The Vision of Gabriel Marcel Brendan Sweetman, 2008-01-01 This book illustrates the profound implications of Gabriel Marcel's unique existentialist approach to epistemology not only for traditional themes in his work concerning ethics and the transcendent but also for epistemological issues concerning the objectivity of knowledge the problem of skepticism and the nature of non conceptual knowledge among others There are also chapters of dialogue with philosophers Jacques Maritain and Martin Buber In focusing on these themes the book makes a distinctive contribution to the literature on Marcel

Time in the Philosophy of Gabriel Marcel Helen Tattam, 2013 Gabriel Marcel 1889 1973 stands outside the traditional canon of twentieth century French philosophers Where he is not simply forgotten or overlooked he is dismissed as a relentlessly unsystematic thinker or following Jean Paul Sartre's lead labelled a Christian existentialist a label that avoids consideration of Marcel's work on its own terms How is one to appreciate Marcel's contribution especially when his oeuvre appears to be at odds with philosophical convention Helen Tattam proposes a range of readings as opposed to one single interpretation a series of departures or explorations that bring his work into contact with critical partners such as Henri Bergson Paul Ricoeur and Emmanuel Levinas and offer insights into a host of twentieth century philosophical shifts concerning time the subject the other ethics and religion Helen Tattam's ambitious study is an impressively lucid account of Marcel's engagement with the problem of time and lived experience and is her first monograph since the award of her doctorate from the University of Nottingham

The Philosophy of Gabriel Marcel Kenneth T. Gallagher, 1962

Being and Having Gabriel Marcel, 2011-03-23 I hope that this book will be widely read and I especially commend it to four classes of persons I For myself I have come across nothing more important than M

Marcel's writings here and elsewhere on the problem of metaphysics I say problem advisedly for we are all of us these days in the end puzzled as to what exactly metaphysics is. The strict Thomist has his answer so has the positivist so too the Biblical theologian who is much too ready to find in the decay of ontology an argument for the authenticity of Biblical perspectives. M. Marcel was trained in the tradition of idealism and he knew the influence both of Bergson and of W. E. Hocking. His conversation with himself certainly betrays their influences but it is of far wider significance. Professor Ayer and Dr E. L. Mascall have their answer to the question what ontology is; they have their formulae. Marcel probes beneath these answers for him ontology is much more than a body of doctrine. It is the intellectual expression of the human situation what is expressed in the syllogisms of, for instance, P. re Garrigou Lagrange is valid only in so far as it catches and summarises the very being of man and the universe as that being is lived through and met with by man in his pilgrimage through life. I find as I read M. Marcel that the frontiers are blurred: reflection, metaphysics, spirituality. And that is the strength of his seemingly inconsequent method. In a way he is too wise to suppose that the arguments of the philosophia perennis are enough in their abstract form to convince a man; they only carry conviction in relation to a whole experience of life of which they are the expression. The issues between the Thomist, the positivist, the idealist are not issues simply of doctrine but of life and to see what they are one must probe stretching language beyond the frontiers of poetry somehow to convey the issues as things through which men live.

2 The book should be studied closely by the moralist whether he be philosopher or moral theologian. Where some of the most familiar ethical ideas are concerned Marcel reminds us of their inside when we so often in our discussion think simply of their outside. What is a promise? We have our answer, our formula which permits us to go on with the discussion of our obligations to keep the promises we have made and so on. We don't wait to probe. I find myself inevitably using that word probe again and again in connection with M. Marcel for what he does is to probe the unsuspected profundities of the familiar. Most professional students of ethics are morally philistine men who give little time to penetrating the inside of the ideas they are handling. And there Marcel pulls them up short.

3 The book should be widely read by the many Christian fellow travellers of today, those who follow as it were afar off the Christian way without themselves coming yet to the point of an act of faith in the Crucified. Its very incompleteness will respond to their groping anxiety and it will enrich their vision of life. And this it can do because it eschews dogmatic exposition seeking rather to shew the inside of the truly Christian way of life. Fidelity, hope, charity, mystery, these are fundamental categories of the Christian way and of all these Marcel has much to say which is in every way fresh and yet at the same time rooted in the tradition of Catholic Christianity. The reader of such a work as Albert Camus' La Peste with its preoccupation with the problem of an atheistic sanctity will understand M. Marcel. In a way he challenges the possibility of Camus' vision and he does so not on dogmatic grounds but by an analysis of holiness and goodness which shews indirectly their inseparability from acknowledgment of the all-embracing mystery of God. An age which has known evil as ours has and does still know it is inevitably interested in goodness and it is with goodness as something inevitably issuing out of God because a gift from him that Marcel's studies deal 4 And lastly I commend this book because at a time when minuteness and subtlety of mind are too often the prerogatives of the light heartedly destructive he reminds us that a true minuteness and a true intellectual subtlety are rooted in humility and purity of heart and manifest the soil in which they are nourished by graciousness whose charm none can escape and a strength of argument which none can break The Decline of Wisdom Gabriel Marcel, 1954 Creative Fidelity Gabriel Marcel, 1964

