Resources in Education ,2001-04      Success Factors Among Community College Students in an Online Learning

Environment Paula B. Doherty,2000-08-16 Little is known about student success in online learning environments especially how the predisposing characteristics that the learner brings to the learning environment may differentially affect student outcomes This study explored the question of whether a student s readiness to be a self directed learner is a predictor of student success in an online community college curriculum The specific goal of this investigation was to determine whether there was a significant relationship between self directed learning readiness as measured by Guglielmino s 1977 Self Directed Learning Readiness Scale SDLRS and student success as measured by course completion grade point average GPA and student satisfaction the latter assessed by student responses to an opinion poll The subjects of this study were community college students in the state of Washington enrolled in one or more transfer level online courses delivered via WashingtonONLINE WAOL during fall quarter 1999 Students who voluntarily chose to respond to two elective surveys comprised the study sample A correlational research design was used to test the explanatory power of self directed learning readiness and to describe the relationships between variables Since this study was designed to test hypothesized relationships the resulting correlation coefficients were interpreted in terms of their statistical significance The expected outcome of this study was to confirm or disconfirm a statistically significant relationship between self directed learning readiness and student success in an online community college curriculum The findings of this study failed to achieve this outcome due to 1 the lack of statistical reliability of the SDLRS among the subject population 2 the resulting lack of validity of the SDLRS among the study sample 3 a nonresponse effect and 4 a self selection effect The unanticipated outcome of this study was evidence that student perception of student instructor interactions is a single variable predictor of student success among community college students in an online learning environment Recommendations for further study include Web specific research methodologies that address the potentially deleterious effects of nonresponse and self selection in cyber research environments and continued exploration of the multiple facets of student success in asynchronous learning domains

Implementing Effective Policies for Remedial and Developmental Education Jan M. Ignash,1997 In 1894 forty percent of college freshmen enrolled in pre collegiate programs to prepare for regular college coursework In Fall 1995 twenty nine percent of entering freshmen enrolled in at least one remedial course The debate over the need for and appropriateness of remedial developmental education at the postsecondary level has spanned a century The upcoming 1998 Reauthorization of the Higher Education Act has added fuel to the debate Legislators educators and the general public are asking questions and raising accountability issues Who needs remedial developmental education Why does the need for it appear to be increasing How much does it cost Who should pay for it Are remedial developmental programs effective Who should provide it Legislators and the public are upset over the perception that they are paying twice for the same education once in high school and once again in college Educators are concerned about the potential devaluation of higher education through the provision of large amounts of remedial developmental education And students too are unhappy with the time and expense necessary to develop English and math skills that they should have learned in high school Each chapter of this volume addresses a specific policy question involved in the debate over remedial developmental education and uses national and state data as well as information from case studies of individual institutions to provide insights into effective approaches to remedial developmental education This is the one hundredth issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for Community Colleges For more information on the series please see the Journals and Periodicals section
