Searching for Sebald Lise Patt, Christel Dillbohner, 2007 W G Sebald's books are sui generis hybrids of fiction travelogue autobiography and historical expos in which a narrator both Sebald and not Sebald comments on the quick blossoming of natural wonders and the long deaths that come of human atrocities All his narratives are punctuated with images murky photographs architectural plans engravings paintings newspaper clippings inserted into the prose without captions and often without obvious connection to the words that surround them This important volume includes a rare 1993 interview called But the written word is not a true document A Conversation with W G Sebald about Photography and Literature in which Sebald talks exclusively about his use of photographs It contains some of Sebald's most illuminating and poetic remarks about the topic yet In it he discusses Barthes the photograph's appeal the childhood image of Kafka family photographs and even images he never used in his writings In addition Searching for Sebald positions Sebald within an art historical tradition that begins with the Surrealists continues through Joseph Beuys and blossoms in the recent work of Christian Boltanski and Gerhard Richter and tracks his continuing inspiration to artists such as Tacita Dean and Helen Mirra An international roster of artists and scholars unpacks the intricacies of his unique method Seventeen theoretical essays approach Sebald through the multiple filters of art history Krauss film studies Kluge cultural theory Benjamin psychoanalysis Freud and especially photographic history and theory Barthes Kracauer and 17 modern and contemporary art projects are read through a Sebaldian filter If Sebald's artistic output acts as a touchstone for new critical theory being written on post medium photographic practices Searching for Sebald suggests a model for new investigations in the burgeoning field of visual studies

Modernism as Memory Kathleen James-Chakraborty, 2018-01-15 After World War II West Germans and West Berliners found ways of communicating both their recent sufferings and aspirations for stable communities through buildings that fused the ruins of historicist structures with new constructions rooted in the modernism of the 1910s and 20s As Modernism as Memory illustrates these postwar practices undergird the approaches later taken in influential structures created or renovated in Berlin following the fall of the Wall including the Jewish Museum and the Reichstag the New Museum and the Topography of Terror While others have characterized contemporary Berlin's museums and memorials as postmodern Kathleen James Chakraborty argues that these environments are examples of an architecture of modern memory that is much older more complex and historically contingent She reveals that churches and museums repaired and designed before 1989 in D ren Hanover Munich Neviges

Pforzheim Stuttgart and Weil am Rhein contributed to a modernist precedent for the relationship between German identity and the past developed since then in the Ruhr region and in Berlin Modernism as Memory demonstrates that how one remembers can be detached from what one remembers contrasting ruins with recollections of modernism to commemorate German suffering the Holocaust and the industrial revolution as well as new spaces for Islam in the country A Class of Their Own Maren Polte,2017-06-22 The pioneer group of the D sseldorf School The D sseldorf School has become a household name in the art world for one of the most successful and influential strains of modern photography Coined in the late 1980s the name refers mainly to the pioneer group of students of the late Bernd Becher who in 1976 became the first professor for creative photography at a German arts academy His students included Andreas Gursky Candida Höfer Axel Hütte Thomas Ruff and Thomas Struth all of them today internationally acclaimed artists in their own right Whereas D sseldorf School initially was used as a handy term for a group of artists with the same university's background it quickly turned into a powerful brand name both in critical and commercial contexts Despite its welcomed impact on the art scene the members of the School felt rather ambiguous about their perception as a group which turned them into stars but simultaneously risked levelling individual profiles and differences What exactly connects and distinguishes them aesthetically is for the first time thoroughly explored in Maren Polte's pioneering study Columns & Catalogues Peter Schjeldahl,1994 A collection of critical essays on art previously published in various places including the author's columns from The Village Voice 1990 1994
