on sustainable urbanization the post 2015 development agenda of the United Nations and India's official launching of the smart city agenda. Reflecting on three major components of urban sustainability investments and infrastructures waste management and urban ecologies and environmentalisms it moves beyond the bi-centric approach of only looking into the differences between the developed and the developing world and reflects on cities across India using polycentric methods and approaches. The Indian urban scenario is extremely complex and diverse and solutions laid out in official and non-official documents tend to miss these complexities. This volume includes innovative research across different parts of India identifying city-specific sources of unsustainability and challenges along with strategies and potentials that would make the process of urban transition both sustainable and equitable. Complex explorations of non-linear bottom-up multisectoral process-based local urban contexts across north-south-east and west Indian cities in this volume critique a general acceptance of the universalized concept of sustainable urbanization and suggest ways that might be important for transcending inclusive theories to form practical policy-based recommendations and actions.

Regional Structure, Processes, and Patterns of Development Savita Sinha, 1988 Economic Development and Planning in India Vishwambhar Nath, 2010-01-01. The book is a collection of essays written by Dr Vishwambhar Nath who had retained his interest in Economic Development and Planning in India throughout his life. He was associated with the Planning Commission since its inception in 1950. He worked for the Planning Commission for 14 years from 1950-66 with a break from 1960-63 and in research and writing until 2002 when he died suddenly. The chapters contained in the volume discuss the essential ingredients in planning for development: objectives, ideology, goals, and resource endowments available and their utilization to maximize the rate of economic growth and development of social sectors. It gives a survey of natural resources, need for regional planning, identification of the regions, regional disparities in economic and social development etc. It further details the experience of the country during 50 years of planning from 1950-2000 and goals and strategies for development up to 2020. Although several of his writings on Regional Development and Planning, Planning for Urban Growth and Metropolitan Cities and Rural Development as well as Administration and Development Planning have been being brought out in volumes dealing with these areas, this volume touches on these subjects and goes on to discuss regional distribution of industries and entrepreneurship, growth poles in the economy, issues of sustainable development and contribution of bureaucrats, entrepreneurs and managers in the planned development process as well as that of the public and private sectors. Finally, the author reminisces on the excitement that was aroused during the initial period of development planning as well as decline in the expectations from the planning process and its importance. He conjectures that while the planning for economic development will continue in India, the age of Five Year Plans is over. Television and Development of Women Preeti Kumari, 2006-01-01.
