Making A Community Work:

The Making of Community Work David N. Thomas, 2024-11-01 Originally published in 1983 The Making of Community Work is the outcome of a two year study of community work in the United Kingdom The main purpose of the study was to review the development of community work and to suggest some of the issues in practice and training that might be important in the 1980s Much of the first part of the book is taken up with the emergence of community work as an occupation David Thomas tries to clarify its contribution to a number of political and social processes and to define community work in a way which distinguishes it from other kinds of interventions The second part of the book deals with training research literature and employment in community work it includes a review of college and field based training opportunities and a critical discussion of the state of theory and ideology in the occupation It was hoped it would be an important source of ideas and inspiration for the years ahead It was the first major review of community work since its re discovery in the 1960s it will still be of interest to all those involved in community work or wishing to understand its influence on other professions The book was intended for fieldworkers administrators policy makers trainers and students in community work and in related occupations and disciplines Thomas presents his ideas clearly and his ability to look critically at some of the basic assumptions in community work makes for stimulating and enjoyable reading

The Equity Myth Frances Henry,Enakshi Dua,Carl E. James,Audrey Kobayashi,Peter Li,Howard Ramos,Malinda S. Smith,2017-06-22

The university is often regarded as a bastion of liberal democracy where equity and diversity are promoted and racism doesn't exist In reality the university still excludes many people and is a site of racialization that is subtle complex and sophisticated While some studies do point to the persistence of systemic barriers to equity in higher education in depth analyses of racism racialization and Indigeneity in the academy are more notable for excluding racialized and Indigenous professors This book is the first comprehensive data based study of racialized and Indigenous faculty members experiences in Canadian universities

Challenging the myth of equity in higher education it brings together leading scholars who scrutinize what universities have done and question the effectiveness of their equity programs They draw on a rich body of survey data interviews and analysis of universities stated policies to examine the experiences of racialized faculty members across Canada who despite diversity initiatives in their respective institutions have yet to see meaningful changes in everyday working conditions They also make important recommendations as to how universities can address racialization and fulfill the promise of equity in higher education

Community Service Programs in Independent Schools Lee Levison,2018-03-29

Published in 1994 this book examines the processes through which independent school community service programs as educational innovations become more or less institutionalized in nine independent schools The author considers school sponsored opportunities for students to serve in community based organizations such as hospitals day care centres and nursing homes and the aspects that influence the effectiveness of such programs As a result of the study our understanding of the processes and factors that appear to be associated with program institutionalization are deepened The rationales underlying independent school community programs are also examined Finally the book raises questions for further research in independent schools regarding the nature of change the program development process and the role of affective education

Spirited Practices Fran Gale,2020-07-22 Spirituality and religion are fundamental to all human cultures Yet in the helping professions whose shared objective is to promote human well being questions of spirituality have often been avoided Now we are increasingly realising that scientific materialism and individuality have failed to meet enduring human needs for meaning and connection Evidence mounts for the importance of spirituality for prevention and intervention in times of crisis distress and illness Many professionals find themselves ill prepared to respond to the spiritual needs of their clients and to negotiate encounters with people from unfamiliar faith traditions Spirited Practices shows how it is possible for professionals to think critically and be open to spirituality at the same time Professionals and teachers from diverse faiths and fields of work including social work health psychology and ministry explain how they have integrated spirituality into their work Spirited Practices is inspiring reading for anyone in the helping professions seeking to develop a spiritually aware practice It invites us to look honestly at ourselves and our own practices through learning about those from other professional and faith backgrounds Richard Hugman Professor of Social Work University of NSW A much needed forum for practitioners from diverse professional and spiritual backgrounds to address the challenges and rewards of spiritually sensitive practice Leola Dyrud Furman Associate Professor Emeritus of Social Work University of North Dakota Religious Education ,1923
