Making Plays D. Wu, 2019-06-12 Making Plays explores great drama of the last two decades through the eyes of those who write it and those who direct it. It is at once a masterclass on theatrical technique and a unique insight into the ways in which great dramatists of our time have reacted to a rapidly changing world. In this book Duncan Wu talks to Michael Attenborough, Alan Bennett, Michael Blakemore, Howard Brenton, David Edgar, Sir Richard Eyre, Michael Frayn, Sir David Hare, Nicholas Hytner, and Max Stafford Clark. Wigs and Make-up for Theatre, TV and Film Patricia Baker, 2012-10-02 This book teaches the basic skills of theatrical and media make up and wigmaking. It is ideal for students aiming at a career in the world of entertainment, whether it be theatre, television or film, or those hoping to become make up artists within these fields.

Understanding Children's Mathematical Graphics: Beginnings in Play Elizabeth Carruthers, Maulfry Worthington, 2011-04-16 This book challenges traditional beliefs and practices of teaching written mathematics in early childhood. It gives theoretical underpinnings and offers exciting insights and context to children's early mathematical thinking and, in particular, into children's mathematical graphics, showing how this supports their understanding of the abstract symbolic language of mathematics. Drawing on a wide range of examples, it illustrates and explains how children explore and communicate their mathematical thinking through their mathematical graphics and how this begins in play. The book looks at the power of children's own marks, symbols, and other graphical representations to convey meanings, exploring how they support complex thinking. The authors explore the relationship between children's play and meaning-making. Rather than viewing mathematics as a separate subject or as a set of basic skills to be transmitted, they demonstrate that in supportive learning cultures, children develop their own mathematical thinking to solve problems. Key features include numerous new examples and case studies of children from birth to 8 years, highlighting the complexity and richness of children's thinking. Explanation of pedagogical issues showing how they can support rich play and mathematics. Draws on the authors' latest research. This book is valuable reading for students, teachers, primary mathematics coordinators, and all early years professionals working in the Early Years Foundation Stage and Key Stage One. The Generation of Plays Karin Barber, 2003-03-21 Since the 1980s, Yoruba popular theatre has virtually disappeared due to radio, TV, and other mass media in Nigeria. This is the personal account of a theatre worker on tour with the Oyin Adejobi Company. Drawing on archives, interviews, and transcribed plays, she describes a successful Yoruba drama. Making Sense of Suburbia Through Popular Culture Rupa Huq, 2013-08-15 This book explores how notions of suburbia have developed in our collective imagination, examining novels, cinema, popular music, and television in the US and UK. Making Broadcasting Useful Eberhard George Wedell, 1986. Willison, 1972-12-07 More than fifty specialists have contributed to this new edition of volume 4 of The Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature. The design of the original work has established itself so firmly as a workable solution to the immense problems of analysis, articulation, and coordination that it has been retained in all its essentials for the new edition. The task of the new contributors has been to revise and integrate the lists of 1940 and 1957 to add materials of the following decade, to correct and refine the bibliographical details already available, and to reshape the whole according to a new series of conventions devised to give greater clarity and consistency to the entries.

Horton Foote Charles S. Watson, 2010-01-01 Winner of the Pulitzer Prize for Drama for The Young Man from Atlanta and Academy Awards for the screen adaptation of To Kill a Mockingbird and the original screenplay Tender Mercies as well as the recipient of an Academy Award nomination for the screenplay of The Trip to Bountiful and the William Inge Lifetime Achievement Award Horton Foote is one of America's most respected writers for stage and screen. The deep compassion he shows for his characters, the moral vision that infuses his social commentary and the kindness and humanity that Foote himself radiates have also made him one of our most revered artists, the father figure who understands our longings for home, for human connections and for certainty in a world largely bereft of these. This literary biography thoroughly investigates how Horton Foote's life and worldview have shaped his works for stage, television and film. Tracing the whole trajectory of Foote's career from his small town Texas upbringing to the present day, Charles Watson demonstrates that Foote has created a fully imagined mythical world from the materials supplied by his own and his family's and friends' lives in Wharton, Texas, in the early twentieth century. Devoting attention to each of Foote's major works in turn, he shows how this world took shape in Foote's writing for the New York stage, Golden Age television, Hollywood films and in his nine play masterpiece The Orphan's Home Cycle. Throughout, Watson's focus on Foote as a master playwright and his extensive use of the dramatist's unpublished correspondence make this literary biography required reading for all who admire the work of Horton Foote.

Small Screen, Big Feels Melissa Ames, 2020-12-02 While television has always played a role in recording and curating history, shaping cultural memory and influencing public sentiment, the changing nature of the medium in the post-network era finds viewers experiencing and participating in this process in new ways. They skim through commercials, live tweet press conferences and award shows and tune into reality shows to escape reality. This new era, defined by the heightened anxiety and fear ushered in by 9/11, has been documented by our media consumption, production and reaction. In Small Screen, Big Feels, Melissa Ames asserts that TV has been instrumental in cultivating a shared memory of emotionally charged events unfolding in the United States since September 11, 2001. She analyzes specific shows and genres to illustrate the ways in which cultural fears are embedded into our entertainment, in series such as The Walking Dead and Lost, or critiqued through programs like The Daily Show. In the final section of the book, Ames provides three audience studies that showcase how viewers consume and circulate emotions in the post-network era: analyses of live tweets from Shonda Rhimes's drama How to Get Away with Murder (2010-2020), ABC's reality franchises The Bachelor (2002-present) and The Bachelorette (2003-present), and political coverage of the 2016 Presidential Debates. Though film has been closely studied through the lens of affect theory, little research has been done to apply the same methods to television. Engaging an impressively wide range of texts, genres, media and formats, Ames offers a trenchant analysis of how televisual programming in the United States responded to and reinforced a cultural climate grounded in fear and anxiety.
