

A stylized illustration of four people in a pub. On the left, a bald man in a grey shirt and blue trousers holds a glass of dark liquid and looks towards the center. Next to him, a woman with dark hair in a red top and dark skirt looks towards the man in the white shirt. The man in the white shirt, who has glasses, holds a glass and looks down at it. On the far right, a man in an orange shirt and green trousers looks towards the man in the white shirt. They are standing in front of a green door with two yellow circular lights. The floor is dark with some white and grey patches. The overall style is graphic and colorful.

The Irish Short Story at the Turn of the Twenty-First Century Madalina Armie, 2022-12-30 In the mid 1990s Ireland was experiencing the best of times The Celtic Tiger seemed to instil in the national consciousness that poverty was a problem of the past The impressive economic performance ensured that the Republic occupied one of the top positions among the world's economic powers During the boom dissident voices continuously criticised what they considered to be a mirage identifying the precariousness of its structures and foretelling its eventual crash The 2008 recession proved them right Throughout this time the Irish contemporary short story expressed distrust Enabled by its capacity to reflect change with immediacy and dexterity the short story saw through the smokescreen created by the Celtic Tiger discourse of well being It reinterpreted and captured the worst and the best of the country and became a bridge connecting tradition and modernity The major objective of this book is to analyse the interactions between fiction and reality during this period in Ireland by studying the short stories written by old and emergent voices published between the birth of the Celtic Tiger in 1995 up to its immediate aftermath in 2013

Irish Women Writers Speak Out Caitriona Moloney,Helen Thompson,2003-03-01 Bringing together the diverse and marvelously articulate voices of women of Irish and Irish American descent editors Caitriona Moloney and Helen Thompson examine the complicated maps of experience that the women s public private and literary lives represent particularly as they engage in both feminism and postcolonialism Acknowledging Mary Robinson s revised view of Irish identity now global rather than local this work recognizes the importance of identity as a site of mobility The pieces reveal how complex the terms feminism and postcolonialism as they examine how the individual writers see their identities constructed and or mediated by sexuality In addition the book traces common themes of female agency violence generational conflicts migration emigration religion and politics to name a few As it represents the next wave of Irish women writers this book offers fresh insight into the work of emerging and established authors and will appeal to a new generation of readers Conversations with Colum McCann Earl G. Ingersoll, Mary C. Ingersoll, 2017-07-13 Conversations with Colum McCann brings together eighteen interviews with a world renowned fiction writer Ranging from his 1994 literary debut Fishing the Sloe Black River to a new and unpublished interview conducted in 2016 these interviews represent the development as well as the continuation of McCann's interests The number and length of the later conversations attest to his star power Let the Great World Spin earned him the National Book Award and promises to become a major motion picture His most recent novel TransAtlantic has awed readers with its dynamic yoking of the 1845-1846 visit of Frederick Douglass to Ireland the 1919 first nonstop transatlantic flight of Alcock and Brown and Senator George Mitchell's 1998 efforts to achieve a peace accord in Northern Ireland An extensive interview by scholar Cecile Maudet is included here as is an interview by John Cusatis who wrote Understanding Colum McCann the first extensive critical analysis of McCann's work An author who actually enjoys talking about his work McCann b 1965 offers insights into his method of writing what he hopes to achieve as well as the challenge of writing each novel to go beyond his accomplishments in the novel before Readers will note how many of his responses include stories in which he himself is the object of the humor and how often his remarks reveal insights into his character as a man who sees the grittiness of the urban landscape but never loses faith in the strength of ordinary people and their capacity to prevail Under the Rose Julia O'Faolain, 2016-02-19 Julia O'Faolain is one of the most important Irish writers of the past half century Under the Rose is a selection of short stories taken from her many celebrated collections These are stories about families and relationships religion and politics new life and mortality and their settings range from Ireland and the USA to Italy and France O'Faolain exposes the delusions of sexual desire explores the failings of the Church and unpicks the casual brutalities of a patriarchal society In an afterword she considers the art of the short story and the influences that continue to shape her work Powerful profound and unflinching in their reflections on human experience the stories in Under the Rose are masterpieces of the form Praise for Julia O'Faolain The assurance range and diversity of her stories proclaim a writer of daunting gifts Guardian Entertaining and rich in comedy gripping and moving William Trevor A wonderful stylist and an exciting writer Her work is joyous urbane and intensely Irish Independent on Sunday Two Irelands Rebecca Pelan, 2005-06-27 The very different histories of the North and South are reflected in their literature While women in the Republic of Ireland have tended to write about social issues sexism crime unemployment and domestic violence women in Northern Ireland focused on their society's historical tension and primarily nationalist and unionist politics However Pelan maintains that feminist ideology has provided contemporary Irish women with an alternate political stance that incorporates gender and nationality ethnicity and allows them to move beyond the usual binaries of politics history and language Irish and English In an analysis enriched by a sophisticated but accessible engagement with contemporary feminist and gender theory Pelan concludes that Irish women's writing whether at the community or mainstream level North or South consistently articulates political issues of direct relevance to the lives of Irish women today As a result such work retains close links with the initial impetus of the second wave of feminism as a political movement and questions the legitimacy of long standing social religious and political conventions From within the framework provided by this second wave argues Pelan Irish women can critique certain masculine ideologies nationalist unionist imperialist and capitalist without forfeiting their own sense of gender and national or ethnic identity The book's significance lies in its placement of women's writing in the center of contemporary political discourse in Ireland and in ensuring that the writing from this period much of it long out of print continues to exist as sociological as well as literary records It will be of interest to a general and scholarly audience especially those in the fields of contemporary Irish writing feminism and literary history Irish Literature Patricia Coughlan, Tina O'Toole, 2008 Feminist perspectives on Irish literature The Canadian Journal of Irish Studies, 2006

