Nine Wartime Lives James Hinton, Mass-Observation, 2010-01-14 A fascinating re evaluation of the social history of the second world war looking at the diaries kept by nine ordinary people in wartime Britain for the Mass Observation social research organization

Reading London in Wartime William Cederwell, 2017-11-06 Reading London in Wartime Blitz the People and Propaganda in 1940s Literature presents an expansive variety of writers and genres including non fiction and film approaches to build a comprehensive social picture of the atmosphere during wartime London From blitz and austerity to the nagging insistency of propaganda this volume examines the representation of London in wartime and early post war literature through each writer's unique perspective on the pressures of 1940s city life Exploring the use of London imagery this book considers how literature redirects attention to individual subjective experience at a time of enforced co operation uniformity and community Unlike government information films and news broadcasts which often used London to prop up prevailing clichés and stereotypes and encouraged patriotic support for the war literature had the freedom to express more recalcitrant truths London writing of the 1940s was not a literature of opposition or dissent but in offering more nuanced depictions of the period it was a counterweight to propaganda and the general war temperament In writing the city becomes a more complex place no longer the easy symbol of defiance and stoicism of the shared sacrifice of ration book and war work

The English in Love Claire Langhamer, 2013-08-22 Love has a history It has meant different things to different people at different moments and has served different purposes This book tells the story of love at a crucial point a moment when the emotional landscape changed dramatically for large numbers of people It is a story based in England but informed by America and covers the period from the end of the First World War until the break up of The Beatles To the casual observer this era was a golden age of marriage More people married than ever before They did so at increasingly younger ages And there was a revolution in our idea of what marriage meant Pragmatic notions of marriage as institution were superseded by the more romantic ideal of a relationship based upon individual emotional commitment love sex and personal fulfilment And yet this new idea of marriage based on a belief in the transformative power of love and emotion carried within it the seeds of its own destruction Romantic love particularly when tied to sexual satisfaction ultimately proved an unreliable foundation upon which to build marriages fatally it had the potential to evaporate over time and under pressure Scratching beneath the surface of the apparent golden age of marriage Claire Langhamer uncovers the real story of love in the twentieth century via the recollections of ordinary people who lived through the period It is a tale of quiet emotional instability persistent subversion and unsettling change At its end the idea of life long marriage was in serious decline And as Langhamer shows this was a decline directly rooted in the contradictions and tensions that lay at the heart of the emotional revolution itself

Berson, 2010-10-03. I Have a Story to Tell You is about Eastern European Jewish immigrants living in Montreal, Toronto, and Winnipeg in the early twentieth century. The stories encompass their travels and travails on leaving home and their struggles in the sweatshops and factories of the garment industry in Canada. Basing her work on extensive interviews, Seemah Berson recreates these immigrants' stories about their lives in the Old Country and the hardship of finding work in Canada, and she tells how many of these newcomers ended up in the needle trades. Revealing a fervent sense of socialist ideology acquired in the crucible of the Russian Revolution, the stories tell of the influence of Jewish culture and traditions of personal and organized fights against exploitation and of struggles to establish unions for better working conditions. This book is a wonderful resource for teachers of Canadian Jewish and social history as well as auto biography and cultural studies. The simplicity of the language transcribed from oral reports makes this work accessible to anyone who enjoys a good story.

