Evaluation in Decision Making Naftaly S. Glasman, David Nevo, 1988-06-30 This book is about the practice of decision making by school principals and about ways to improve this practice by capitalizing on evaluation dimensions Much has been written on decision making but surprisingly little on decision making in the school principalship Much has been also written on evaluation as well as on evaluation and decision making but not much has been written on evaluation in decision making especially decision making in the principalship This book presents two messages One is that decision making in the principalship can be studied and improved and not only talked about in abstract terms The other message is that evaluation can contribute to the understanding of decision making in the principalship and to the improvement of its practice In this book we call for the conception of an evaluation minded principal a principal who has a wide perspective on the nature of evaluation and its potential benefits a principal who is also inclined to use evaluation perceptions and techniques as part of his her decision making process This book was conceived in 1985 with the idea to combine thoughts about educational administration with thoughts about educational evaluation Studies of decision making in the principalship had already been on their way We decided to await the findings and in the meantime we wrote a first conceptual version of evaluation in decision making As the studies were completed we wrote a first empirical version of same The Filipino Teacher's Manual Harry Couch Theobald,1906 Bring Your Own Pencil! Literacy in Teacher Preparation and Practice Patrick M. Jenlink,2022-04-01 Today the meaning of literacy what it means to be literate has shifted dramatically Literacy involves more than a set of conventions to be learned either through print or technological formats Rather literacy enables people to negotiate meaning The past decade has witnessed increased attention on multiple literacies and modalities of learning associated with teacher preparation and practice Research recognizes both the increasing cultural and linguistic diversity in the new globalized society and the new variety of text forms from multiple communicative technologies There is also the need for new skills to operate successfully in the changing literate and increasingly diversified social environment Linguists anthropologists educators and social theorists no longer believe that literacy can be defined as a concrete list of skills that people merely manipulate and use Rather they argue that becoming literate is about what people do with literacy the values people place on various acts and their associated ideologies In other words literacy is more than linguistic it is political and social practice that limits or creates possibilities for who people become as literate beings Such understandings of literacy have informed and continue to inform our work with teachers who take a sociological or critical perspective toward literacy instruction Importantly as research indicates the disciplines pose specialized and unique literacy demands Disciplinary literacy refers to the idea that we should teach the specialized ways of reading understanding and thinking used in each academic discipline such as science mathematics engineering history or literature Each field has its own ways of using text to create and communicate meaning Accordingly as children advance through school literacy instruction should shift from general literacy strategies to the more specific or specialized ones from each discipline Teacher preparation programs emphasizing different disciplinary literacies acknowledge that old approaches to literacy are no longer sufficient Literacy in Teacher Preparation and Practice Enabling Individuals to Negotiate Meaning introduces the reader to a collection of thoughtful research based works by authors that represent current thinking about literacy across disciplines and the preparation of teachers to enter classrooms Each chapter focuses on teaching guided by literacies across disciplines and the preparation of teachers who will enter classrooms to instruct the next generation of students Literary Knowing and the Making of English Teachers Larissa McLean Davies,Brenton Doecke,Philip Mead,Wayne Sawyer,Lyn Yates,2022-09-29 At a time when knowledge is being re valued as central to curriculum concerns subject English is being called to account Literary Knowing and the Making of English Teachers puts long standing debates about knowledge and knowing in English in dialogue with an investigation of how English teachers are made in the 21st century This book explores for the first time the role of literature in shaping English teachers professional knowledge and identities by examining the impacts in particular of their own school teaching in their making The voices of early career English teachers feature throughout the work in a series of vignettes providing reflective accounts of their professional learning The authors bring a range of disciplinary expertise and standpoints to explore the complexity of knowledge and knowing in English They ask How do English teachers negotiate competing curriculum demands How do they understand literary knowledge in a neoliberal context What is core English knowledge for students and what role should literature play in the contemporary curriculum Drawing on a major longitudinal research project they bring to light what English teachers see as central to their work the ways they connect teaching with their disciplinary training and how their understandings of literary practice are contested and reimagined in the classroom This innovative work is essential reading for scholars and postgraduate students in the fields of teacher education English education literary studies and curriculum studies Teachers & technology : making the connection , Education and Training Policy Teachers Matter Attracting, Developing and Retaining Effective Teachers OECD,2005-06-08 Teachers Matter provides a comprehensive international analysis of trends and developments in the teacher workforce in 25 countries around the world including research on attracting developing and retaining effective teachers The Making of a Teacher Martin Grove
