Making Bureaucracies Think The Environmental Impact Statement Strategy Of Administrative Reform:

Making Bureaucracies Think Serge Taylor, 1984 The central concern of this book is the social intelligence that goes into environmental decisions Not what is the correct balance when trade offs must be made between environmental and economic values But rather how can the social thinking necessary for intelligent trade offs be institutionalized How that is can environmental impacts be recognized beforehand so that less costly trade offs can be explored relative risks assessed and choices made in a manner acceptable to both the public and the government This book evaluates the first ten years of the Environmental Impact Statement EIS process of the 1969 National Environmental Policy Act in particular how it has worked inside two federal agencies with important impacts on the environment the Forest Service and the Army Corps of Engineers It assesses how successful the EIS process has been in establishing a concern for environmental values in the federal bureaucracy and how widely applicable the general impact statement approach is in other policy areas The Environmental Impact Statement After Two Generations Michael Greenberg, 2013-06-17 This book is about a subject that Michael Greenberg has worked on and lived with for almost forty years He was brought up in the south Bronx at a time when his neighborhood suffered from terrible air and noise pollution and domestic waste went untreated into the Hudson River For him the National Environmental Policy Act NEPA was a blessing It included an ethical position about the environment and the law required some level of accountability in the form of an environmental impact statement or EIS After forty years of thinking about and working with NEPA and the EIS process Greenberg decided to conduct his own evaluation from the perspective of a person trained in science who focuses on environmental and environmental health policies This book of carefully chosen real case studies goes beyond the familiar checklists of what to do and shows students and practitioners alike what really happens during the creation and implementation of an EIS Environmental Assessment as a Tool for

Climate Change Mitigation Benoit Mayer, 2024-11-15 Most governments have established procedures to appraise the environmental impacts of proposed activities The focus of these environmental assessment procedures has long been on local environmental issues such as air water and land pollution which have a direct and concrete effect on communities In recent years however these procedures have increasingly been used to consider how activities could result in the emission of greenhouse gases and exacerbate climate change Environmental Assessment as a Tool for Climate Change Mitigation builds on a broad survey of over one hundred national environmental assessment practices legislation guiding documents cases and administrative practice to reflect on the main conceptual and practical issues facing climate assessment By presenting and discussing jurisdictional developments and national debates in a global comparative perspective this book aims to enrich our collective understanding of the modalities of and ultimately the mitigation opportunities arising from the use of climate assessment in relation to proposed activities The author concludes this timely and forward looking volume by identifying good practices that lawmakers regulators national agencies judges and lawyers should consider when developing and applying the law on climate assessment Citizen Environmentalists James Longhurst, 2012-06-22 A telling look at the lives and strategies of women environmental activists in the long 1960s solidly grounded in a national context

Contemporary Environmental Politics Piers Stephens, John Barry, Andrew Dobson, 2006-09-27 This new collection from the leading journal Environmental Politics presents an excellent overview of the key themes found in contemporary green political thought since the early 1990s Bringing together the journal's major work this new book charts a fascinating period in which environmental politics developed from a marginal position in society and the academy to its current place in the intellectual mainstream Subdivided into clear sections on political theory social movements political economy and policy questions and assisted by a contextualising introduction this volume focuses on a set of clear themes the character of green political theory relationships with other political traditions and theories origins and dynamics of contemporary environmental politics differences similarities and tensions between the North and South the relationship of environmentalism to market economics and ecological modernization environmental aspects of distributive justice at the local national and global levels the roles value and valuing of nature in green theory and institutional practice As a compilation this book is unique It delivers a snapshot of a variety of issues in the field and is therefore ideally suited to teaching purposes especially at postgraduate level In addition as each section is chronologically arranged an evolution of related ideas can be clearly seen and appreciated which builds an excellent understanding of the field of environmental politics Restoration of Puget Sound Rivers

