Mindful Aesthetics Chris Danta, Helen Groth, 2013-11-07 In the last few decades literary critics have increasingly drawn insights from cognitive neuroscience to deepen and clarify our understanding of literary representations of mind This cognitive turn has been equally generative and contentious While cognitive literary studies has reinforced how central the concept of mind is to aesthetic practice from the classical period to the present critics have questioned its literalism and selective borrowing of scientific authority Mindful Aesthetics presents both these perspectives as part of a broader consideration of the ongoing and vital importance of shifting concepts of mind to both literary and critical practice This collection contributes to the forging of a new interdisciplinarity to paraphrase Alan Richardson s recent preface to the Neural Sublime that is more concerned with addressing how rather than why we should navigate the increasingly narrow gap between the humanities and the sciences

Before George Eliot Fionnuala Dillane, 2013-08-15 Fionnuala Dillane revisits the first decade of Marian Evans s working life to explore the influence of the periodical press on her emergence as George Eliot and on her subsequent responses to fame This interdisciplinary study discusses the significance of Evans's work as a journalist editor and serial fiction writer in the periodical press from the late 1840s to the late 1850s and positions this early career against critical responses to Evans's later literary persona George Eliot. Dillane argues that Evans's association with the nineteenth-century periodical industry that dominant cultural force of the age is important for its illumination of Evans's understanding of the formation of reading audiences, the development of literary genres, and the cultivation of literary celebrity.

Philosophy and Literature M.W. Rowe, 2017-11-28 Bringing together eight previously published essays by M.W. Rowe and a substantial new study of Larkin, this book emphasizes the profound affinities between philosophy and literature. Ranging over Plato, Shakespeare, Goethe, Arnold, and Wittgenstein, the first five essays explore an anti-theoretical conception of philosophy. This sees the subject as less concerned with abstract arguments that result in theories than with prompts intended to induce clarity of vision and psychical harmony. On this understanding, philosophy looks more like literature than logic. Conversely, the last four essays argue that literature is centrally concerned with truth and abstract thought and that literature is therefore a more cognitive and philosophical enterprise than is commonly supposed.

Fictions of Knowledge Y. Batsaki, S. Mukherji, J. Schramm, 2011-11-15 Locating literature at the intersection of distinct areas of thinking on the nature, scope, and methods of knowledge, philosophy, theology, science, and the law, this book engages with literary texts across periods and genres to address questions of probability, problems of evidence, the uses of experiment, and the poetics and ethics of doubt.