What the Oceans Remember Sonja Boon, 2019-09-25. Author Sonja Boon's heritage is complicated. Although she has lived in Canada for more than thirty years, she was born in the UK to a Surinamese mother and a Dutch father. Boon's family history spans five continents: Europe, Africa, Southeast Asia, South America, and North America. Despite her complex and multi-layered background, she has often omitted her full heritage, replying "I'm Dutch Canadian" to anyone who asks about her identity. An invitation to join a family tree project inspired a journey to the heart of the histories that have shaped her identity. It was an opportunity to answer the two questions that have dogged her over the years: Where does she belong? And who does she belong to? Boon's archival research in Suriname, the Netherlands, the UK, and Canada brings her opportunities to reflect on the possibilities and limitations of the archives themselves, the tangleness of oceanic migration histories, the meaning of legacy, music, love, freedom, memory, ruin, and imagination. Ultimately, she reflected on the relevance of our past to understanding our present. Deeply informed by archival research and current scholarship but written as a reflective and intimate memoir, What the Oceans Remember addresses current issues in migration, identity, belonging, and history through an interrogation of race, ethnicity, gender, archives, and memory. More importantly, it addresses the relevance of our past to understanding our present. It shows the multiplicity of identities and origins that can shape the way we understand our histories and our own selves. Working Memory Marlene Kadar, Jeanne Perreault, 2015-07-31. Working Memory: Women and Work in World War II speaks to the work women did during the war: the labour of survival, resistance, and collaboration, and the labour of recording, representing, and memorializing these wartime experiences. The contributors follow their subjects' tracks and deepen our understanding of the experiences from the imprints left behind. These efforts are a part of the making of history and when the process is as personal as many of our contributors research has been it is also the working of memory The implication here is that memory is intimate and that the layering of narrative fragments that recovery involves brings us in touching distance to ourselves These are not the stories of the brave little woman at home they are stories of the woman who calculated the main chance and took up with the Nazi soldier or who eagerly dropped the apron at the door and picked up a paintbrush or who brazenly bargained for her life and her mother's with the most feared of tyrants These are stories of courage and sometimes of compromise not the courage of bravado and hype and big guns but rather the courage of hard choices and sacrifices that make sense of the life given even when that life seems only madness Working Memory brings scholarly attention to the roles of women in World War II that have been hidden masked undervalued or forgotten Dead Woman Pickney Yvonne Shorter Brown, 2022-04-01 Dead Woman Pickney chronicles Yvonne Shorter Brown's life growing up in Jamaica between 1943 and 1965 and teaching in Canada from 1969 Told with stridency and humour the stories include both personal experience and history Taking up the haunting memories of childhood along with persistent racial marginalization of Black people both globally and in Canada the author sets out to construct a narrative that at once explains her own origins in the former slave society of Jamaica and traces the outsider status of Africa and its peoples The author's quest to understand the absence of her mother and her mother's people from her life is at the heart of the narrative The author struggles through life to discover the identity of her mother in the face of silence from her father's brutal family In this updated edition she adds a coda finding mother constructed from archives genealogy letters and journals Initially published in 2010 this second edition includes expanded text and a foreword by Sonja Boon author of What the Oceans Remember Nella Last's Peace Patricia Malcolmson, Robert Malcolmson, 2010-09-03 Outwardly Nella's life was probably seen as ordinary but behind this mask were a lively mind and a persistent pen a pen that never gave up over almost three decades reporting describing pondering and disclosing Nella 55 when the war ends writes of what ordinary people felt during those years of privation hope and the re building of Britain providing a moving and inspiring account of the years that shaped the society we live in today Her diary offers a detailed moving and humorous narrative of the changing experiences of ordinary people at this time and thoughts on the aftermath of war and whether peace really meant peace for everyone

Under Cover of Darkness Amy Helen Bell, 2024-11-05 A gripping new history of London during the Blackout revealing the violent crime that spread across the capital under the cover of darkness Fear was the unacknowledged spectre haunting the streets of London during the Second World War fear not only of death from the German bombers circling above but of violence at the hands of fellow Londoners in the streets below Mass displacement the anonymity of shelters and the bomb scarred landscape offered unprecedented opportunities for violent crime In this absorbing sometimes shocking account Amy Helen Bell uncovers the hidden stories of murder and violence that were rife in wartime London Bell moves through the city examining the crimes in their various locations from domestic violence in the home to robberies in the blacked out streets and fights in pubs and clubs She reveals the experiences of women children and the elderly and focuses on the lives of the victims as well as their deaths This groundbreaking study transforms our understanding of the ways in which war made people vulnerable not just to the enemy but to each other

The Literary Churchill Jonathan Rose, 2014-05-27 An interesting and at times surprising account of Churchill's tastes as a reader many of these nuggets will be new even to Churchill junkies The Wall Street Journal This strikingly original book introduces a Winston Churchill we haven't known before Award winning author Jonathan Rose explores Churchill's careers as statesman and author revealing the profound influence of literature and theater on Churchill's personal carefully composed grand story and the decisions he made throughout his political life In this expansive literary biography Rose provides an analysis of Churchill's writings and their reception he won the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1953 and was a best selling author and a chronicle of his dealings with publishers editors literary agents and censors The book also identifies an array of authors who shaped Churchill's own writings and politics George Bernard Shaw H G Wells Margaret Mitchell George Orwell Oscar Wilde and many more Rose investigates the effect of Churchill's passion for theater on his approach to reportage memoirs and historical works Perhaps most remarkably Rose reveals the unmistakable influence of Churchill's reading on every important episode of his public life including his championship of social reform plans for the Gallipoli invasion command during the Blitz crusade for Zionism and efforts to prevent a nuclear arms race Finally Rose traces the significance of Churchill's writings to later generations of politicians among them President John F Kennedy as he struggled to extricate the U S from the Cuban Missile Crisis Immensely enjoyable This gracefully written book is an original and textured study of Churchill's imagination The Washington Post

Nella Last in the 1950s Patricia Malcolmson, Robert Malcolmson, 2010-10-07 I can never understand how the scribbles of such an ordinary person can possibly have value So wrote Nella Last in her diary on 2 September 1949 Sixty years on tens of thousands of people have read and enjoyed the first two volumes of her uniquely detailed and moving diaries written during World War II and its aftermath as part of the Mass Observation project and the basis for BAFTA winning drama Housewife 49 starring Victoria Wood This third compelling volume sees Nella now in her sixties writing of what ordinary people felt during those years of growing prosperity in a modernising Britain Her diary offers a detailed moving and humorous narrative of daily life at a time that shaped the society we live in today It is an account that's full of surprises as we learn more about her relationship with my husband never Will and her fears of nuclear war Outwardly Nella's life was commonplace but behind this mask were a penetrating mind and a lively pen As David Kynaston said on Radio 4 Nella Last will come to be seen as one of the major twentieth century English diarists
