Economic Recovery in Africa V. Makhan, 2002-05-17 African countries have experienced modest economic recovery during the 1990s But these countries are caught in a vicious circle in which the existing economic structure cannot generate enough savings and export earnings needed to finance their development and mount a sustained assault on widespread poverty Yet foreign aid has been cut back sharply and the continent receives only a trickle of foreign investment flows New policy regimes are now in place creating the right environment for external financing to make a major difference Development finance is one of the foremost challenges facing African countries and the international community in the new century

Family Welfare and Development in Africa, 1977 Family Demography and Post-2015 Development Agenda in Africa Clifford O. Odimegwu, 2019-08-27 This book is a comprehensive analysis of the structure determinants and consequences of changes in sub Saharan African families thereby representing an Afrocentric description of the emerging trends It documents various themes in the sub disciplines of family demography The first section of the book focuses on philosophical understanding of African family its theoretical perspectives and comparative analysis of family in the 20th and 21st centuries The second section covers family formation union dissolution emerging trend in single parenthood and adolescents in the family The following section describes types determinants and consequences of African family changes health childbearing youth development teen pregnancy and family violence and the last chapter provides systematic evidence on existing laws and policies governing African family structure and dynamics As such it illustrates the importance of family demography in African demographic discourse and will be an interesting read to scholars and students in the field of demography social workers policy makers departments of Social Development in countries in Africa and relevant international agencies and all those interested in understanding the African family trajectory The Demographic Transition and Development in Africa Charles Teller,Assefa Hailemariam,2011-03-04 The heated Malthusian Bosrupian debates still rage over consequences of high population growth rapid urbanization dense rural populations and young age structures in the face of drought poverty food insecurity environmental degradation climate change instability and the global economic crisis However while facile generalizations about the lack of demographic change and lack of progress in meeting the MDGs in sub Saharan Africa are commonplace they are often misleading and belie the socio cultural change that is occurring among a vanguard of more educated youth Even within Ethiopia the second largest country at the Crossroads of Africa and the Middle East different narratives emerge from analysis of longitudinal micro level analysis as to how demographic change and responses are occurring some more rapidly than others The book compares Ethiopia with other Africa countries and demonstrates the uniqueness of an African type demographic transition a combination of poverty related negative factors unemployment disease food insecurity along with positive education health and higher age of marriage trends that are pushing this ruggedly rural and land locked population to accelerate the demographic transition and stay on track to meet most of the MDGs This book takes great care with the challenges of inadequate data and weak analytical capacity to research this incipient transition trying to unravel some of the complexities in this vulnerable Horn of Africa country A slowly declining population growth rates with rapidly declining child mortality very high chronic under nutrition already low urban fertility but still very high rural fertility and high population resource pressure along with rapidly growing small urban places The Development Process Akin Mabogunje,2015-12-14 Written from the perspective of developing countries this book discusses the development process from a spatial perspective focussing particularly on the evolution of the intra national space economy With emphasis on African nations this book offers a distinctive interpretation of the current situation and policy prescriptions differing significantly from previous literature in the area Population and Development W.T.S. Gould,2015-05-08 The new edition of Population and Development offers an up to date perspective on one of the critical issues at the heart of the problems of development for all countries and especially those that seek to implement major economic and social change the reflexive relationships between a country s population and its development How does population size distribution age structure and skill base affect development patterns and prospects How has global development been affected by regional population change Retaining the structure of the well received first edition the book has been substantially revised and updated The opening chapters of the book establish the theoretical and historical basis for examining the basic reflexive relationship with exploration of the Malthusian perspective and its critics to examine how population change affects development and exploration of the Demographic Transition Model and its critics to examine how why and to what extent development drives population change These are followed by empirically rich chapters on each of the main components of population change mortality fertility internal and international migration age structures and skill base each elaborating key ideas with detailed and contrasting case studies from all regions of the developing world There are concluding and more integrative discussions on population policies and global population futures Bringing together Population Studies Development Studies and Geography the new edition of Population and Development is a key resource for undergraduate and postgraduate students across a range of programmes with specialist modules on population change There is a large bibliography with major new sections identifying a wide range of online resources for further study Each chapter contains a reading guide with discussion questions The text is enlivened by a number of case studies from around the world most of which are new or have been substantially revised Written by a leading international scholar in population the book successfully integrates cutting edge academic research with the focus and efforts of international development agencies
