maker who yearns to return to music but aren't sure where to begin Or are you a person who never played music as a child but you are now curious about trying You're not alone Many adults who used to play an instrument haven't touched it in years because either they can't find the time to practice are afraid their skills are too rusty or are unsure of what kind of group they could join Others are afraid to sing or start playing an instrument because they received negative feedback from childhood experiences Performing practicing and composing music may seem like unattainable goals with insurmountable obstacles for busy adults with non-musical careers Making Time for Making Music can help adults find ways to make music part of their lives The first book of its kind it is filled with real life success stories from more than 350 adults who manage to fit music making into their jam-packed schedules They polished rusty skills found musical groups to join and are having a great time Their testimonies prove that you are never too old to learn to make music and that there are numerous musical paths to explore Featuring advice from dozens of music educators health care professionals and music researchers who point out that making music can even be good for your health as well as an extensive resource list of websites organizations and summer programs this book offers inspiration and tried and true strategies for anyone who wishes to return to music making or begin as an adult

Percussion Wendy Lynch, 2006-07-26 Introduces percussion instruments offering basic descriptions as well as composer and performer names sound activities and examples of instruments

The War on Music John Mauceri, 2022-04-26 A prominent conductor explores how aesthetic criteria masked the political goals of countries during the three great wars of the past century This book offers a major reassessment of classical music in the twentieth century John Mauceri argues that the history of music during this span was shaped by three major wars of that century World War I World War II and the Cold War Probing why so few works have been added to the canon since 1930 Mauceri examines the trajectories of great composers who following World War I created voices that were unique and versatile but superficially simpler He contends that the fate of composers during World War II is inextricably linked to the political goals of their respective governments resulting in the silencing of experimental music in Germany Italy and Russia the exodus of composers to America and the sudden return of experimental music what he calls the institutional avant-garde as the lingua franca of classical music in the West during the Cold War

Children's Palliative Care in Africa Justin Amery, 2009 Children's palliative care has developed rapidly as a discipline as health care professionals recognise that the principles of adult palliative care may not always be applicable to children at the end of life The unique needs of dying children are particularly evident across Africa where the scale of the problem is overwhelming and the figures so enormous that they are barely comprehensible over 400 000 children in Africa died from AIDS in 2003 and out of the 166 000 children a year diagnosed with cancer 84% of these are in the developing world Despite the enormous need provision of children s palliative care in Africa is almost non existent with very few health workers trained and confident to provide care for dying children The challenges of providing palliative care in this setting are different to those in more developed countries contending with the shortage of physical and human resources in addition to the vast scope of the care needed Written by a group with wide experience of caring for dying children in Africa this book provides practical realistic guidance on improving access to and delivery of palliative care in this demanding setting It looks at the themes common to palliative care including communication assessment symptom management psychosocial issues ethical dilemmas end of life care and tips for the professional on compassion and conservation of energy but always retains the focus on the particular needs of the health care professional in Africa Whilst containing some theory the emphasis is on practical action throughout It will provide health care professionals working in Africa and other resource poor settings with the confidence knowledge and capacity to improve care for the terminally ill child in constrained and demanding environments