Mystery of Being (CPS Publications in Philosophy of Science) Gabriel Marcel, 1983-11-23 Faith and Reality the second volume of The Mystery of Being expands Marcel's philosophical quest for the means of transcending our broken world to the questions What is Being and What is the relation of existence to religious consciousness Reissued by arrangement with Regnery Gateway Inc Man Against Mass Society Gabriel Marcel, 2008 The central theme of this important book is that we are paying the price of an arrogance that refuses to recognize mystery The author invites the reader to enter into the argument that he holds with himself on a great number of problems Written in the early 1950s Marcel's discussion of these topics are remarkably contemporary e g Our crisis is a metaphysical not merely social one What a man is depends partly on what he thinks he is and a materialistic philosophy turns men into things Can a man be free except in a free country Stoicism is no longer a workable philosophy because today pressure can be put on the mind as well as on the body Technical progress is not evil in itself but a technique is a means that regarded as an end can become either an idol or an excuse for self idolatry State control of scientific research leading to a concentration on new means of destruction is a calamity Fanaticism is an opinion that refuses to argue and so the fanatic is an enemy of truth The kind of unification that science is bringing about today is really an ironing out of differences but the only valuable kind of unity is one that implies a respect for differences We must beware of thinking in terms of great numbers and so blinding ourselves to the reality of individual suffering Our philosophical approach to being is made possible only by our practical approach to our neighbor We must encourage the spirit of fraternity and distrust the kind of egalitarianism that is based on envy and resentment No man however humble should feel that he cannot spread the light among his friends No easy solution is offered but the author conveys his own faith that ultimately love and intelligence will triumph Contributions of Gabriel Marcel to Philosophy William Cooney, 1989 This collection of articles by Gabriel Marcel scholars in America attempts to capture Marcellian thought Awakenings Gabriel Marcel, 2002 Annotation French intellectual Marcel's 1889-1973 autobiography En chemin vers quel was published in 1971 by Gallimard Paris An English translation by Peter S Rogers is being brought out in light of the impact his work has had on postmodern thought Annotation c 2003 Book News Inc Portland OR booknews.com Metaphysical Journal Gabriel Marcel, 1967 Gabriel Marcel on Religious Knowledge Neil Gillman, 1980 An earlier version of this study was presented to the Faculty of Philosophy at Columbia University in 1975 in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in the Department of Philosophy I have now revised and updated that work utilizing material by and about Marcel that has been published in the intervening years The Fellowship of Being John B. O'Malley, 2012-12-06 This book is the fruit of a critical inquiry into the nature and scope of Marcel's philosophic achievement As such it is concerned less with affixing the appropriate label personalist or existentialist to Marcel's thought and with it making it stick than with discovering the precise impulse and tenor of his philosophy In the process of that more general inquiry the writer found being forced upon him a central concept as integrating focus of Marcel's philosophic investigations This concept was that of the person Gradually it emerged as a concept not only of prime importance for understanding the underlying harmony that pervades Marcel's professedly unsystematic researches but equally as one of profound significance for any philosophy that pretends adequately to account for human experience Furthermore it seemed that the concept derived much of that significance from its acceptance precisely in the context of Marcel's thought This feature of Marcel's philosophic writings alone is warrant enough for overcoming any initial embarrassment aroused in Anglo Saxon breasts by his style For to speak candidly that style is of a generation and a climate whose tastes little accord with palates trained to a greater astringency Nor will Marcel's evident and unashamed concern with life and its problems necessarily evoke a warm response in minds accustomed to operate in an atmosphere of stricter and more academic reserve The Philosophy of Gabriel Marcel, Etc Kenneth T. GALLAGHER, Gabriel Marcel, 1962 A Gabriel Marcel Reader Gabriel Marcel, 2011 French existentialist philosopher Gabriel Marcel 1883-1973 is one of the most influential thinkers of the twentieth century The central themes of his philosophy which are developed with a blend of realism concreteness and common sense continue to be relevant for the plight of humanity in the twentieth first century Marcel's thought emphasizes the attempt to safeguard the dignity and integrity of the human person by emphasizing the inadequacy of the materialistic life and the unavoidable human need for transcendence the inability of philosophy to capture the profundity and depth of key human experiences and so the need to find a deeper kind of reflection the importance of the experience of inter subjectivity which Marcel believes is at the root of human fulfillment and which also finds expression in the transcendent dimension of human experience a dimension that cannot be denied without loss and that often gives meaning to our most profound experiences Marcel is also one of the few contemporary thinkers who manages to do justice to the subjectivity and individuality of the human person while avoiding the relativism and skepticism that has tended to accompany these notions and that has plagued contemporary philosophy after Heidegger He makes an unwavering effort to challenge the moral relativism and spiritual nihilism of his French rival Jean Paul Sartre and of other representative existentialist philosophers All of Marcel's important ideas are introduced here ranging from his unique conception of philosophy to his original approach to epistemology and the nature of knowledge to his view on the nature of the human person including the idea of being in a situation and the importance of the context that the subject lives in for the subject's ideas and experiences to his approach to religious themes including the issues of the rationality of religious belief the question of God's existence and our longing for the transcendent and his concrete approaches of fidelity hope love and faith There are also selections in which he discusses some of his misgivings about the direction of contemporary culture especially the effects of technology Book jacket
