Shredcoding requires that the shredder be able to shred documents into small pieces, and then a separate shredder is used to shred the pieces into even smaller pieces. This process is called shredding. Shredcoding is a more secure method of shredding than shredding alone, but it is also more expensive. Shredcoding is used by many government agencies and by some private companies. Shredcoding is also used by some individuals who want to protect their privacy. Shredcoding is a good way to protect your privacy, but it is not a perfect solution. Shredcoding can be hacked, and your information can be stolen.
