Photo Provocations Thinking In With And About Photographs:

Photo Provocations Brian Clark O'Connor, Roger B. Wyatt, 2004 O Connor and Wyatt use more than 250 color photographs and illustrations to help us break out of the linear mode and see the world differently. There is a wild ride through the language of images that may leave the reader/viewer a bit dizzy but excited and definitely better informed about how to communicate visually. Faculty in information studies and education or anyone involved in image creation, organization, management, interpretation, and visual design will especially enjoy developing their visual language skills with the help of O'Connor and Wyatt.

Photo Provocations Brian Clark O'Connor, 2004 Feeling Photography Elspeth H. Brown, Thy Phu, 2014-09-09 This innovative collection demonstrates the profound effects of feeling on our experiences and understanding of photography. It includes essays on the tactile nature of photos, the relation of photography to sentiment and intimacy, and the ways that affect pervades the photographic archive. Concerns associated with the affective turn, intimacy, alterity, and ephemerality, as well as queerness, modernity, and loss, run through the essays. At the same time, the contributions are informed by developments in critical race theory, postcolonial studies, and feminist theory. As the contributors bring affect theory to bear on photography, some interpret the work of contemporary artists such as Catherine Opie, Tammy Rae Carland, Christian Boltanski, Marcelo Brodsky, Zoe Leonard, and Rea Tajiri. Others look back, whether to the work of the American Pictorialist F. Holland Day or to the discontent masked by the smiles of black families posing for cartes de visite in a Kodak marketing campaign. With more than sixty photographs, including twenty in color, this collection changes how we see, think about, and feel photography, past and present.

Indexing and Retrieval of Non-Text Information Diane Rasmussen Neal, 2012-10-30 The scope of this volume will encompass a collection of research papers related to indexing and retrieval of online non-text information. In recent years, the Internet has seen an exponential increase in the number of documents placed online that are not in textual format. These documents appear in a variety of contexts such as user-generated content, sharing websites, social networking websites, etc., and formats including photographs, videos, recorded music, data visualizations, etc. The prevalence of these contexts and data formats presents a particularly challenging task to information indexing and retrieval research due to many difficulties such as assigning suitable semantic metadata, processing and extracting non-textual content automatically, and designing retrieval systems that speak in the native language of non text documents Images in Social Media Susanne Ørnager,Haakon Lund,2022-06-01 This book focuses on the methodologies organization and communication of digital image collection research that utilizes social media content Image is here understood as a cultural conventional and commercial stock photo representation The lecture offers expert views that provide different interpretations of images and their potential implementations Linguistic and semiotic methodologies as well as eye tracking research are employed to both analyze images and comprehend how humans consider them including which salient features generally attract viewers attention This literature review covers image specifically photographic research since 2005 when major social media platforms emerged A citation analysis includes an overview of co citation maps that demonstrate the nexus of image research literature and the journals in which they appear Eye tracking tests whether scholarly templates focus on the proper features of an image such as people objects time etc and if a prescribed theme affects the eye movements of the observer The results may point to renewed requirements for building image search engines As it stands image management already requires new algorithms and a new understanding that involves text recognition and very large database processing The aim of this book is to present different image research areas and demonstrate the challenges image research faces The book s scope is by necessity far from comprehensive since the field of digital image research does not cover fake news image manipulation mobile photos etc these issues are very complex and need a publication of their own This book should primarily be useful for students in library and information science psychology and computer science
