The Seat of Consciousness in Ancient Literature Richard E. Lind, 2015-01-09 For early civilizations consciousness and the sense of self were experienced as located in the center of the body most often near to or within the physical heart Enlightenment was understood as the illumination of a transformed spiritual heart Thus the mind of the body as a whole was represented by the heart soul In contrast modern culture places consciousness within the brain resulting in a mind body dualism This separation of mind and body has recently been emphasized as characteristic of the psychopathologies of the modern self This volume explores the understanding and experience of consciousness in the earliest civilizations before about 500 BCE Beginning with a description of ancient Western and Eastern heart consciousness the psychological and spiritual manifestations of the ancient mature heart soul are summarized Ancestor worship lineage identity primitive consciousness and the ways in which the external world was mirrored by the inner world provide additional clues about the experience of heart consciousness Finally the work addresses the fundamental changes in the experience of consciousness that led to the mind body dualism of today

Passwords to Paradise Nicholas Ostler, 2016-02-23 In the beginning was the Word and the Word was with God and the Word was God So opens the Gospel of John an ancient text translated into almost every language at once a compelling and beguiling metaphor for the Christian story of the Beginning To further complicate matters the words we read now are in any number of languages that would have been unknown or unrecognizable at the time of their composition The gospel may have been originally dictated or written in Aramaic but our only written source for the story is in Greek Today as your average American reader of the New Testament picks up his or her Bible off the shelf the phrase as it appears has been translated from various linguistic intermediaries before its current manifestation in modern English How to understand these words then when so many other translators languages and cultures have exercised some level of influence on them Christian tradition is not unique in facing this problem All religions if they have global aspirations have to change in order to spread their influence and often language has been the most powerful agent thereof Passwords to Paradise explores the effects that language difference and language conversion have wrought on the world's great faiths spanning more than two thousand years It is an original and intriguing perspective on the history of religion by a master linguistic historian