David R. Montgomery, Susan Bolton, Derek B. Booth, Leslie Wall, 2015-12-31 The recent listing of Pacific salmon under the Endangered Species Act has led to substantial interest in the scientific basis for river restoration in the Pacific Northwest Millions of dollars in state and federal funding have been programmed for habitat restoration efforts to stem the decline of salmon populations in the region This volume addresses the need for a solid understanding of fluvial processes and aquatic ecology in order to predict both river and salmonid response to restoration projects In the Pacific Northwest as in most regions of the United States we are still learning about the processes that create habitat and river structure how those processes influence aquatic ecosystems and how to gauge the response of river systems to both land use changes and restoration efforts River systems are still responding to historic changes and degraded habitat may not be restored successfully if natural conditions are not well understood particularly if massive changes in watershed hydrology or other processes are the root cause These issues faced in the development of regional river restoration programs are by no means unique to the Northwest and so the initiation of a regional program of river restoration provides an opportunity to evaluate the state of river restoration in general The eighteen chapters of Restoration of Puget Sound Rivers presented by the region's experts at a symposium of the Society for Ecological Restoration examine geological and geomorphological controls on river and stream characteristics and dynamics biological aspects of river systems in the region and the application of fluvial geomorphology civil engineering riparian ecology and aquatic ecology in efforts to restore Puget Sound Rivers This volume will be of interest to geomorphologists aquatic biologists civil engineers planners and all those interested in the interface of science and policy in addressing one of the fundamental environmental challenges of the twenty first century The Greening of Canada G. Bruce Doern, Thomas Conway, 1994-12-15 Environmental matters have become increasingly important in Canadian and world policy agendas In this study G Bruce Doern and Thomas Conway trace the development of Canadian environment policy giving an in depth account of twenty years of environmental politics politicians institutions and decisions as seen through the evolution of Ottawa s policy agency Environment Canada The Greening of Canada is an extensively researched look at the entire period from the early 1970s to the present and is the most complete and integrated analysis yet of federal environmental institutions and key decisions From Great Lakes pollution to the Green Plan from the Stockholm Conference to the post Rio Earth Summit era the authors deal with both domestic and international events and influences on Ottawa s often abortive efforts to entrench a green agenda into national politics The book explores the crucial relationships of institutional and political power directing attention at the DOE and its parade of ministers intra cabinet battles federal provincial relations business relations and public opinion and international and Canada U S relations It also examines important topics from acid rain policy to the politics of establishing national parks and from the Green Plan to the realities of environmental enforcement Employing a framework cast as the double dynamic of environmental policy making the authors show the growing struggle between the management of power among key institutions and the need to accommodate a biophysical realm characterized by increased uncertainty as well as scientific and technological controversy

The Oxford Handbook of American Bureaucracy Robert F. Durant, 2012-08-02 One of the major dilemmas facing the administrative state in the United States today is discerning how best to harness for public purposes the dynamism of markets the passion and commitment of nonprofit and volunteer organizations and the public interest oriented expertise of the career civil service Researchers across a variety of disciplines fields and subfields have independently investigated aspects of the formidable challenges choices and opportunities this dilemma poses for governance democratic constitutionalism and theory building This literature is vast affords multiple and conflicting perspectives is methodologically diverse and is fragmented The Oxford Handbook of American Bureaucracy affords readers an uncommon overview and integration of this eclectic body of knowledge as adduced by many of its most respected researchers Each of the chapters identifies major issues and trends critically takes stock of the state of knowledge and ponders where future research is most promising Unprecedented in scope methodological diversity scholarly viewpoint and substantive integration this volume is invaluable for assessing where the study of American bureaucracy stands at the end of the first decade of the 21st century and where leading scholars think it should go in the future The Oxford Handbooks of American Politics are a set of reference books offering authoritative and engaging critical overviews of the state of scholarship on American politics Each volume focuses on a particular aspect of the field The project is under the General Editorship of George C Edwards III and distinguished specialists in their respective fields edit each volume The Handbooks aim not just to report on the discipline but also to shape it as scholars critically assess the scholarship on a topic and propose directions in which it needs to move The series is an indispensable reference for anyone working in American politics General Editor for The Oxford Handbooks of American Politics George C Edwards III

Banking on the Environment Tamar L. Gutner, 2002-08-16 Multilateral development banks MDBs are increasingly expected to address environmental issues in their economic development lending Yet the banks have been accused of failing to implement their own environmental policies thereby contributing to environmental degradation in borrowing countries In this book Tamar Gutner analyzes the environmental policies of three MDBs the World Bank the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development and the European Investment Bank She compares their performance in Central and Eastern Europe where the need for economic and environmental reform has been particularly urgent and where these MDBs are among the largest donors Gutner finds many obstacles to efforts to green the three banks most notably a mismatch between the environmental mandates and existing patterns of institutional design and incentives The depth and scope of the banks green activities reflect the degree of shareholder commitment to environmental issues and how demand driven the MDB is designed to be Surprisingly the World Bank the most scrutinized and criticized of the three MDBs has been rather more responsive than its counterparts to its environmental mandate in the region The discussion is framed by larger explorations of the behavior of international organizations and the sources of their innovation and inertia in addressing new policy issues Gutner demonstrates the need to examine the impact of different stages of the policy process on new mandates and to incorporate both political and institutional variables when developing theories about the behavior of international institutions