Post Celtic Tiger Landscapes in Irish Fiction Marie Mianowski, 2016-11-03 Post Celtic Tiger Landscapes in Irish Fiction discusses the representations of place and landscape in Irish fiction since 2008 It includes novels and short stories by William Trevor Dermot Bolger Anne Enright Donal Ryan Claire Kilroy Kevin Barry Gerard Donovan Danielle McLaughlin Trisha McKinney Billy O'Callaghan and Colum McCann In the light of writings by geographers anthropologists and philosophers such as Doreen Massey Tim Ingold Giorgio Agamben and Jeff Malpas this book looks at the metamorphoses of place and landscape representations in fiction by confirmed or debut authors in the aftermath of a crisis with deep economic as well as cultural consequences for Irish society It shows what place and landscape representations reveal of the past while discussing the way notions such as boundedness openness and emergence can contribute to thinking out space and place and designing future landscapes Immigrant Women's Voices and Integrating Feminism Into Migration Theory Nyemba, Florence, Chitiyo, Rufaro, 2020-12-25 Migration is a multifaceted phenomenon that plays a critical role in today's world yet there have been few attempts to look beneath the surface of the mass movements of people Particularly the changing face of migration is becoming more feminized with women increasingly moving as independent or single migrants rather than as the wives mothers or daughters of male migrants Yet in literature on migration the voices of women are still silent This creates an urgent need to advance academic research on female international migration by examining women as independent migrants Immigrant Women's Voices and Integrating Feminism Into Migration Theory comprehensively documents the experiences of immigrant women across the globe and the important theories that define their experiences The chapters give firsthand accounts of women speaking about their own experiences on migration and topics associated with women and migration This book aims to give women their own voice and to stand apart from previous literature in which male relatives spoke on behalf of immigrant women to tell their stories for them While highlighting topics on women in migration including feminism gendered social roles first person narratives and the female identity this book is ideally for professionals in social science disciplines as well as practitioners stakeholders researchers academicians and students wanting to expand their knowledge on women and migration gender violence and women empowerment Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress, Library of Congress. Gender and Short Fiction Jorge Sacido-Romero, Laura Lojo-Rodríguez, 2018-10-09 In their new monograph Gender and Short Fiction Women's Tales in Contemporary Britain Jorge Sacido Romero and Laura M Lojo Rodriguez explain why artistically ambitious women writers continue turning to the short story a genre that has not yet attained the degree of literary prestige and social recognition the novel has had in the modern period In this timely volume the editors endorse the view that the genre still retains its potential as a vehicle for the expression of female experience alternative to and or critical with dominant patriarchal ideology present at the very onset of the development of the modern British short story at the turn of the nineteenth century
