Population Growth, Employment and Economic-demographic Interactions in Kenia: Bachue, Kenia Richard Anker, James Population Growth, Income Distribution, and Economic Development Nico Heerink, 2012-12-06 In this book a model of long term interrelationships between income distribution population growth and economic development is developed and estimated from data for 54 countries The results indicate that a reduction of income inequality leads to lower fertility and mortality to improvedbasic needs satisfaction and to lower labour force participation of young and old males and of females in Asia and Africa The effect of income distribution on saving and consumption is found to be negligible These outcomes suggest that family planning and health policies in LDCs will show better results when they are supplemented with policies aimed at makingthe poor benefit from economic growth As regards development policy the results indicate that a reduction of income inequality does not impair the formation of physical capital but enhances the formation of human capital and lowers the growth rate of the labour force Population Growth, Employment and Economic-demographic Interactions in Kenya, Bachue-Kenya Richard Anker, James C. Knowles, 1983 Labour and Population Programme International Labour Office, 1991 Provides bibliographic references of some 500 publications and documents issued by the Labour and Population Programme between 1972 and 1990 with abstracts from the ILO s LABORDOC data base The book covers research education and training as well as particular target groups such as women Africa's Population: In Search of a Demographic Dividend Hans Groth, John F. May, 2017-05-23 This book examines the promises as well as the challenges the demographic dividend brings to sub Saharan Africa as fertility rates in the region fall and the labor force grows It offers a detailed analysis of what conditions must be met in order for the region to take full economic advantage of ongoing population dynamics As the book makes clear the region will need to accelerate reforms to cope with its demographic transition in particular the decline of fertility The continent will need to foster human capital formation through renewed efforts in the areas of education health and employment This will entail a true vision and determination on the part of African leaders and their development partners The book will help readers to gain solid knowledge of the demographic trends and provide insights into socioeconomic policies that eventually might lead sub Saharan Africa into a successful future The Rise of a Party-State in Kenya Jennifer A. Widner, 2023-04-28 Although Kenya is often considered an African success story its political climate became increasingly repressive under its second president Daniel arap Moi Widner charts the transformation of the Kenya African National Union KANU from a weak loosely organized political party under Jomo Kenyatta into an arm of the president's office with watchdog youth wings and strong surveillance and control functions under Moi She suggests that single party systems have an inherent tendency to become party states or single party regimes in which the head of state uses the party as a means of control The speed and extent of these changes depend on the countervailing power of independent interest groups such as business associations farmers or professionals Widner's study offers important

Land, Stephen H. Schneider, 2012-12-06 Social and natural scientists often are called upon to produce or participate in the pro duction of forecasts This volume assembles essays that a describe the organizational and political context of applied forecasting b review the state of the art for many fore casting models and methods and c discuss issues of predictability the implications of forecaSt errors and model construction linkage and verification The essays should be of particular interest to social and natural scientists concerned with forecasting large scale systems. This project had its origins in discussions of social forecasts and forecasting method ologies initiated a few years ago by several social and natural science members of the Social Science Research Council's Committee on Social Indicators It became appar ent in these discussions that certain similar problems were confronted in forecasting large scale systems be they social or natural In response the Committee hypothesized that much could be learned through more extended and systematic interchanges among social and natural scientists focusing on the formal methodologies applied in forecasting To put this conjecture to the test the Committee sponsored a conference at the National Center for Atmospheric Research in Boulder Colorado on June 10 13 1984 on forecasting in the social and natural sciences The conference was co chaired by Committee members Kenneth C Land and Stephen H Schneider representing respectively the social and natural science mem bership of the Committee Support for the conference was provided by a grant to the Council from the Division of Social and Economic Science of the National Science Foundation Urbanization And Urban Policies In Pacific Asia Roland J Fuchs, 2019-09-18 This book is the outcome of the Conference on Population Growth Urbanization and Urban Policies in the Asia Pacific Region held in Honolulu during 8 12 April 1985 It provides wide attention among development planners urban managers and scholars in the field of urban and development planning Bibliography of Published Research of the World Employment Programme International Labour Office, 1991 Macroeconomic Implications of Demographic Changes in Kenya Gabriel N.

Accounting for Economic Development and Social Change S. J. Keuning, 1996 The relevance of applied economic and social analysis stands or falls with the strength of the analytical tools on the one hand and the appropriateness of the underlying data framework on the other hand Whereas virtually all economic and sociological research focuses on the analytical tools this book deals with the design of an appropriate data framework In many countries it is not so much a lack of data per se that is the problem Official statistics often comprise a wealth of information laid down in many different publications The main difficulty then relates to the lack of integration of these statistics so that all kinds of events that are interrelated in reality can only be studied in isolation Of course the lack of integration of statistics applies less to economic data as the national accounts function as a coordinating information system for these data In fact an important aim of this book is to demonstrate that the basic principles of national accounts can and should be extended to a wider range of statistics notably social and environmental statistics For this purpose a so called System of Economic and Social Accounting Matrices and Extensions SESAME is designed and applied in this book following its announcement in the 1993 System of National Accounts the guidelines of the United Nations and other international organizations Kenya Population Census, 1989, 1994 Fertility in Developing Countries Ghazi M. Farooq, George B. Simmons, 2016-02-02 Eastern Africa Economic Review ,1990
