Population and Peace in the Pacific Warren Simpson Thompson, 1972 Population and Peace in the Pacific [extract]. Warren Simpson Thompson, 1946 Peace and Security in the Asia-Pacific Sorpong Peou, 2010-04-15

Demonstrating that none of the various perspectives under review has emerged as the clear winner in the struggle for theoretical hegemony in security studies this book shows that eclectic perspectives like democratic realist institutionalism can better explain peace and security in the Asian Pacific The Asian Pacific has emerged as one of the most important regions in the world causing scholars to pay increased attention to the various challenges old and new to peace and security there Peace and Security in the Asia Pacific Theory and Practice is a comprehensive critical review of the established theoretical perspectives relevant to contemporary peace and security studies in the light of recent experiences Illuminating ongoing debates in the field the book covers some 20 theoretical perspectives on peace and security in the Asian Pacific including realist liberal socialist peace and human security constructivist feminist and nontraditional security studies The first section of the book discusses perspectives in realist security studies the second part covers perspectives critical of realism The author's goal is to assess whether any of the perspectives found in nonrealist security studies are capable of undermining realism His conclusion is that each theoretical perspective has its strengths and weaknesses leaving eclecticism as the best way to understand the region's dynamics

Glamour in the Pacific Fiona Paisley, 2009-07-08 Since its inception in 1928 the Pan Pacific Women's Association PPWA has witnessed and contributed to enormous changes in world and Pacific history Operating out of Honolulu this women's network established a series of conferences that promoted social reform and an internationalist outlook through cultural exchange For the many women attracted to the project from China Japan the Pacific Islands and the major settler colonies of the region the association's vision was enormously attractive despite the fact that as individuals and national representatives they remained deeply divided by colonial histories Glamour in the Pacific tells this multifaceted story by bringing together critical scholarship from across a wide range of fields including cultural history international relations and globalization gender and empire postcolonial studies population and world health studies world history and transnational history Early chapters consider the first PPWA conferences and the decolonizing process undergone by the association Following World War II a new generation of nonwhite women from decolonized and settler colonial nations began to claim leadership roles in the Association challenging the often Eurocentric assumptions of women's internationalism In 1955 the first African American delegate brought to the fore questions about the relationship of U S race relations with the Pan Pacific cultural internationalist project The effects of cold war geopolitics on the ideal of international cooperation in the era of decolonization were also considered The work concludes with a discussion of the revival of East meets West as a basis for world cooperation endorsed by the United Nations in 1958 and the overall contributions of the PPWA to world culture politics The internationalist vision of the early twentieth century imagined a world in which race and empire had been relegated to the past Significant numbers of women from around the Pacific brought this shared vision together with their concerns for peace social progress and cooperation to the lively even glamorous political experiment of the Pan Pacific Women s Association Fiona Paisley tells the stories of this extraordinary group of women and illuminates the challenges and rewards of their politics of antiracism one that still resonates today

David Oakeshott,2024-11-27 Bringing concepts from critical transitional justice and peacebuilding into dialogue with education this book examines the challenges youth and their teachers face in the post conflict settings of Bougainville and Solomon Islands Youth in these places must reconcile with the violent past of their parents generation while also learning how to live with people once on opposing sides This book traces how students and their teachers form connections to the past and each other that cut through the forces that might divide them The findings illustrate novel ways to think about the potential for education to assist post conflict recovery The Pacific Reporter ,1921 Peacebuilding in the Asia-Pacific Carmela Lutmar,James Ockey,2018-09-04 This book explores theories of conflict and peacebuilding and applies them to case studies from the Asia Pacific region seeking to shift attention to the inherency of conflict the constant danger of re emergence and the need to establish mechanisms to resolve it The authors argue that the central focus of peacebuilding should not be state building per se but rather the creation of effective mechanisms for peaceful resolution of both past and newly emerging conflicts To do so it is important to consider the entire process of creating peace to contemplate the linkages between conflict resolution and post conflict peacebuilding rather than focus only on the period of institution building

Supports a Pacific-centric approach with compelling examples such as the building of the transcontinental railroad to increase the China trade. Includes new and updated photographs, illustrations, maps, references and reading suggestions. Already adopted by a wide range of institutions, the new edition of Pacific Eldorado: A History of Greater California continues to be an essential resource for students and instructors in California history courses as well as those required to pass exams on California history and government to obtain California teaching credentials.
