Tansley, 2022-05-29 First published in 1967, Reading and Remedial Reading describes the normal reading programme in the school where the author taught and the diagnosis and treatment of acute difficulties in learning to read. The work deals mainly with so-called educationally maladjusted children, many of whom showed signs of possible damage to the central nervous system, but Mr Tansley believes that the methods and techniques given are applicable to all children, irrespective of levels of intelligence, who are experiencing difficulties to learn. The results achieved are most encouraging and have been tested by numerous expert visitors from this country and abroad. This is a helpful guide to a large number of people: staffs and students in University Education Departments, educational psychologists, remedial teachers, special school teachers, primary school teachers, and medical officers in the School Health Service. Learning to Learn Sally Featherstone, 2014-05-29 This book will help you to understand what works for the growing brain and even more important, what doesn't. It is more and more evident that HOW children learn is much more important than WHAT they learn. Babies are born with a drive to learn, but as babies become children, this drive can falter. What are the keys to keeping the momentum going so children are ready for each stage of their childhood as they reach it? We can influence the quality of learning without buying specialist DVDs, choosing expensive toys, or becoming a helicopter adult hovering over children and controlling everything they do. Busy parents and practitioners can make sure that the times they have with children are both enjoyable in the present and useful in the future. This book introduces you to some of the things that affect children's learning, explains these in readable terms, and gives you simple ways of making sure that children get the best start in their lifelong learning journey. Slow Knowledge and the Unhurried Child Alison Clark, 2022-12-30 This book explores the relationship with time in early childhood by arguing for the valuing of slow pedagogies and slow knowledge Alison Clark points to alternative practices in Early Childhood Education and Care that enable a different pace and rhythm against the backdrop of the acceleration in early childhood and the proliferation of testing and measurement Diverse approaches are explored to enable an unhurried child and less hurried adults Slow Knowledge and the Unhurried Child is divided in three parts Part 1 Reasons to be slow looks at the pressures in Early Childhood Education and Care to speed up and for children to be readied for the next stage The book then explores different relationships with time for young children and educators Part 2 Slow pedagogies and practices explore some of the forms slow practices can take including outdoors in the studio in everyday routines through stories in pedagogical documentation and in slow research Part 3 Moving forward shows what a timefull approach to ECEC can look like whilst debating the challenges and possibilities that exist The book serves as a catalyst for urgent discussion about the need to slow down in early childhood education and teacher education and explores case studies of where slow early childhood education are already happening It will be a key reading for researchers practitioners and policy makers about the relationship with time in early childhood and the importance of taking a longer view
