Population Growth And Agrarian Change:

Population Growth and Agrarian Change David B. Grigg, 1980-12-18 This book first published in 1980 suggests some ways of looking at the interrelationships between population growth and agrarian change and uses these approaches to consider the demographic and agrarian problems of various parts of Europe in the past in the fourteenth century the sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries and in the early nineteenth century Population Growth and Agrarian Change, 1975 Population growth and agrarian change David Brian Grigg, 1980 Conditions of Agricultural Growth Ester Boserup, 2013-11-05 Investigating the process of agrarian change this book analyzes costs and productivity under the main systems of primitive agriculture The conclusion is that technical economic and social changes are unlikely to take place within primitive agriculture unless the rural community concerned is exposed to the pressure of population growth a conclusion that is in sharp contrast to generally accepted ideas The themes in the book are central to the discussion of the problems of population explosion and the world's undernourished peoples The Conditions of Agricultural Growth Ester Boserup, 1965 The dynamics and land utilization The interdependence of land use and technical change Labour productivity under long fallow and short fallow systems Carrying capacity of land and productivity of labor under intensive agriculture Population growth and working hours The co existence of cultivation systems Diminishing returns to labour and technical inertia The vicious circle of sparse population and primitive techniques Systems of land use as a determinant of land tenure Investment and tenure in tribal communities Rural investment under landlord tenure Incentives to investment under modern tenure Population Growth and Agrarian Change D. B. Grigg, 1980-12-18 Since the 1950s much attention has been paid to the effect of rapid population growth on the rural societies of the Third World Yet it is often forgotten that Europe faced similar problems in the past This book first published in 1980 suggests some ways of looking at the interrelationships between population growth and agrarian change and uses these approaches to consider the demographic and agrarian problems of various parts of Europe in the past in the fourteenth century the sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries and in the early nineteenth century These places are then compared with rural societies in the developing world at the present time Population Pressure and Agrarian Change R. Committee on economic demography, 1976* Agrarian change and population growth Committee on Economics and Demography, IUSSP., 19?? Population Growth and Agrarian Change in Early Modern England Mark Overton, University of Newcastle upon Tyne. Department of Geography, 197? The Dynamics of Agricultural Change David Grigg, 2019-08-06 First published in 1982 Until the nineteenth century the history of agriculture was the history of mankind but it has not perhaps received the wide attention that this importance justifies In this study the author reviews for the student of agricultural history successive attempts to describe and explain agricultural changes that are not specific to a limited area or a particular time In a sense The Dynamics of Agricultural Change is a systematic historical geography of agriculture Some of the models the author explores have been developed within agricultural history some drawn from other disciplines can be applied fruitfully to it What is the relationship between population growth and agricultural development Between environmental changes and those in agriculture What was the effect of the industrial revolution And has there been an agricultural revolution This book suggests to university students of economic history historical geography and agriculture a number of stimulating ways of interpreting and reinterpreting agricultural history      Agrarian Change and Economic Development E.L. Jones,S.J. Woolf,2013-11-05 Agrarian Change and Economic Development is a landmark volume that examines the historical experience of the relationship between agrarian change and economic development Because agriculture was until recently man s dominant occupation scholars have traditionally drawn little attention to its immense historical importance The essays in this book redress this balance and illustrate the significance of the western world s escape from an overwhelmingly agrarian condition It is therefore an ideal work for encouraging those concerned with current problems to perceive agricultural development as professional historians see it and to question the oversimplified historical analogies commonly employed in development economics Presenting historical examples of change within particular agricultural systems and discussing their implications for national economic development both social scientists and planners less concerned with historical revision will have equal reason to welcome these case studies of the long run interaction of agrarian change and economic activity This classic book was first published in 1969      Class, Power and

Agrarian Change J. Pincus,1996-07-31 The book examines patterns of class structure production relations and capitala accumulation in three West Java villages It explores the hidden assumptions underlying conventional theories of agrarian change and demonstrates the importance of class structure and class power in shaping patterns of change at the village level Topics include the methodology of measuring class differentiation changes in labour market institutions and real wages and strategies of capital accumulation pursued by village elites      The Medieval Antecedents of English Agricultural Progress

Bruce M.S. Campbell,2023-05-31 Until recently historians tended to stress the perceived technological and ecological shortcomings of medieval agriculture The ten essays assembled in this volume offer a contrary view Based upon close documentary analysis of the demesne farms managed for and by lords they show that by 1300 in the most commercialized parts of England production decisions were based upon relative factor costs and commodity prices Moreover when and where economic conditions were ripe and environmental and institutional circumstances favourable medieval cultivators successfully secured high and ecologically sustainable levels of land productivity They achieved this by integrating crop and livestock production into the sort of manure intensive systems of mixed husbandry which later underpinned the more celebrated output growth of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries If medieval agriculture failed to fulfill the production potential provided by wider adoption of such systems this is more appropriately explained by the want of the kind of market incentives that might have justified investment innovation and specialization on the scale that characterized the so called agricultural revolution than either the lack of appropriate agricultural technology or the innate backwardness of medieval cultivators
