Population Economy And Society In Pre Industrial England:

Population, Economy, and Society in Pre-industrial England Jonathan David Chambers, 1972 British Economic and Social History R. C. Richardson, William Henry Chaloner, 1996 British Population History Michael Anderson, 1996-07-13 This book brings together in one volume the four studies on British population history already published in the series New Studies in Economic and Social History and adds to them a new essay on British population in the twentieth century Between them the authors survey the trends and debates in British population history from 1348 to 1991 Research over the past twenty five years has transformed our understanding of how population has grown and declined of why the numbers of births deaths marriages and migrants have risen and fallen and thrown much new light on the economic and social impact of these changes The studies in this book supply introductions to these problems for readers who are not themselves demographers but who as students teachers or non specialist historians and social scientists want to know more about what happened and what are the main topics of current debate Full bibliographies for further study are included European Demography and Economic Growth W. R. Lee, 2021-08-29 First published in 1979 European Demography and Economic Growth presents a collection of essays on the demographic development of individual European economies like Austria Hungary Germany France Italy Norway Portugal etc It provides a comparative analysis to clarify many crucial issues connected with the growth in European population from mid eighteenth century It looks at the suitable criteria for assessing the applicability of general theory to the experience of individual nations It showcases the over riding contrast between substantial economic variations on a national and regional level and the existence of common underlying demographic trends This book will be useful for scholars and researchers of economic history political economy European history population geography and economics in general English Society 1580-1680 Keith Wrightson, 2013-06-17 English Society 1580-1680 paints a fascinating picture of society and rural change in the late sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries Keith Wrightson discusses both the enduring characteristics of society as well as the course of social change and emphasizes the wide variation in experience between different social groups and local communities This is an excellent interpretation of English society its continuity and its change The British Gentry, the Southern Planter, and the Northern Family Farmer James L. Huston, 2015-05-04 JAMES L. HUSTON is professor of history at Oklahoma State University and the author of The Panic of 1857 and The Coming of the Civil War Securing the Fruits of Labor The American Concept of Wealth Distribution 1765-1900 Calculating the Value of the Union Slavery Property Rights and the Economic Origins of the Civil War and Stephen A. Douglas and the Dilemmas of Democratic Equality Pre-industrial England B. A. Holderness, 1976 A Millennium of Family Change Wally Seccombe, 1995-10-17 How do changes in family form relate to changes in society as a whole In a work which combines theoretical rigour with historical scope Wally Seccombe provides a powerful study of the changing structure of families from the Middle Ages to the beginning of the Industrial Revolution

Responding to feminist critiques of sex blind historical materialism Secombe argues that family forms must be seen to be at the heart of modes of production He takes issue with the mainstream consensus in family history which argues that capitalism did not fundamentally alter the structure of the nuclear family and makes a controversial intervention in the long standing debate over European marriage patterns and their relation to industrialization Drawing on an astonishing range of studies in family history historical demography and economic history A Millennium of Family Change provides an integrated overview of the long transition from feudalism to capitalism illuminating the far reaching changes in familial relations from peasant subsistence to the making of the modern working class

Industiarlization before Industiarlization Peter Kriedte, Hans Medick, Jurgen Schlumbohm, 1982-01-28 Beginning in the late Middle Ages and accelerating in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries there developed in many rural regions of Europe a domestic industry mass producing craft goods for distant markets This book presents an analysis of this industrialization before industrialization and considers the question whether it constituted a distinct mode of production different from the preceding feudal economy and from subsequent industrial capitalism or was part of a process of continuous evolution characterized by the spread of wage labour and the penetration of capitalism into the process of production It is a full scale attempt to take a look at the place of proto industrialization in the genesis of capitalism and will interest economic and social historians as well as anthropologists sociologists and others concerned with the development of capitalism

Christ's Hospital of London, 1552-1598 Carol Manzione, 1995-07 Christ s Hospital was not established as a foundling hospital but as an orphanage and school for the fatherless children other poor men s children that were not able to keep them It was not a warehouse for unwanted children but a safe place where they received more than just physical care The goal of Christ s Hospital was to return these children back to society as useful and productive members It is a unique institution in that it also performed as an agent of general poor relief giving money and pensions to elderly and sick adults even if they were childless It appears that Christ s in concert with St

The Cambridge Economic History of Modern Britain Roderick Floud, Paul Johnson, 2003 Publisher Description

The Medieval Antecedents of English Agricultural Progress Bruce M.S. Campbell, 2023-05-31 Until recently historians tended to stress the perceived technological and ecological shortcomings of medieval agriculture The ten essays assembled in this volume offer a contrary view Based upon close documentary analysis of the demesne farms managed for and by lords they show that by 1300 in the most commercialized parts of England production decisions were based upon relative factor costs and commodity prices Moreover when and where economic conditions were ripe and environmental and institutional circumstances favourable medieval cultivators successfully secured high and ecologically sustainable levels of land productivity They achieved this by integrating crop and livestock production into the sort of manure intensive systems of mixed husbandry which later underpinned the more celebrated output growth of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries If medieval agriculture failed to fulfill the production potential provided by wider adoption of such systems this is more appropriately explained by the want of the kind of market incentives that might have justified investment innovation and specialization on the scale that characterized the so called agricultural revolution than either the lack of appropriate agricultural technology or the innate backwardness of medieval cultivators

On the Causes of Economic Growth Carlos Sabillon,2008 In a sweeping review of economic history the author presents the salient facts of booms and slowdowns in the major economies of the world in 50 year intervals and demonstrates the weakness of orthodox theories The only factor that consistently causes growth he shows is centralized support for manufacturing which spurs the creation of new technologies which lead to wealth creation Since the earliest of times human beings have endeavored to uncover the causes of prosperity Step by step Sabillon tests the principal theories on the causes of economic growth against the facts of history Here economic statistics of the world are presented in a rationalized format that allows for comparison across countries and through time with a challenge to those who study them to determine with an open mind what the statistics show and what are the trends beyond cherished theories that suit various political purposes Tested against the historical data textbook ideas and theories consistently come up short Such analyses are highly troubling because they reveal an absence of correlation between theory and reality The data statistics illustrating the development of the world economy during the last several centuries were extracted from economic history and economic history books from publications of the World Bank the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development the International Monetary Fund the World Trade Organization the United Nations specialized agencies research institutes and country statistical publications and other books and journals Analyzing the data over geography and time Sabillon concludes that contrary to contemporary wisdom left to market forces alone the economy will not and does not flourish Only decisive intervention in support of manufacturing and technological advancement can provide growth This systematic review of history and test of accepted dogma challenges economic theorists to consider one part of the equation of economic policy that has been wiped off the blackboard in today s politically correct debates

Re-Thinking Kinship and Feudalism in Early Medieval Europe Stephen D. White,2023-07-07 This is the second collection of studies by Stephen D White to be published by Variorum the first being Feuding and Peace Making in Eleventh Century France The essays in this volume look principally at France and England from Merovingian and Anglo Saxon times up to the 12th century They analyze Latin and Old French discourses that medieval nobles used to construct their relationships with kin lords men and friends and investigate the political dimensions of such relationships with particular reference to patronage clientage the use of land as an item of exchange and feuding In so doing the essays call into question the conventional practice of studying kinship and feudalism as independent systems of legal institutions and propose new strategies for studying them
