demonstrates that diverse and often contradictory treatments of sexual violence exist simultaneously The Female Investigator in Literature, Film, and Popular Culture Lisa M. Dresner, 2014-12-24 In this book the author examines how women detectives are portrayed in film in literature and on TV Chapters examine the portrayal of female investigators in each of these four genres the Gothic novel the lesbian detective novel television and film Diversity and Detective Fiction Kathleen Gregory Klein, 1999 The distinguishing characteristic of the book is its mix of essays focusing on teaching cultural diversity in the classroom and illustrating diversity through fiction to the general readers BOOK JACKET Women Who Run the Show Mollie Gregory, 2003-11 Women who stormed the gates of Hollywood's boys club over the past three decades tell their stories in this inside look at the new feminine face of the movie industry Cinematic Howling Hoi Cheu, 2010-10-01 Cinematic Howling presents a refreshingly unorthodox framework for feminist film studies Instead of criticizing mainstream movies from feminist perspectives Hoi Cheu focuses on women's filmmaking itself Integrating systems theory and feminist aesthetics in his close readings of films and screenplays by women he considers how women engage the process of storytelling in cinema The importance of these films he argues is not merely that they reflect women's perceptions but that they have the power to reframe experiences and consequently to transform life A major contribution to feminist scholarship that will appeal to scholars of both gender and film Cinematic Howling is written in an approachable and inviting style full of vivid examples and attention to detail which will suit both undergraduate and graduate courses in gender film and cultural studies Cinema and Spectatorship Judith Mayne, 2002-09-11 Cinema and Spectatorship is the first book to focus entirely on the history and role of the spectator in contemporary film studies While 1970s film theory insisted on a distinction between the cinematic subject and filmgoers Judith Mayne suggests that a very real friction between subjects and viewers is in fact central to the study of spectatorship In the book's first section Mayne examines three theoretical models of spectatorship the perceptual the institutional and the historical while the second section focuses on case studies which crystallize many of the issues already discussed concentrating on textual analysis the disrupting genre star gazing and finally the audience itself Case studies include the place of the spectator in the textual analysis of individual films such as The Picture of Dorian Gray the construction of Bette Davis star persona fantasies of race and film viewing in Field of Dreams and Ghost and gay and lesbian audiences as critical audiences The book provides a very thorough and accessible overview of this complex fragmented and often controversial area of film theory Media and Male Identity J. Macnamara, 2006-08-11 This book presents a landmark in depth study of how mass media contributes to the making and remaking of male identity It concludes that unless addressed the effects of negative discourse on the self identity and self esteem of men are potentially devastating and that the longer term and wider social implications will also be costly Screen Tastes Charlotte Brunsdon, 2005-07-26 Charlotte Brunsdon's key writings on film and television are brought together with new introductions which contextualise and update the arguments The focus is on the tastes and pleasures of the female consumer as she is
