Disability & the Politics of Education Susan Lynn Gabel, Scot Danforth, 2008 Disability and the Politics of Education An International Reader is a rich resource that deals comprehensively with the many aspects of the complex topic of disability studies in education For nearly two decades global attention has been given to education as a human right through global initiatives such as Education for All EFA and the Salamanca Statement Yet according to UNESCO reaching the goals of EFA remains one of the most daunting challenges facing the global community Today millions of the world s disabled children cannot obtain a basic childhood education particularly in countries with limited resources Even in the wealthiest countries many disabled children and youth are educationally segregated from the nondisabled particularly if they are labeled with significant cognitive impairment International agencies such as the United Nations and the World Bank have generated funds for educational development but unfortunately these funds are administered with the assumption that west is best thereby urging developing countries to mimic educational policies in the United States and the United Kingdom in order to prove their aid worthiness This McDonaldization of education reproduces the labeling resource allocation and social dynamics long criticized in disability studies The authors in this volume explore these subjects and other complexities of disability and the politics of education In doing so they demonstrate the importance and usefulness of international perspectives and comparative approaches

Understanding the Development of Inclusive Schools Mel Ainscow,2002-01-04 The current emphasis on individualised intervention programmes for students with special needs may not only be impractical but also undesirable This book compares and contrasts special needs approaches with school effectiveness strategies The author sets out theories about inclusive schooling that arise out of a detailed scrutiny of practice The link between theory and practice will be welcomed by many practitioners With extensive examples from the field to illustrate Ainscow s ideas this is an eminently accessible text

Managing Special Needs in Mainstream Schools John Dwyfor Davies,Philip Garner,John Lee,2018-09-03 First published in 1998 The wide ranging perspectives in this book will help key personnel in primary schools to manage the implantation of the 1993 Education Act and the Code of Practice on the Identification and Assessment of Special Educational Needs more effectively Governors and headteachers comment on the management of resources and on interaction with parents and others outside the school Researchers and academics provide an analysis of the impact and legal implications of the Code of Practice on primary schools SENCOs offer insights into the development of whole school and classroom practice commenting on the practicalities of implementing the philosophy behind the Code of Practice

Enabling Access Barry Carpenter,Chris Stevens,Keith Bovair,Rob Ashdown,2014-04-08 First Published in 1997 In special education we are at last in a good position to offer pupils a broad and balanced curriculum which is relevant to their needs and which is based on the same range of provision enjoyed by all pupils Such a curriculum can only be planned as a cohesive whole compartmentalizing aspects of the whole curriculum risks seeing one part as having more merit or worth than another The whole curriculum in ail schools will vary depending on local needs and opportunities In special education it is important that we embrace that whole curriculum using its diversity and opportunity to plan for breadth balance and relevance This book makes a significant contribution to the developments in planning for access to the whole curriculum Doing Inclusive Education Research Julie Allan, Roger Slee, 2008-01-01 Those attempting to research inclusive education face an enormous challenge Not only is it a highly complex field but it is also fraught with tensions sometimes spilling into over into disputes between researchers over ideology Research textbooks present research decision making as relatively straightforward and offer little help to students and novice researchers on how to navigate complex fields such as inclusive education or understand ideology Doing Inclusive Education Research is an attempt to lift the lid on the processes of doing research and uncovers the experiences of key researchers in the field Len Barton Mike Oliver David Gillbourn Deborah Youdell Stephen Ball Ellen Brantlinger Sally Tomlinson Mel Ainscow Lani Florian Alan Dyson Suzanne Carrington Ken Kavale Karen Harris and Kim Cornish have all opened themselves up to scrutiny and reveal the decisions and choices they made at different points of the research process as well as some of their concerns as they undertook the work They also respond to the invitation to discuss the positioning of their work and offer their take on the ideological battles Students and all involved in researching inclusive education will find Doing inclusive education research an indispensable as well as fascinating insight into the research process and will gain useful advice on how to engage with this complex field

