Fasting and Feasting Adam Federman, 2018-09-14 For more than 30 years Patience Gray author of the celebrated cookbook Honey from a Weed lived in a remote area of Puglia in southernmost Italy She lived without electricity modern plumbing or a telephone grew much of her own food and gathered and ate wild plants alongside her neighbors in this economically impoverished region She was fond of saying that she wrote only for herself and her friends yet her growing reputation brought a steady stream of international visitors to her door This simple and isolated life she chose for herself may help explain her relative obscurity when compared to the other great food writers of her time M F K Fisher Elizabeth David and Julia Child So it is not surprising that when Gray died in 2005 the BBC described her as an almost forgotten culinary star Yet her influence particularly among chefs and other food writers has had a lasting and profound effect on the way we view and celebrate good food and regional cuisines Gray's prescience was unrivaled She wrote about what today we would call the Mediterranean diet and Slow Food from foraging to eating locally long before they became part of the cultural mainstream Imagine if Michael Pollan or Barbara Kingsolver had spent several decades living among Italian Greek and Catalan peasants recording their recipes and the significance of food and food gathering to their way of life In Fasting and Feasting biographer Adam Federman tells the remarkable and until now untold life story of Patience Gray from her privileged and intellectual upbringing in England to her trials as a single mother during World War II to her career working as a designer editor translator and author and describing her travels and culinary adventures in later years A fascinating and spirited woman Patience Gray was very much a part of her times but very clearly ahead of them
