Making Of A Physician:

Physician Practice Management Lawrence F. Wolper, 2005 Health Sciences Professions The Different Faces of Autonomy M. Schermer, 2013-04-17 Patient autonomy is a much discussed and debated subject in medical ethics as well as in healthcare practice medical law and healthcare policy This book provides a detailed and nuanced analysis of both the concept of autonomy and the principle of respect for autonomy in an accessible style The unique feature of this book is that it combines empirical research into hospital practice with thorough philosophical analyses As such it is an example of a new movement in applied ethics that of empirical ethics The key themes are informed consent and medical decision making personal well being competence paternalism and decision making for incompetent patients Much attention is also devoted to autonomy in non decision making situations patient control over small everyday aspects of care authenticity and existential aspects of illness autonomy and the ethics of care and the relationship between autonomy and trust in the physician patient relationship This book will be of interest to those working or studying in the field of medical ethics and applied ethics but also to healthcare professionals and health policy makers Oxford Textbook of Communication in Oncology and Palliative Care David William Kissane, Barry D. Bultz, Phyllis N. Butow, Carma L. Bylund, Susie Wilkinson, 2017

Communication is a core skill for medical professionals when treating patients Cancer and palliative care present some of the most challenging clinical situations This book provides evidence based guidelines alongside case examples tips and strategies to achieve effective patient centred communication The Making of a Physician Harry L. Graber M.D. F.A.C.C., 2016-06-29 Both genetic and environmental factors play important roles in one's life Genetics remains a fixed entity whereas environment is a variable Environmental experiences in life can have a positive or negative influence upon the genetic makeup of a given individual Decision making in the preschool environment is predominantly controlled by parents Eventually the individual being influenced by the many past environmental factors becomes the responsible choice maker as to which path in life he/she wishes to travel It is my belief that it is providential that one is given these experiences to aid in our decision making This concept was supported by five of the physicians who shared their stories chapter 10 All were greatly influenced by role models whom they encountered in their earlier life This influence factor is not a single event but a continuum This forms the basis of the concept that the making of a physician is not a one time event but represents a continuum For some of us becoming a physician was understood as a calling The stories in this book were shared so that others may develop a greater appreciation of their own environmental experiences and consider them as influential factors in the decision making of their lives It is also my hope that this book might be of positive help to the young person considering the medical profession as his or her vocation Medical Malpractice: the Patient Versus the Physician United States. Community-acquired Pneumonia Thomas J. Marrie, 2001-08-31 Pneumonia along with influenza is the sixth leading cause of death in adults About 4 million adults develop pneumonia each year in the US resulting in 64 million days of restricted activity 39 million days of bed confinement and 10 million days of lost work Yet the admission rates to hospital length of stay investigations antimicrobial therapy and prevention strategies vary greatly from one geographic area to the next and the scientific basis for many of our management strategies for pneumonia is weak to nonexistent There are over 100 microbial agents that can cause pneumonia and many of these especially Streptococcus pneumoniae Group A streptococcus and Staphylococcus aureus are in a state of flux in terms of changing antimicrobial resistance This book is designed to provide new information about pneumonia and identify critical research questions that will come to the fore as we enter the 21st century

Doctor, Please Help Me Die Tom Preston, 2013-01-14 Death comes for us all and the desire to ease into that death is as ancient as humankind The idea that sometimes it is better to die quickly and in control of that death rather than linger in pain and misery once impending death is certain has troubled yet comforted humankind In Doctor Please Help Me Die author Tom Preston MD presents a thorough overview and discussion of end of life issues and physician assisted death in America Doctor Please Help Me Die traces the history of patients seeking relief from suffering at the end of life and discusses how cultural and professional customs have inhibited many doctors from helping their patients at the end Preston shows how most doctors fail their patients by not discussing dying with them and by refusing to consider legal physician aid in dying ultimately deceiving the public in their refusal to help patients die He discusses the religious political and legal battles in this part of the culture war and gives advice to patients on how to gain peaceful dying Preston presents a strong argument for why every citizen who is dying ought to be extended an inalienable right to die peacefully and why every physician has an ethical obligation to assist patients who want to exercise this right safely securely and painlessly

Optimizing Health: Improving the Value of Healthcare Delivery Franz Porzsolt, Robert M. Kaplan, 2007-07-07 As health care costs soar there is increasing interest in examining what society and particularly patients receive in return for these expenditures Optimizing Health brings together the best thinking from both sides of the Atlantic to explore these issues It employs disciplinary perspectives from economics ethics philosophy psychology clinical practice and epidemiology to explore various ways that value for patients have and can be determined It concludes with a discussion of changes required in practice research and health care systems to maximize the outcomes received from the provision of medical care services from the patient's perspective The first section of the book provides theoretical perspectives from economics and systems thinking that help us to focus on how one might determine the value of medical care for patients The next section considers the ethical and philosophical dilemmas that face developed countries in distributing medical care How is justice served and evidence based medicine employed to increase the value of medical care for patients The section on psychology deals with measuring outcomes from the patient's perspective and involving patients in medical decision making Measuring quality of life and gaining valid quality of life information when patients cannot respond for themselves are important topics covered by these chapters Other chapters consider ways that patients can become more involved in medical decision making with the expectation that this will increase the value of medical care for patients A major section of the book about clinical practice discusses problems that can reduce the value to patients of medical care These include overdiagnosis aggressive treatments that do not result in better patient outcomes findings that earlier diagnosis does not always result in better outcomes and the extent of medical error in treatment The final sections deal with cost effectiveness analyses and applications of clinical epidemiology The chapters include a number of original investigations and applications of new methodologies All in all the volume is must reading for practitioners policy makers and researchers who want to find in one place the state of the art thinking and future directions of valuing medical care from the patient's perspective
