

The Book of Ezekiel

Corrine L. Carvalho

INTRODUCTION

The book of Ezekiel contains the oracles of the prophet Ezekiel, a priest of Jerusalem, who was deported to Babylon in 597 B.C. The date of his deportation implies that he was part of the elite priests who, along with other ruling members of Judean society, posed a threat to Babylon. The book provides dates for many of the oracles, all during his own exile (593–571). The oracles utilize many prophetic forms: a call narrative, vision reports, symbolic acts, lamentations, riddles, etc. Until recently many scholars thought that the book of Ezekiel was a haphazard collection of oracles from a wide variety of time periods; recent studies, however, suggest that the book is a carefully crafted literary whole. Hints to the literary origin of the book include the length of the oracles, the use of dates to guide the reader, and the presence of overarching patterns within the book.

The book has a clear structure: oracles of destruction before the fall of the city (chs. 1–24), oracles against foreign nations (chs. 25–32), the report to the prophet of the fall of Jerusalem (ch. 33), and then oracles of restoration (chs. 34–48). A recurring vision of God's chariot-throne, which represents God's presence, ties these sections together.

Date, Provenance, and Author

Dates for the writing of the book have been as wide ranging as the Babylonian exile until the Maccabean period. However, since the book reflects no hint of the issues facing Judah in the Persian or Hellenistic periods, it probably stems from the period of the exile, with scattered later additions. Some scholars have suggested that the focus of the book on activities in and around Jerusalem demand an author in Judah. Yet, the author of the book nowhere identifies with those left in Judah after either the first deportation or the fall of the city. Instead, the book focuses on those people with access to power: royalty, scribes and sages, priests, and national prophets, the very people exiled to Babylon.

The author of the book is clearly a learned person. He demonstrates knowledge of both Babylonian and Egyptian theology, culture, and history. He is well versed in a variety of Israelite literary traditions, often deliberately playing on earlier themes and motifs. These elements are fully in line with the book's report that Ezekiel was exiled in the first deportation, i.e., that he was a member of the elite who would have had access to a cosmopolitan education.

Although there are undeniable signs of a later revision, the book is presented as if the author is Ezekiel himself. Is the author of Ezekiel the prophet himself, or is the book the product of an anonymous author, who uses the persona of Ezekiel as a focal point of the book (like the author of Daniel)? While the answer is debated, the figure of Ezekiel serves a literary
