Lost to the State Elena Khlinovskaya Rockhill, 2010-12-01 Childhood held a special place in Soviet society seen as the key to a better future children were imagined as the only privileged class Therefore the rapid emergence in post Soviet Russia of the vast numbers of vulnerable social orphans or children who have living relatives but grow up in residential care institutions caught the public by surprise leading to discussions of the role and place of childhood in the new society Based on an in depth study the author explores dissonance between new post Soviet forms of family and economy and lingering Soviet attitudes revealing social orphans as an embodiment of a long standing power struggle between the state and the family The author uncovers parallels between post Soviet and Western practices in child welfare and attitudes towards bad mothers and proposes a new way of interpreting kinship where the state is an integral member UNMIK as an International Governance in Post-war Kosovo Blerim Reka, 2003 Crisis of Legitimacy and Political Violence in Uganda, 1890 to 1979 Ogenga Otunnu, 2016-12-26 This book demonstrates that societies experiencing prolonged and severe crises of legitimacy are prone to intense and persistent political violence The most significant factor accounting for the persistence of intense political violence in Uganda is the severe crisis of legitimacy of the state its institutions political incumbents and their challengers This crisis of legitimacy which is shaped by both internal and external forces past and present accounts for the remarkable continuity in the history of political violence since the construction of the state Recounting Migration Christina R.
