Making History A Novel:

Making History Stephen Fry, 1997 Those of us who have already discovered Stephen Fry know him as the brilliant British comedian behind TV series such as Jeeves Wooster and Blackadder and the author of two enormously funny novels The Liar and The Hippopotamus But his new film in which he plays Oscar Wilde and his new novel this one represent a somewhat alarming departure from his previous work They are more serious Though humor is still an essential ingredient of both Fry's fans are finally getting to witness the emotional depth that this brilliant polymath usually keeps hidden In Making History Fry has bitten off a rather meaty chunk by tackling an at first deceptively simple premise What if Hitler had never been born An unquestionable improvement one would reason and so an earnest history grad student and an aging German physicist idealistically undertake to bring this about by preventing Adolf's conception And with their success is launched a brave new world that is in some ways better than ours but in most ways even worse Fry's experiment in history makes for his most ambitious novel yet and his most affecting His first book to be set mostly in America it is a thriller with a funny streak a futuristic fantasy based on one of mankind's darkest realities It is in every sense a story of our times From the Hardcover edition

Making History Richard Cohen, 2022-04-19 A supremely entertaining The New Yorker exploration of who gets to record the world's history from Julius Caesar to William Shakespeare to Ken Burns and how their biases influence our understanding about the past There are many stories we can spin about previous ages but which accounts get told And by whom Is there even such a thing as objective history In this witty wise and elegant The Spectator book Richard Cohen reveals how professional historians and other equally significant witnesses such as the writers of the Bible novelists and political propagandists influence what becomes the accepted record Cohen argues for example that some historians are practitioners of Bad History and twist reality to glorify themselves or their country Scholarly lively quotable up to date and fun Hilary Mantel author of the bestselling Thomas Cromwell trilogy Making History investigates the published works and private utterances of our greatest chroniclers to discover the agendas that informed their and our views of the world From the origins of history writing when such an activity itself seemed revolutionary through to television and the digital age Cohen brings captivating figures to vivid light from Thucydides and Tacitus to Voltaire and Gibbon Winston Churchill and Henry Louis Gates Rich in complex truths and surprising anecdotes the result is a revealing exploration of both the aims and art of history making one that will lead us to rethink how we learn about our past and about ourselves

Constructing a World Martha Tuck Rozett, 2012-02-01 Taking its title from Umberto Eco's postscript to The Name of the Rose the novel that inaugurated the New Historical Fiction in the early 1980s Constructing the World provides a guide to the genre's defining characteristics It also serves as a lively account of the way Shakespeare Marlowe Raleigh Queen Elizabeth I and their contemporaries have been depicted by such writers as Anthony Burgess George Garrett Patricia Finney Barry Unsworth and Rosalind Miles Innovative historical novels written during the past two or three decades have transformed the genre producing some extraordinary bestsellers as well as less widely read serious fiction Shakespearean scholar Martha Tuck Rozett engages in an ongoing conversation about the genre of historical fiction drawing attention to the metacommentary contained in Afterwords or Historical Notes the imaginative reconstruction of the diction and mentality of the past the way Shakespearean phrases names and themes are appropriated and the counterfactual scenarios writers invent as they reinvent the past
