The Columbia Guide to Contemporary African American Fiction Darryl Dickson-Carr, 2005-12-06 In both the literal and metaphorical senses it seemed as if 1970s America was running out of gas The decade not only witnessed long lines at gas stations but a citizenry that had grown weary and disillusioned High unemployment runaway inflation and the energy crisis caused in part by U S dependence on Arab oil characterized an increasingly bleak economic situation As Edward D Berkowitz demonstrates the end of the postwar economic boom Watergate and defeat in Vietnam led to an unraveling of the national consensus During the decade ideas about the United States how it should be governed and how its economy should be managed changed dramatically Berkowitz argues that the postwar faith in sweeping social programs and a global U S mission was replaced by a more skeptical attitude about government s ability to positively affect society From Woody Allen to Watergate from the decline of the steel industry to the rise of Bill Gates and from Saturday Night Fever to the Sunday morning fervor of evangelical preachers Berkowitz captures the history tone and spirit of the seventies He explores the decade s major political events and movements including the rise and fall of d tente congressional reform changes in healthcare policies and the hostage crisis in Iran The seventies also gave birth to several social movements and the rights revolution in which women gays and lesbians and people with disabilities all successfully fought for greater legal and social recognition At the same time reaction to these social movements as well as the issue of abortion introduced a new facet into American political life the rise of powerful politically conservative religious organizations and activists Berkowitz also considers important shifts in American popular culture recounting the creative renaissance in American film as well as the birth of the Hollywood blockbuster He discusses how television programs such as All in the Family and Charlie s Angels offered Americans both a reflection of and an escape from the problems gripping the country

Johnson, 2009-09-11 Using the the Negro Problem in African American literature as a point of departure this book focuses on the profound impact that racism had on the literary imagination of black Americans specifically those in the South Although the South has been one of the most enduring sites of criticism in American Studies and in American literary history Johnson argues that it is impossible to consider what the South and what southernness mean as cultural references without looking at how black women have contributed to and contested any unified definition of that region Johnson challenges the homogeneity of a white South and southern cultural identity by recognizing how fictional and historical black women are underacknowledged agents of cultural change Johnson regards the South as a cultural region that re constructs black womanhood but she also considers how black womanhood have transformed the South Specialists in nineteenth and twentieth century American literature will find this book a necessary addition as will scholars of African American Literature and History Popular Fronts Bill V Mullen, 2024-04-22 The Communist International's Popular Front campaign of the 1930s brought to the fore ideas that resonated in Chicago's African American community. Indeed, the Popular Front not only connected to the black experience of the era but outlasted its Communist Party affiliation to serve as both model and inspiration for a postwar cultural insurrection led by African Americans. With a new preface, Bill V Mullen updates his dynamic reappraisal of a critical moment in American cultural history. Mullen's study includes reassessments of the politics of Richard Wright's critical reputation and a provocative reading of class struggle in Gwendolyn Brooks' A Street in Bronzeville. He also takes an in-depth look at the institutions that comprised Chicago's black popular front: the Chicago Defender, the period's leading black newspaper; Negro Story, the first magazine devoted to publishing short stories by and about African Americans; and the WPA-sponsored South Side Community Art Center. New Voices on the Harlem Renaissance Australia Tarver, Paula C. Barnes, 2006 This book expands the discourse on the Harlem Renaissance into more recent crucial areas for literary scholars, college instructors, graduate students, upper-level undergraduates, and Harlem Renaissance aficionados. These selected essays, authored by mostly new critics in Harlem Renaissance studies, address critical discourse in race, cultural studies, feminist studies, identity, politics, queer theory, and rhetoric and pedagogy. While some canonical writers are included, such as Langston Hughes and Alain Locke, others such as Dorothy West, Jessie Fauset, and Wallace Thurman have equal footing. Illustrations from several books and journals help demonstrate the vibrancy of this era. Australia Tarver is Associate Professor of English at Texas Christian University. Paula C. Barnes is an Associate Professor of English at Hampton University.
