Making America The Cultural Work Of Literature:

Making America Susanne Rohr, Peter Schneck, Sabine Sielke, 2000 Making America tackles issues crucial to the formation and continuing re imagination of American identity and accordingly crucial to the field of American Studies from contemporary theoretical positions The essays collected in this volume are based on the premise that literature and other cultural artifacts make culture work and thus make culture Hence they explore from various critical angles the interdependencies of this process whereby American cultural and national identity has been and still is shaped and challenged at the same time Consequently the volume foregrounds the rhetorical strategies which orchestrating various conflicting cultural forces locations and voices produce the multi faceted phenomenon America The central interest which animates the critical work of the collaborative project of Making America is the dialogue between text and theory

Reading the Social in American Studies Astrid Franke, Stefanie Mueller, Katja Sarkowsky, 2022-03-12 Reading the Social in American Studies offers a unique exploration of the advantages and benefits in using sociological terms and concepts in American literary and cultural studies and conversely in using literature understood broadly to uncover a microlevel of the social Its temporal scope ranges from the early 19th to the 21st century providing a historical dimension that is otherwise often missing from studies on the conjunction of literature and sociology The contributors approaches include genre reflections as well as close readings theoretical discussions of crucial sociological terms and literary observations backed up by empirical sociological studies The book will familiarize international readers with ideas on the social from both sides of the Atlantic including scholarship of such figures as John Dewey Georg Simmel Norbert Elias and Pierre Bourdieu

Rethinking Postmodernism(s) Katrin Amian, 2008 Rethinking Postmodernism s revisits three historical sites of American literary postmodernism the early postmodernism of Thomas Pynchon s V 1961 the emancipatory postmodernism of Toni Morrison s Beloved 1987 and the late or post postmodernism of Jonathan Safran Foer s Everything Is Illuminated 2002 For the first time it confronts these texts with the pragmatist philosophy of Charles Sanders Peirce staging a conceptual dialogue between pragmatism and postmodernism that historicizes and recontextualizes customary readings of postmodern fiction The book is a must read for all interested in current reassessments of literary postmodernism in new critical dialogues between seminal postmodern texts and in recent attempts to theorize the post postmodern moment

Handbook of the American Novel of the Twentieth and Twenty-First Centuries Timo Müller, 2017-01-11 Increasing specialization within the discipline of English and American Studies has shifted the focus of scholarly discussion toward theoretical reflection and cultural contexts These developments have benefitted the discipline in more ways than one but they have also resulted in a certain neglect of close reading As a result students and researchers interested in such material are forced to turn to scholarship from the 1960s and 1970s much of which relies on dated methodological and ideological presuppositions The handbook aims to fill this gap by providing new readings of texts that figure prominently in the literature classroom and in scholarly debate from James s The Ambassadors to McCarthy s The Road These readings do not revert naively to a time before theory Instead they distil the insights of literary and cultural theory into concise introductions to the historical background the themes the formal strategies and the reception of influential literary texts and they do so in a jargon free language accessible to readers on all levels of qualification

The Cambridge Companion to the Literature of the American Renaissance Christopher N. Phillips, 2018-03-07 The American Renaissance has been a foundational concept in American literary history for nearly a century The phrase connotes a period as well as an event an iconic turning point in the growth of a national literature and a canon of texts that would shape American fiction poetry and oratory for generations F O Matthiessen coined the term in 1941 to describe the years 1850 1855 which saw the publications of major writings by Hawthorne Melville Emerson Thoreau and Whitman This Companion takes up the concept of the American Renaissance and explores its origins meaning and longevity Essays by distinguished scholars move chronologically from the formative reading of American Renaissance authors to the careers of major figures ignored by Matthiessen including Stowe Douglass Harper and Longfellow The volume uses the best of current literary studies from digital humanities to psychoanalytic theory to illuminate an era that reaches far beyond the Civil War and continues to shape our understanding of American literature

