Handbook of Literacy and Technology David Reinking, Michael C. McKenna, Linda D. Labbo, Ronald D. Kieffer, 1998-04-01 The major shift going on today in the technologies of reading and writing raises important questions about conventional conceptions of literacy and its role in education society and culture What are the important characteristics of electronic forms of reading and writing distinguishing them from printed forms To what extent and in what ways is literacy being transformed by new technologies This central question is addressed in this volume from diverse multidisciplinary perspectives The contributing authors focus on a guiding question in one of the following areas which correspond to the major sections of the book Transforming Texts What are the new differences between printed and electronic texts and what are the implications of new textual forms for defining literacy especially in regard to teaching and learning in schools Transforming Readers and Writers How do electronic reading and writing change conceptualizations of literacy development from childhood through adulthood Transforming Classrooms and Schools What are the effects of introducing new reading and writing technologies into schools and classrooms Transforming Instruction How can instruction be adapted in response to the changing literacy landscape and how can teachers and students exploit forms of reading and writing to enhance teaching and learning Transforming Society What are the broad societal implications of the increasing prevalence of electronic forms of reading and writing Transforming Literacy Research What are the questions that must be addressed as digital reading and writing become more common and what approaches to research will be most useful in addressing those questions This volume is the result of an interactive process The contributors met as a group to discuss drafts of their chapters at a one day meeting convened and sponsored by the National Reading Research Center and had read each others chapters prior to this gathering That meeting was followed by a two day conference attended by approximately 180 researchers educators and policymakers who responded to an open invitation to present papers and to attend sessions focusing on the six major themes of the book Contributors then revised their chapters based on interactions with fellow contributors conference participants and volume editors Thus this work is more than just a compilation of the individual authors views Rather it represents a synthesis of a broad range of current thinking about how literacy is being and may be transformed by technology

Research Review for School Leaders William G. Wraga, Peter S. Hlebowitsh, Founding Editor Tanner, Daniel Tanner, 2012-08-06 The Research Review for School Leaders Volume III is specifically designed as a practical resource for school leaders whose schedules preclude opportunities to locate and review key research on every issue they must address It places comprehensive current and accessible reviews of educational research at their fingertips and is organized to make the research and practices it summarizes useful to them in their professional endeavors This is the third volume of the Review Although the title has changed its purpose and substance is continuous with the work of the earlier volumes The first Annual Review of Research for School Leaders 1996 summarized research on the status of public schooling interdisciplinary curriculum and educational applications of computers The second volume 1998 addressed the topics of middle level education the extracurriculum mathematics education reform and drop outs The present Volume III offers educational leaders reviews of research on five timely educational issues citizenship education multicultural education gifted and talented education classroom assessment and scheduling A basic premise of this volume is that to make sound decisions professionals need to be up to date on current research related to the problems with which they grapple A second premise is that research cannot simply be imposed in a formulaic way on a local setting the nature of the particular problem to be solved will always bear upon the relevance of research to a specific context Thus this volume is envisioned as a helpful resource for school leaders as they engage in important discussions of the research with teachers school board members parents and other interested parties as they collaboratively seek effective resolutions to local educational problems
