Seeing Things Television In The Age Of Uncertainty:

Seeing Things John Ellis, Television the author argues responds to two powerful desires of our age it makes us witnesses of often traumatic events and it tries and fails to provide us with narratives that make sense of the world The author makes sense of modern television both by exploring its processes and in terms of its dynamic relationships with the cultures that provide it with raw material Television he proposes offers us multiple ways of understanding the world yet does not arbitrate between them He explores this process as one of working through whereby television news takes in the chaos and conflict of the world and subsequent programmes of all kinds offer diverse ways of unravelling its confusions from the psychobabble of talk shows to the open narratives of soaps documentaries and dramas By means of this working through problems are exhausted rather than resolved The author demonstrates how television s function in its new era is no longer that of building consensus rather it uses all the means at its disposal including sophisticated computer graphics to mediate etween conflicting approaches to our age of uncertainty Netflix and the Re-invention of Television Mareike Jenner,2018-07-24 This book deals with the various ways Netflix reconceptualises television as part of the process of TV IV As television continues to undergo a myriad of significant changes Netflix has proven itself to be the dominant force in this development simultaneously driving a number of these changes and challenging television s existing institutional structures This comprehensive study explores the pre history of Netflix the role of binge watching in its organisation and marketing and Netflix s position as a transnational broadcaster It also examines different concepts of control and the role these play in the history of ancillary technologies from the remote control to binge watching as Netflix s iteration of giving control to the viewers By focusing on Netflix s relationship with the linear television schedule its negotiations of quality and marketing as well as the way Netflix integrates into national media systems Netflix and the Re invention of Television illuminates the importance of Netflix s role within the processes of TV IV Other Cinemas Sue Clayton,Laura Mulvey,2017-06-30 The 1970s was an enormously creative period for experimental film Its innovations and debates have had far reaching and long lasting influence with a resurgence of interest in the decade revealed by new gallery events film screenings and social networks that recognise its achievements Professor Laura Mulvey and writer director Sue Clayton bring together journalists and scholars at the cutting edge of research into 1970s radical cinema for this collection Chapters are at once historically grounded yet fused with the current analysis of today s generation of cine philes to rediscover a unique moment for extraordinary film production Other Cinemas establishes the factors that helped to shape alternative film world cinema and internationalism the politics of cultural policy and arts funding new accessible technologies avant garde theories and the development of a dynamic and interactive relationship between film and its audiences Exploring and celebrating the work of The Other Cinema the London Film makers Co op and other cornerstones of today s film culture as well as the impact of creatives such as William Raban and Stephen Dwoskin and Mulvey and Clayton themselves this important book takes account of a wave of socially aware film practice without which today's activist queer minority and feminist voices would have struggled to gather such volume

After the Break Marijke Valck, Jan Teurlings, 2025-10-01 Television as we knew it is irrevocably changing Some are gleefully announcing the death of television others have been less sanguine but insist that television is radically changing underneath our eyes Several excellent publications have dealt with television's uncertain condition but few have taken the specific question of what television's transformations mean for the discipline of Television Studies as a starting point The essays collected in this volume aim to fill this void Two fundamental questions string the various contributions together First is television really in crisis or is the present not so extraordinary when revisiting television's development Second should we invent new theoretical concepts or are our old ones still perfectly relevant To answer such questions the authors in this volume take up diverse case studies ranging from the academic series Reading Contemporary Television to Flemish Fiction from nostalgic programming on broadcast television to YouTube from tell sell television shows to public television art in the 1980s

