomes and chart directions for future research in this multidisciplinary area Chapters are divided into three sections Linguistic Cognitive and Social Foundations Education and

Bilingual Education and Co Enrollment Settings Chapters in each section pay particular attention to causal and outcome factors related to the acquisition and use of these two languages by deaf learners of different ages The impact of bilingualism and bilingual deaf education in these domains is considered through quantitative and qualitative investigations bringing into focus not only common educational psychological and linguistic variables but also expectations and reactions of the stakeholders in bilingual programming parents teachers schools and the deaf and hearing students themselves

The Translator as Mediator of Cultures Humphrey Tonkin, Maria Esposito Frank, 2010 If it is bilingualism that transfers information and ideas from culture to culture it is the translator who systematizes and generalizes this process The translator serves as a mediator of cultures In this collection of essays based on a conference held at the University of Hartford a group of individuals professional translators linguists and literary scholars exchange their views on translation and its power to influence literary traditions and to shape cultural and economic identities The authors explore the implications of their views on the theory and craft of translation both written and oral in an era of unsettling globalizing forces

The SAGE Deaf Studies Encyclopedia Genie Gertz, Patrick Boudreault, 2016-01-05 The time has come for a new in depth encyclopedic collection of articles defining the current state of Deaf Studies at an international level and using the critical and intersectional lens encompassing the field The emergence of Deaf Studies programs at colleges and universities and the broadened knowledge of social sciences including but not limited to Deaf History Deaf Culture Signed Languages Deaf Bilingual Education Deaf Art and more have served to expand the activities of research teaching analysis and curriculum development The field has experienced a major shift due to increasing awareness of Deaf Studies research since the mid 1960s The field has been further influenced by the Deaf community's movement resistance activism and politics worldwide as well as the impact of technological advances such as in communications with cell phones computers and other devices A major goal of this new encyclopedia is to shift focus away from the Medical Pathological Model that would view Deaf individuals as needing to be fixed in order to correct hearing and speaking deficiencies for the sole purpose of assimilating into mainstream society By contrast The Deaf Studies Encyclopedia seeks to carve out a new and critical perspective on Deaf Studies with the focus that the Deaf are not a people with a disability to be treated and cured medically but rather are members of a distinct cultural group with a distinct and vibrant community and way of being

Understanding the Boundary between Disability Studies and Special Education through Consilience, Self-Study, and Radical Love David I. Hernández-Saca, Holly Pearson, Catherine Kramarczuk Voulgarides, 2022-12-13 In Understanding the Boundary between Disability Studies and Special Education through Consilience Self Study and Radical Love the authors explore what it means to engage in boundary work at the intersection of traditional special education systems and critical disability studies in education The book consists of fifteen groundbreaking accounts that challenge dominant medicalized discourses about what it means to exist within and around special education systems that create space for new conceptions of what it means to teach lead learn and exist within a conciliatory space driven by radical love and disability justice principles The book pushes readers to consider how their own personal professional and programmatic future transformational actions can be driven by disruption and the desire for freedom from the hegemony of traditional special education and White and Ability supremacy
