Port Of Dover Two Centuries Of Shipping On The Cochecho:

Port of Dover Robert A. Whitehouse, Cathleen C. Beaudoin, 1988 Historic Powder Houses of New England Matthew E. Thomas, 2013-11-05 In the turbulent history of colonial New England more than two hundred powder houses were built to store gunpowder guns and armaments Even the spark from a metal shoe nail could ignite their contents so they often sat in remote sections of town These volatile storehouses played a vital role in earning and preserving American independence It was after all to a powder house in Concord Massachusetts that the British army marched in April 1775 to seize colonists gunpowder The British were thwarted and the colonists defense of the powder house ignited the Revolutionary War Add to this the duels murders public hangings and tragic explosions that checkered the history of these structures and the reader will discover a fascinating and forgotten aspect of our New England heritage Using meticulous research Matthew Thomas narrates the colorful histories of New England s powder houses as he resurrects their historical significance in early American history Spaulding Turnpike Improvements NHS-027-1(37), 11238, Newington to Dover, Strafford and Rockingham Counties ,2007 The Company Town John S. Garner, 1992 Company towns those associated with textiles mining or tool manufacturing for example are found worldwide and have been in existence for many centuries But with the coming of the Industrial Revolution what had been isolated instances of town building became a veritable phenomenon With explosive growth virtually hundreds of them appeared in the Western World until about the time of the Great Depression with development most intensive and homogenous in Europe and the Americas Although the technological experience of the Industrial Revolution has been widely chronicled and the stories of misplaced banking and exploited labor well documented until now the actual settings of company towns and the overall achievement in industrial architecture and town planning have been largely ignored The Company Town describes the concurrent development and building of selected towns in Europe and the Americas assessing technical advances in factory building worker housing and the public buildings that owner industrialists in their capacity as philanthropists bestowed upon such towns In many instances the company town came to symbolize the wrecking of the environment especially in places associated with extractive industries such as mining and lumber milling Some resident industrialists however took a genuine interest in the welfare of their work forces and in a number of instances hired architects to provide a model environment Overtaken by time these towns were either abandoned or caught up in suburban growth The most thorough going and only international assessment of the company town this collection of essays by specialists and authorities of each region offers a balanced account of architectural and social history and provides a better understanding of the architectural and urban experiences of the early industrial age Constructing Munitions of War Richard Elliott Winslow, 1995 John Paul Jones and the Ranger Joseph G.
