last for ever The Colorblind Screen Sarah E. Turner, 2014-04-04 The election of President Barack Obama signaled for many the realization of a post racial America a nation in which racism was no longer a defining social cultural and political issue While many Americans espouse a colorblind racial ideology and publicly endorse the broad goals of integration and equal treatment without regard to race in actuality this attitude serves to reify and legitimize racism and protects racial privileges by denying and minimizing the effects of systematic and institutionalized racism In The Colorblind Screen the contributors examine television's role as the major discursive medium in the articulation and contestation of racialized identities in the United States While the dominant mode of televisual racialization has shifted to a colorblind ideology that foregrounds racial differences in order to celebrate multicultural assimilation the volume investigates how this practice denies the significant social economic and political realities and inequalities that continue to define race relations today Focusing on such iconic figures as President Obama LeBron James and Oprah Winfrey many chapters examine the ways in which race is read by television audiences and fans Other essays focus on how visual constructions of race in dramas like 24 Sleeper Cell and The Wanted continue to conflate Arab and Muslim identities in post 9 11 television The volume offers an important intervention in the study of the televisual representation of race engaging with multiple aspects of the mythologies developing around notions of a post racial America and the duplicitous discursive rationale offered by the ideology of colorblindness

Arabs and Muslims in the Media Evelyn Alsultany, 2012-08-20 After 9 11 there was an increase in both the incidence of hate crimes and government policies that targeted Arabs and Muslims and the proliferation of sympathetic portrayals of Arabs and Muslims in the U S media Arabs and Muslims in the Media examines this paradox and investigates the increase of sympathetic images of the enemy during the War on Terror Evelyn Alsultany explains that a new standard in racial and cultural representations emerged out of the multicultural movement of the 1990s that involves balancing a negative representation with a positive one what she refers to as simplified complex representations This has meant that if the storyline of a TV drama or film represents an Arab or Muslim as a terrorist then the storyline also includes a positive representation of an Arab Muslim Arab American or Muslim American to offset the potential stereotype Analyzing how TV dramas such as West Wing The Practice 24 Threat Matrix The Agency Navy NCIS and Sleeper Cell news reporting and non profit advertising have represented Arabs Muslims Arab Americans and Muslim Americans during the War on Terror this book demonstrates how more diverse representations do not in themselves solve the problem of racial stereotyping and how even seemingly positive images can produce meanings that can justify exclusion and inequality Sydney Mackenzie