From Them to Us Mel Ainscow, Tony Booth, 2005-06-23 Inclusive education has become a phrase with international currency shaping the content of conferences and national educational policies around the world But what does it mean Is it about including a special group of disabled learners or students seen to have special needs them or is it concerned with making educational institutions inclusive responsive to the diversity of all their students us In this unique comparative study the editors have brought together an international team of researchers from eight countries to develop case studies which explore the processes of inclusion and exclusion within a school or group of schools set in its local and national context The study includes classroom observation the experiences of the school day of students and interviews with staff students parents and school governors Through an innovative juxtaposition of the case studies and commentaries on them differences of perspective within and between countries are revealed and analysed The study arose from a dissatisfaction with previous research which presents national perspectives or seeks findings that have global significance This book avoids such simplification and draws attention to the problems of translation of practice across cultures The editors start from an assumption of diversity of perspective which like the diversity of students within schools can be viewed as problematic or as a resource to be recognized and celebrated Deconstructing Special Education Thomas, Gary, Loxley,

Andrew, 2007-08-01 In the second edition of this text the authors critically examine the intellectual foundations of special education and consider the consequences on their influence for professional and popular thinking about learning difficulties

Educating Special Children Michael Farrell, 2012 Based on many years of experience and drawing on expertise from all corners of the globe Educating Special Children is a companion for anyone requiring an overview of provision that has proved effective for children with learning disorders and disabilities Inclusive Education Keith Ballard,1999 The aim of this text is to convey the experiences of excluded children their parents teachers and remaining classmates It offers reflections on inclusion and exclusion and the issues raised are international The RoutledgeFalmer Reader in Inclusive Education Keith J. Topping,Sheelagh Maloney,2005 Each chapter ends with questions and issues for reflection The book also includes an annotated list of further reading It is designed to encourage readers to conduct their own research This is a useful text for practitioner postgraduate students researchers academics and policy makers in education Jacket makes an important contribution to special education Perhaps more significantly it makes an important contribution to inclusive education and possibly even more widely to education in general it is a book that has significance for all of us who wish to move education towards a more equitable democratic humane and dignified system for our young people Education in the North In recent years there has been increasingly vigorous debate about the nature and purpose of special education and what might be considered the appropriate responses to pupils who experience difficulties in learning This Handbook brings together the most up to date knowledge of this area and will serve as the major source book of authoritative information and ideas about current and future directions for special education It examines the intricate relation between theory research and practice and places a particular emphasis on what has been learned about providing for students who experience difficulties in learning how these understandings can contribute to new conceptualisations of special education and the development of more inclusive schools This comprehensive research based work brings together scholarship on an international level and covers topics that transcend national boundaries It will become essential reading for all professionals and academics with any interest in this important and dynamic field

Ideology and the Politics of (in)exclusion Linda P. Ware, 2005 Ideology and the Politics of In Exclusion provides an international analysis of the politics of research and practice in special education The contributors to this volume establish purposeful connections to the micropolitics of disability identification and the macropolitics of social structure and describe various geographic locales recount multiple historical contexts rely upon differing sources of evidence and as a consequence relate a more complex and richly layered analysis of educational inclusion Ideology and the Politics of In Exclusion breaks away from the prevailing discourse on educational inclusion as that which occurs in a vacuum separate from social inclusion by providing a close analysis of the narrow frameworks historic influence and research tensions that underwrite current special education practice

EBOOK: Researching Disability Issues Michelle Moore, Sarah Beazley, June Maelzer, 1998-03-16 This book is designed to meet a growing need for clear illustrations of how to carry out research which seeks to explore disability issues It aims to demonstrate the value of a critical attention to social rather than medical starting points for researching disability through reviewing a variety of studies which look at different aspects of disabled people's lives Different methodological approaches and research techniques are considered ranging from analysis of observation data concerning disabled children in schools to rich conversation based data which focuses on family life A central theme concerns the pivotal role of disabled people in research The book provides substantive examples of the dilemmas which face researchers and connects these to ideas for individual personal action Disabled and non disabled researchers professionals and students from a wide range of disciplines will find the presentation of both research findings and debates informative and of interest

Researching Learning Difficulties Jill Porter, Penny Lacey, 2005 The book will help readers to critically evaluate the implications of research reports for their own practice