Moses Horton Jane Johnston Schoolcraft Jos Maria Heredia Black Hawk and many others      Space in America Klaus Benesch, Kerstin Schmidt, 2005 America's sense of space has always been tied to what Hayden White called the narrativization of real events. If the awe-inspiring manifestations of nature in America—Niagara Falls, Virginia's Natural Bridge, the Grand Canyon etc.—were often used as a foil for projecting utopian visions and idealizations of the nation's exceptional place among the nations of the world, the rapid technological progress and its concomitant appropriation of natural spaces served equally well as David Nye argues to promote the dominant cultural idiom of exploration and conquest. From the beginning, American attitudes towards space were thus utterly contradictory, if not paradoxical: a paradox that scholars tried to capture in such hybrid concepts as the middle landscape, Leo Marx's engineered New Earth, Cecelia Tichi's or the technological sublime. David Nye: Not only was America's concept of space paradoxical, it has always also been a contested terrain, a site of continuous social and cultural conflict. Many foundational issues in American history—the dislocation of Native and African Americans, the geo-political implications of nation building, immigration and transmigration, the increasing division and clustering of contemporary American society etc.—involve differing ideals and notions of space. Quite literally, space and its various ideological appropriations formed the arena where America's search for identity, national political culture has been staged. If American democracy, as Frederick Jackson Turner claimed, is born of free land, then its history may well be defined as the history of the fierce struggles to gain and maintain power over both the geographical, social and political spaces of America and its concomitant narratives. The number and range of topics, interests and critical approaches of the essays gathered here open up exciting new avenues of inquiry into the tangled, contentious relations of space in America. Topics include: Theories of Space, Landscape, Nature, Technoscape, Architecture, Urban, Utopia, Literature, Performance, Film, Visual Arts.

City on a Hill Abram C. Van Engen, 2020-01-01 A fresh, original history of America's national narratives told through the loss, recovery and rise of one influential Puritan sermon from 1630 to the present day. In this illuminating book, Abram C. Van Engen shows how the phrase "city on a hill" from a 1630 sermon by Massachusetts Bay governor John Winthrop shaped the story of American exceptionalism in the twentieth century. By tracing the history of Winthrop's speech, its changing status through time and its use in modern politics, Van Engen asks us to reevaluate our national narratives. He tells the story of curators, librarians, collectors, archivists, antiquarians and other, often anonymous figures who emphasized the role of the Pilgrims and Puritans in American history, paving the way for the saving and sanctifying of a single sermon and its eventual transformation into an American tale. This sermon's rags to riches rise reveals the way national stories take shape and shows us how they continue to influence competing visions of the country, the many different meanings of America that emerge from its literary past.

From Black to Schwarz Maria I. Diedrich, Jürgen Heinrichs, 2011-06-01 From Black to Schwarz explores the long and varied history of the exchanges between African America and Germany with a particular focus on cultural interplay. Covering a wide range of media of expression—music, performance, film scholarship literature visual arts reviews these essays trace and analyze a cultural interaction collaboration and mutual transformation that began in the eighteenth century boomed during the Harlem Renaissance Weimar Republic survived the Third Reich's Degenerate Art campaigns and with new media available to further exchanges is still increasingly empowering and inspiring participants on both sides of the Atlantic

Culture, Genre, and Literary Vocation Michael Davitt Bell, 2001 In Culture Genre and Literary Vocation Michael Davitt Bell charts the important and often overlooked connection between literary culture and authors careers Bell's influential essays on nineteenth century American writers originally written for such landmark projects as The Columbia Literary History of the United States and The Cambridge History of American Literature are gathered here with a major new essay on Richard Wright Throughout Bell revisits issues of genre with an eye toward the unexpected details of authors lives and invites us to reconsider the hidden functions that terms such as romanticism and realism served for authors and their critics Whether tracing the demands of the market or the expectations of readers Bell examines the intimate relationship between literary production and culture each essay closely links the milieu in which American writers worked with the trajectory of their storied careers

Making Americans Gary D. Schmidt, 2013-12 Making Americans is a study of a time when the authors and illustrators of children's books consciously set their eyes on national and international sights with the hope of bringing the next generation into a full sense of citizenship Schmidt examines the literature for young people published during a momentous period in our nation's past and documents in detail its role as an instrument of nation building and social reform A thought provoking contribution to our understanding of children's books as cultural transmitters and transformers

Crabtracks Gordon Collier, Frank Schulze-Engler, 2002 The essays in this collection celebrate the signal achievement of Dieter Riemenschneider in helping found and consolidate the study of postcolonial anglophone literatures in Germany and Europe As well as poems a short story drawings of the Indian scene the first and abiding focus of this scholar's work and letters of reminiscence one quite grave there are revealing contributions of a literary historical nature on the establishment of anglophone especially African literatures as an academic discipline within Germany the UK and Northern Europe generally as well as a group of searching reflections on such topics of postcolonial import as globalization and the applicability of models to the literature of the indigene in Canada and Australia The largest section is devoted to individual topics each treatment implicitly keyed to approaches to the teaching of New Literatures texts Writers covered include Anita Desai landscape and memory Salman Rushdie painting in The Moor's Last Sigh Charlotte Brontë imperial discourse in Jane Eyre Derek Walcott Omeros and cultural cohabitation and Witi Ihimaera his rewriting of Katherine Mansfield Topics dealt with include music and radio in West Africa the African literary hit parade the New Zealand prose poem Canadian and Australian war fiction the Middle Passage in the American and Caribbean novel Paul Theroux's uneasy relations with V S Naipaul and the colonial discourse of illness and recuperation The volume closes with Dieter Riemenschneider's very first and most recent critical essays the one a classic on Mulk Raj Anand the other a challenging and doubtless controversial thesis on postcolonial minority writing A select bibliography of Riemenschneider's work books edited publications journal articles and book contributions reviews and broadcasts rounds off this substantial collection