Nuclear Politics in America Robert J. Duffy, 1997 Duffy's work traces nuclear politics from the creation of a powerful subgovernment through the public lobby reforms of the late 1960s and early 1970s and the deregulatory backlash of the Reagan years He demonstrates that while policies did change in the 1970s they did not change as much as other accounts have suggested and that the industry continued to receive considerable federal support The book is particularly significant for extending the discussion of nuclear policy through the Bush and Clinton years including the controversy over waste disposal new licensing procedures enacted in the 1992 Amendments to the Atomic Energy Act and the effects of deregulation of electric utilities Amazon.com viewed August 24 2020

Handbook of Strategic Environmental Assessment Barry Sadler, Jiri Dusik, Thomas Fischer, Maria Partidario, Rob Verheem, Ralf Aschemann, 2012-09-10 This authoritative handbook surveys the full breadth and depth of SEA bringing together a range of international perspectives and insights on the theoretical methodological and institutional dimensions and practical issues of the field It then subjects this conventional wisdom to a critical reappraisal looks at the vast lessons of experience and offers new ideas and interpretations as to where the field is going The volume is organized into six major sections beginning with an introduction and overview of the development of the field and a framework for evaluating SEA good practice Part I comprises a review of SEA frameworks in leading countries Australia Canada New Zealand and the USA the European Union and developing regions Africa Asia Latin America and Newly Independent States Part II reviews SEA practice in several major sectors energy minerals transport water development assistance and coastal zone management Part III addresses the linkages between SEA and other comparable tools such as spatial planning and environmental management Part IV probes key cross cutting issues in SEA including how to address cumulative and trans boundary effects Part V identifies ways and means of SEA process and capacity development focusing on how to improve and upgrade the theory and practice of the field Part VI examines the shift from conventional SEA towards more integrative approaches drawing on experience and examples from a number of countries Published with IAIA

Social Citizenship in the Shadow of Competition Bronwen Morgan, 2017-11-30 Social Citizenship in the Shadow of Competition explores how economic concepts and tools are reshaping regulatory law Building on studies that link law both institutionally and discursively to the legitimization of economic neo liberalism the book charts lawmakers attempts to justify social welfare regulation in the language imposed by economic theory It presents new qualitative findings from an ambitious regulatory reform programme targeting over 1 700 pieces of legislation Bronwen Morgan argues that the interplay between economic discourse and lawmaking does not destroy the possibility of social citizenship however the subsequent regulatory conversations frequently silence or weaken the claims of vulnerable groups Thus even when vulnerable groups secure instrumental success economic conceptions of bureaucratic rationality impoverish their capacity to express certain kinds of intangible values and aspirations To expand or retain social citizenship requires that we learn to conceive of what matters in political economy without relying on the logic of utility or other instrumental rationalities

Law and Corporate Behaviour Christopher Hodges, 2015-10-22 This book examines the theories and practice of how to control corporate behaviour through legal techniques The principal theories examined are deterrence economic rational acting responsive regulation and the findings of behavioural psychology Leading examples of the various approaches are given in order to illustrate the models private enforcement of law through litigation in the USA public enforcement of competition law by the European Commission and the recent reform of policies on public enforcement of regulatory law in the United Kingdom Noting that behavioural psychology has as yet had only limited application in legal and regulatory theory the book then analyses various European regulatory structures where behavioural techniques can be seen or could be applied Sectors examined include financial services civil aviation pharmaceuticals and workplace health safety Key findings are that enforcement has to focus on identifying the causes of non compliance so as to be able to support improved performance rather than be based on fear motivating complete compliance Systems in which reporting is essential for safety only function with a no blame culture The book concludes by proposing an holistic model for maximising compliance within large organisations combining public regulatory and criminal controls with internal corporate systems and external influences by stakeholders held together by a unified core of ethical principles Hence the book proposes a new theory of ethical regulation This title is included in Bloomsbury Professional s International Arbitration online service

