The conclusions and recommendations made in the book are derived from a study of ten teachers in Hong Kong as they tried to change their practice following a reform of the Hong Kong assessment system Hong Kong is simply a context that provided the opportunity to gather very rich and informative data on issues pertaining to assessment reforms which also have very wide implications in many countries contexts The book is written for practising teachers teachers in training teacher educators policy makers and researchers who are interested in teachers classroom practices teacher beliefs teacher professionalism implementation of educational reforms in general and high stakes assessment reforms in particular The structure of the book is organized in a manner that rapidly presents the case stories of the teachers to the readers These stories can be helpful to all teachers whether in training or experienced in a number of ways 1 as a set of ideas to be debated upon and to act as a springboard for reflection on the purposes of assessment in education and on the role of teachers in these purposes 2 as examples of practice that can be compared to the readers own existing practices and 3 as a source of models of practice to apply and test in readers own classrooms These case stories are followed by a discussion of a number of issues that arise from this group of teachers beliefs and practices To cater for research oriented readers the relevant literature theoretical underpinnings and the intriguing research methodology that led to the case stories will appear as appendices Pinning Down the Past Mike Corbishley,2014-04-17 In a relatively short period of time the pursuit of archaeology has evolved from an antiquarian interest to a specialised scientific activity Part of this evolution has always included the interest of the public and archaeologists efforts to educate them As each new method and technique is developed and each new specialism is created the challenge of making archaeology available as a learning resource grows with it Today for example the issues which surround archaeology and heritage such as the pressures of tourism on sites now form part of many formal educational curricula This book the first to deal with the subject in such depth examines the place of education and outreach within the wider archaeological community Written by one of Britain s leading archaeological educationalists it charts the sometimes difficult and painful growth and development of education and archaeology Packed full of informative and enlightening case studies from the circus at Colchester to Sutton Hoo and Hadrian s Wall this work examines exactly how we have reached the point we are at where that place is and suggests areas for future development By drawing upon many decades of experience at the front line of archaeological education the author has produced a key text that will play a major role in the on going development of the heritage industry Publisher s website Australian National