Writing Matters Irene Berti, Katharina Bolle, Fanny Opdenhoff, Fabian Stroth, 2017-08-21 This edited volume includes a compilation of new approaches to the investigation of inscriptions from different cultural contexts Innovative research questions about material text cultures are examined with reference to Classical Athens late ancient and Byzantine churches and urban spaces Hellenistic and Roman cities and medieval buildings

Crowd Violence in American Modernist Fiction Benjamin S. West, 2013-04-05 This study explores numerous depictions of crowd violence literal and figurative found in American Modernist fiction and shows the ways crowd violence is used as a literary trope to examine issues of racial gender national and class identity during this period Modernist writers consistently employ scenes and images of crowd violence to show the ways such violence is used to define and enforce individual identity in American culture James Weldon Johnson William Faulkner Richard Wright Ernest Hemingway F Scott Fitzgerald and John Steinbeck for example depict numerous individuals as victims of crowd violence and other crowd pressures typically because they have transgressed against normative social standards Especially important is the way that racially motivated lynching and the representation of such lynchings in African American literature and culture becomes a noteworthy focus of canonical Modernist fiction composed by white authors

Settling the Good Land Agnès Delahaye, 2020-07-13 Settling the Good Land Governance and Promotion in John Winthrop's New England 1620-1650 is the first institutional history of the Massachusetts Bay Company cornerstone of early modern English colonisation in North America Agnès Delahaye analyses settlement as a form of colonial innovation to reveal the political significance of early New England sources above and beyond religion John Winthrop was not just a Puritan but a settler governor who wrote the history of the expansion of his company as a record of successful and enduring policy Delahaye argues that settlement as the action and the experience of appropriating the land is key to understanding the role played by Winthrop's writings in American historiography before independence and in our times

The Culture and Commerce of the Early American Novel Stephen Shapiro, 2010-11 Taking his cue from Philadelphia born novelist Charles Brockden Brown's Annals of Europe and America which contends that America is shaped most noticeably by the international struggle between Great Britain and France for control of the world trade market Stephen Shapiro charts the advent decline and reinvigoration of the early American novel That the American novel sprang so unexpectedly into published existence during the 1790s may be a symptom of the beginning of the end of Franco-British supremacy and a reflection of the power of a middle class riding the crest of a new world economic system Shapiro's world systems approach is a relatively new methodology for literary studies but it brings two particularly useful features to the table First it refines the conceptual frameworks for analyzing cultural and social history such as the rise in sentimentalism in relation to a long wave economic history of global commerce second it fosters a new model for a comparative American Studies across time Rather than relying on contiguous time a world systems approach might compare the cultural production of one region to another at the same location within the recurring cycle in an economic reconfiguration Shapiro offers a new way of thinking about the causes for the emergence of the American novel that suggests a fresh way of rethinking the overall paradigms shaping American Studies

The Oxford Encyclopedia of American Literature Jay Parini, 2004 The Encyclopedia of American Literature gathers together 350 essays from over 190 leading scholars on the whole of American literature from European discovery to the present At the core of the Encyclopedia lie 250 essays on poets playwrights essayists and novelists Figures such as Whitman Melville Faulkner Frost and Morrison are discussed in detail with each examined in the context of his or her times an assessment of the writer s current reputation a bibliography of major works and a list of major critical and biographical works about the writer Fifty entries on major works such as Moby Dick Song of Myself Walden The Great Gatsby The Waste Land Their Eyes Were Watching God Death of a Salesman and Beloved place the work in its historical context and offer a range of possibilities with regard to critical approach The Encyclopedia also contains essays on literary movements periods and themes pulling together a broad range of information and making connections between them Each entry has its own primary and annotated secondary bibliography and a system of cross references helps readers locate information with ease The Encyclopedia of American Literature is an outstanding reference source for students studying authors or particular pieces of literature libraries looking for one comprehensive source and readers interested in American literature its authors and its connection with various areas of study