The Theory and Practice of Strategic Environmental Assessment Thomas B Fischer, 2010-09-23 Anyone serious about integrating environmental factors into planning and policy making will gain new insights and ideas from Fischers book on SEA and students teachers and practitioners of the subject will find the book essential Leonard Ortolano Professor at Stanford University USA Fischers book demystifies the process and substantive analytical dimensions of SEA Offering solidly documented empirical evidence of the value of SEA to development the knowledge captured in this book is a great contribution to the practice Linda Ghanime Environmental Operations and Policy Adviser United Nations Development Program This book is an invaluable reference text for SEA practitioners I recommend it to everyone Xu He Professor and Director of the Strategic Environmental Assessment Center at Nankai University China Fischer gives a concise and wellstructured account of SEA as it is used today Readers thus will gain important insights into SEA why it is important how it works and what it can and should achieve Professor Thomas Bunge Federal Environment Agency Germany Strategic Environmental Assessment SEA is a fast growing and rapidly evolving professional field driven by both advances in theory and practice and by regulatory requirements in Europe North America Australasia South Africa and increasingly across Asia However to date analysis of existing practice and associated reporting has remained far from systematic and there has been a clear need for a comprehensive textbook to facilitate teaching learning and practice in this burgeoning field This textbook the first of its kind provides for a state of the art review of SEA theory and practice and promotes a more systematic approach to SEA It is written for a wide student professional and academic audience and aims particularly at supporting the development of SEA modules in undergraduate and postgraduate planning environmental assessment engineering and law courses It provides an overview of the fundamental principles and rules of SEA reports systematically on international SEA practice and theory and pushes the envelope by developing the theory Supporting material includes boxed examples and case studies from around the world extra reading suggestions and a glossary of terms This is the essential book for all students professionals and academics in SEA and EIA and follow up worldwide

Using Graywater and Stormwater to Enhance Local Water Supplies National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Water Science and Technology Board, Committee on the Beneficial Use of Graywater and Stormwater: An Assessment of Risks, Costs, and Benefits, 2016-07-30 Chronic and episodic water shortages are becoming common in many regions of the United States and population growth in water scarce regions further compounds the challenges Increasingly alternative water sources such as graywater untreated wastewater that does not include water from the toilet but generally includes water from bathroom sinks showers bathtubs clothes washers and laundry sinks and stormwater water from rainfall or snow that can be measured downstream in a pipe culvert or stream shortly after the precipitation event are being viewed as resources to supplement scarce water supplies rather than as waste to be discharged as rapidly as possible Graywater and stormwater can serve a range of non potable uses including irrigation toilet flushing washing and cooling although treatment may be needed Stormwater may also be used to recharge groundwater which may ultimately be tapped for potable use In addition to providing additional sources of local water supply harvesting stormwater has many potential benefits including energy savings pollution prevention and reducing the impacts of urban development on urban streams Similarly the reuse of graywater can enhance water supply reliability and extend the capacity of existing wastewater systems in growing cities Despite the benefits of using local alternative water sources to address water demands many questions remain that have limited the broader application of graywater and stormwater capture and use In particular limited information is available on the costs benefits and risks of these projects and beyond the simplest applications many state and local public health agencies have not developed regulatory frameworks for full use of these local water resources To address these issues Using Graywater and Stormwater to Enhance Local Water Supplies analyzes the risks costs and benefits on various uses of graywater and stormwater This report examines technical economic regulatory and social issues associated with graywater and stormwater capture for a range of uses including non potable urban uses irrigation and groundwater recharge Using Graywater and Stormwater to Enhance Local Water Supplies considers the quality and suitability of water for reuse treatment and storage technologies and human health and environmental risks of water reuse The findings and recommendations of this report will be valuable for water managers citizens of states under a current drought and local and state health and environmental agencies

Geographical Targeting for Poverty Alleviation David Bigman, Hippolyte Fofack, 2000-01-01 in many developing countries there are large differences in economic conditions and the standard of living between regions and even between communities within the same region In many countries poverty has a clear geographic dimension since the poor are often concentrated in pockets of poverty Therefore the design of poverty alleviation policies must also have a significant spatial component Although development projects are carefully designed and meticulously evaluated for cost effectiveness and benefits too many of them are not sufficiently targeted geographically The growing availability and use of spatial data organized in a computer system such as a geographical information system GIS makes it more feasible to analyze the impact of projects in specific locales and to achieve more effective targeting Geographical Targeting for Poverty Alleviation introduces the basic concepts of a GIS It also demonstrates how to organize geographic and nongeographic data In addition it presents different methods for using the data of the Household Income and Expenditure Survey together with other surveys and the population census to provide estimates for the standard of living and the incidence of poverty incidence in different geographical areas of a country Ultimately these estimates should be used to establish guidelines for targeting poverty alleviation projects This publication illustrates different GIS applications for identifying the project's target population determining the project's spatial sphere of influence or deciding where to locate public facilities This publication is of interest to task managers