Biographical Television Drama Hannah Andrews, 2021-04-13 Biographical Television Drama breaks new ground as to my knowledge the first book length exploration of the terms in which television engages in biographical storytelling Backed by robust research in biography studies and British television history Hannah Andrews deftly unravels the complexities behind the accessibility of biographical television drama Her book tackles key questions head on notably rhetorics and style narrative and performance and innovatively ethics while also shedding light on the interconnections with other biographical screen forms through a rich corpus This is an essential critical study that vindicates television drama's unique place in the histories and practices of screen biography Bel n Vidal Senior Lecturer in Film Studies at King's College London and co editor of The Biopic in Contemporary Film Culture This book explores what happens when biography and television meet in a novel fusion of the two fields of study Andrews compares core concepts in biography and television studies such as intimacy the presentation of the self and the uneasy relationship between fact and fiction The book examines biographical drama's generic hybridity accounting for the influence of the film biopic docudrama melodrama and period drama It discusses biographical television drama's representation of real lives in terms of visual style performance and self reflexivity Andrews also assesses how life stories are shaped for televisual narrative formats and analyses the adaptation process for the biographical drama Finally the book considers various kinds of reputation of the broadcast institution author biographical subject in relation to the ethics of televisual biography

Locating Television Anna Cristina Pertierra, Graeme Turner, 2013 Locating Television Zones of Consumption takes an important next step for television studies and addresses the question of what is television now

Docudrama on European Television Tobias Ebbrecht-Hartmann, Derek Paget, 2016-07-12 This book explores docudrama as a creative response to troubled times With generic characteristics formed via traditions in theatre as well as film and with claims to fact underscored by investigative journalism television docudrama examines key events and personalities in unfolding national histories Post Fall of the Berlin

Wall docudrama has become a means for nations to work through traumatic experiences both within national borders and Europe wide In this regard it is an important genre for television networks as they attempt to make sense of complex current events These authors offer a template for further study and point towards ways in which European television cultures beyond those discussed here might be considered in the future

A new genre for television? Justin Hardy, 2025-05-27 In A New Genre for Television filmmaker Justin Hardy argues the dramatised history documentaries broadcast by British public service channels in the 2000s constituted a distinct television genre Offering a vital distinction between docudramas and drama documentaries Hardy contributes to the field of television history through exclusive interviews with key figures from BBC and Channel 4 many of whom have never been publicly interviewed before and envisions a future model for the portrayal of national histories on screen

Television Journalism Stephen Cushion, 2011-11-10 Amidst the glut of studies on new media and the news the enduring medium of television finally gets the attention it deserves Cushion brings television news back into perfect focus in a book that offers historical depth geographical breadth empirical analysis and above all political significance Through an interrogation of the dynamics of and relations between regulation ownership the working practices of journalism and the news audience Cushion makes a clear case for why and how television news should be firmly positioned in the public interest It should be required reading for anyone concerned with news and journalism

Natalie Fenton Goldsmiths University of London An admirably ambitious synthesis of journalism scholarship and journalism practice providing a comprehensive resource of historical analysis contemporary trends and key data

Stewart Purvis City University and former CEO of ITN Despite the democratic promise of new media television journalism remains the most viewed valued and trusted source of information in many countries around the world Comparing patterns of ownership policy and regulation this book explores how different environments have historically shaped contemporary trends in television journalism internationally Informed by original research Television Journalism lays bare the implications of market forces public service interventions and regulatory shifts in television journalism s changing production practices news values and audience expectations Accessibly written and packed with topical references this authoritative account offers fresh insights into the past present and future of journalism making it a necessary point of reference for upper level undergraduates researchers and academics in broadcasting journalism mass communication and media studies

Industrial Approaches to Media Matthew Freeman, 2016-10-19 This guidebook aimed at those interested in studying media industries provides direction in ways best suited to collaborative dialogue between media scholars and media professionals While the study of media industries is a focal point at many universities around the world promising as it might rich dialogues between academia and industry understandings of the actual methodologies for researching the media industries remain vague What are the best methods for analysing the workings of media industries and how does one navigate those methods in light of complex deterrents like copyright and policy not to mention the difficulty of gaining access to the media industries Responding to these questions Industrial Approaches to Media offers practical theoretical and ethical principles for the field of media industry studies providing its first full methodological exploration It features key scholars such as Henry Jenkins Michele Hilmes Paul McDonald and Alisa Perren
