Religion in Late Modernity Robert C. Neville,2002-07-17 Religion in Late Modernity runs against the grain of common suppositions of contemporary theology and philosophy of religion Against the common supposition that basic religious terms have no real reference but are mere functions of human need the book presents a pragmatic theory of religious symbolism in terms of which the cognitive engagement of the Ultimate is of a piece with the cognitive engagement of nature and persons Throughout this discussion Neville develops a late modern conception of God that is defensible in a global theological public Against the common supposition that religion is on the retreat in late modernity except in fundamentalist forms the author argues that religion in our time is a stimulus to religiously oriented scholarship a civilizing force among world societies a foundation for obligation in politics a source for healthy social experimentation and the most important mover of soul
