Sectoral Systems of Innovation Franco Malerba, 2009 Sectoral Systems of Innovation and Production in Developing Countries Franco Malerba, Sunil Mani, 2009-01-01 Over the past decade there has been a dramatic increase in the quantity and quality of research focused on the processes through which technological capabilities are acquired by countries significantly behind the economic frontier and the institutions that effectively support the catching up process This book is a splendid contribution to this literature The concept of a sectoral innovation system is well suited for framing studies of these kinds of questions and serves well to unify the many interesting empirical studies in the book Some of those studies are success stories others of less successful cases Readers new to this body of research will find this book a great introduction All readers will learn a lot from it about what is required for and involved in economic development Richard R Nelson Columbia Earth Institute US and University of Manchester UK This book examines in detail the features and dynamics of sectoral systems of innovation and production in developing countries Processes of rapid growth are usually associated with specific sectors such as automobiles electronics or software as well as with the transformation of traditional sectors such as agriculture and food The book shows however that the variations across all these sectors in terms of structure and dynamics is so great that a full understanding of these differences is necessary if innovation is to be encouraged and growth sustained The expert contributors promote this understanding by drawing upon empirical evidence from a wide range of sectoral systems from traditional to high technology and across a number of countries They explore how these systems change and evolve highlighting policy lessons to be drawn from the analysis Case studies include the Brazilian aeronautical pulp and paper industries the Korean machine tool sector motorbike manufacture in Thailand and Vietnam pharmaceuticals and telecommunication equipment in India ICT in Taiwan the biofuels sector in Tanzania salmon farming in Chile and software in Uruguay Scholars and researchers in the fields of economics development economics in particular and innovation will find this book to be of great interest Policymakers and managers focussing on innovation and growth in developing countries will also warmly welcome the book The Oxford Handbook of Innovation Management Mark Dodgson, David M. Carayannis, George M. Korres, 2013-01-01 One of the most important economic events in recent decades has been the on going process of European integration This book provides a basic yet rigorous understanding of the current issues and problems of economic integration and innovation in Europe and argues that national or regional economic development depends mainly on technical change social and human capital and knowledge creation and diffusion This is clearly evident in the role of the Quadruple Innovation Helix of government university industry and civil society Uniquely the book examines the many aspects and consequences of the integration process that are obscure or as yet under researched. Challenges of African Transformation Mammo Muchie, Angathevar Baskaran, 2013-01-29. A brief overview of the African economic picture reveals a paradox where the continent that has rich mineral resources, nearly a billion people and a land mass which includes the sizes of China, USA, India, Western Europe, Argentina, together larger than the sum of these regions, is in an unacceptable state of being an object of aid, debt and loans despite the vast resources both known and yet to be explored. Africa should have been a productive and innovation centre and not a charity and aid centre of the world where donorship has replaced African national ownership of not just Africa's resources but even worse, Africa's own agency, autonomy and independence to shape policy and direction to undertake African integrated national development by establishing a science, engineering and technology based knowledge innovative learning and competent economy. The chapters in this volume address the application of the innovation approach to a variety of problems in Africa. Together they highlight the critical importance of the innovation systems approach in each of the issues the authors preferred to select and analyse. In the African context, the application of innovation goes beyond firms to the informal activities at grassroots level. The boundaries and the range of actors and activities for innovation application are varied and not limited. This variation is represented in this volume by the diverse issues that the authors dealt with in their research by applying as common the use and application of innovation. Tourism and Entrepreneurship Jovo Ateljevic, Stephen J. Exploiting Linkages for Building Technological Capabilities Mai Fujita, 2014-01-10 One of the key ingredients of success in building internationally competitive industries lies in amassing a sizeable pool of competent suppliers of parts components and accessories This monograph examines how in developing countries suppliers of mechanical components at the low end of the technological trajectory build up key capabilities over time The focus is on Vietnam's motorcycle industry which was rapidly transformed from a small highly protected market to the world's fourth largest motorcycle producer This rare success resulted from intense competition between leading Japanese motorcycle manufacturers and local Vietnamese assemblers of imported Chinese components both attempting to gain supremacy in the emerging market In particular the book analyzes how local Vietnamese suppliers of motorcycle components exploited participation in contrasting types of value chains developed by the two groups of leading manufacturing firms referred to here as Japanese and or Vietnamese Chinese chains for accumulating strategic know how On the basis of historical evidence and recent empirical data collected through repeated rounds of in depth fieldwork the analysis finds first those suppliers learning trajectories evolved over time resulting in a divergence in learning performance extending across suppliers in later phases of industrial development In the later stage high performing suppliers amassed basic innovative expertise constituting the bedrock of this fast growing industry Second the analysis finds that the diverging performance can be explained by the combination of roles played by lead firms in inducing and facilitating supplier learning and those of suppliers in mobilizing their own sources of knowledge These conclusions not only provide dynamic insightful accounts of supplier learning in developing country contexts but also make key theoretical and methodological contributions to the research on value chain participation and supplier learning

Promoting Balanced Competitiveness Strategies of Firms in Developing Countries Vivienne W L Wang, Elias G. Carayannis, 2011-11-06 Since the pioneering work of Joseph Schumpeter 1942 it has been assumed that innovations typically play a key role in firms competitiveness This assumption has been applied to firms in both developed and developing countries However the innovative capacities and business environments of firms in developing countries are fundamentally different from those in developed countries It stands to reason that innovation and competitiveness models based on developed countries may not apply to developing countries In this volume Vivienne Wang and Elias G Carayannis apply both theoretical approaches and empirical analysis to explore the dynamics of innovation in developing countries with a particular emphasis on R D in manufacturing firms In so doing they present an alternative to Michael Porter's Competitive Advantage Model a Competitive Position Model that focuses on incremental and adaptive innovations that are more appropriate than radical innovations for developing countries Their research addresses such questions as Do innovations advance the competitive positions of manufacturing firms in developing countries Does the pace of innovation matter in particular in socio economic and socio political contexts To what degree can national innovation systems and policies influence development To what extent do a firm's innovation commitments correlate with the protection of intellectual property rights What roles do foreign direct investment and relationships with clusters and networks play The resulting analysis not only challenges traditional theoretical approaches to innovation but provides suggestions for improving business practice and policymaking

Architects of Growth? Francis E Hutchinson, 2013-12-05 Once acting as local representatives of the national government and content to let their larger counterparts do the heavy lifting state and provincial governments are increasingly expected to be stewards of their economies and deliver sustained growth rates for their citizens Spurred on by increasing competition not least from neighbouring territories sub national governments are increasingly formulating their own plans for economic development taking out loans investing in specialist facilities and establishing marketing offices abroad Despite this increasingly challenging environment there is little research on what sub national governments can or should do to catalyze the development of their economies Focussing on the electronics sector this book draws together ten cases of promising states or provinces largely but not exclusively from Asia These dynamic regions have managed to outcompete the primary economic and political centres of power in their countries and are negotiating their own entry into one of the most challenging and demanding sectors In exploring the issues of agency autonomy and state business relations at the sub national level this book aims to shed light on a vital but overlooked topic
