connections between the articles      The Dialectic in Journalism Carter R. Bryan, John C. Merrill, 1993-08-01 A main intent of this book is to show how freedom relates to ethics in journalism and at the same time to discuss how a number of other contraries or antinomies are unsuitable in the real world of journalism I also hope to demonstrate how a synthesis a position near the Aristotelian Golden Mean is the best solution to many of the problems of mass communication We need to form the habit of thinking dialectically about many of our journalistic problems realizing that a clash of opposing positions is not harmful but useful in the constantly changing world of journalism From the Introduction Over the past thirty years John C Merrill has produced what many critics consider an essential body of writing on the relatedness of journalism and philosophy He speaks with authority for a growing group of scholars who are looking behind the product of journalism for the ideologies that create them His latest work The Dialectic in Journalism is an ambitious and comprehensive examination of the forces at work throughout the press The book focuses on two important and timely issues journalistic license and social control or in a larger sense freedom and responsibility What are the just limits of the press Where may libertarians and statists of the press find common ground How do journalists convert the world into the word Merrill places sweeping questions such as these in the context of the Western intellectual tradition Beginning with the Heraclitean observation that reality is constantly changing he traces the development of the dialectic through Plato and Aristotle to Rousseau Spinoza Nietzsche and Hegel Merrill connects these thinkers with many of the problems facing the journalistic community today He uses the Hegelian dialectic to suggest that a moderating force is at work in the contemporary journalism He shows that the tensions created between the concept of freedom of expression and necessity of restraint resolve themselves in a synthesis of social responsibility Readers familiar with Merrill's earlier works will find in this new book the same strong concern for the ethical foundations of journalism The Dialectic in Journalism is sufficiently rigorous philosophically that it sustains a close critical reading and yet the general reader will find it straightforward and lucid Journalists will want to read this book to gain new insight into the frequently unexamined philosophy of their trade and the public will profit from a broader understanding of the force that plays a central role in shaping our view of the world      The Political Economy of Press Freedom Jaw-Nian Huang, 2019-08-01 This book offers a political economy analysis of the development and degradation of freedom of the press in Taiwan since 1949 exploring how state business elites and foreign hegemony interacted to shape the evolution of Taiwan's media It examines why freedoms increased alongside democratization in the 1990s but deteriorated after the second peaceful turnover of power in 2008 and why significant improvements accompanied Taiwan's close economic connections with the US during the Cold War only to become eroded as the country developed deeper economic ties with China in the 21st century Presenting both a domestic and international perspective this study of the controversial case of Taiwan ultimately argues in favor of three factors First state power is not the only threat to press freedom as corporate organizations and market forces may also play a role in curtailing it Second cross national economic connections do not always improve human and civil rights but may cause damage when they involve more powerful authoritarian countries Third just as norms diffuse from liberal contexts to repressive states repressive norms are also likely to diffuse from powerful authoritarian countries to more liberal but politically and economically weaker ones Providing a new viewpoint on China's media control overseas The Political Economy of Press Freedom will be useful for students and scholars of Chinese Studies and Taiwan Studies as well as comparative politics international relations and Media Studies
