Population Growth Family Change In Afr:

Population Growth and Family Change in Africa John Charles Caldwell, 1968 Study of aspects of population growth and family change with particular reference to social change in urban areas of Ghana covers social structures sociological aspects social implications birth control the growing needs of children etc Bibliography pp 214 to 218 and statistical tables The Family in Africa Man Singh Das, 1993 The Family in Africa is a valuable source book It introduces the reader to the effect of industrialisation urbanization and modernization on African society and consequent changes in family structure marriage institution kith relationship sex role and lifestyle in third world countries especially in Nigeria somalia tanzania Swaizland and Libya Demographic and Human Development in the Middle East and North Africa Henriette Engelhardt, Florian Schulz, Zafer Büyükkececi, 2018-03-01 Moving Health Sovereignty in Africa Andrew F. Cooper, Hany Besada, 2016-04-15 Today's era of intense globalization has unleashed dynamic movements of people pathogens and pests that overwhelm the static territorial jurisdictions on which the governance provided by sovereign states and their formal intergovernmental institutions is based This world of movement calls for new ideas and institutions to govern people's health above all in Africa where the movements and health challenges are the most acute This book insightfully explores these challenges in ways that put the perspectives of Africans themselves at centre stage It begins with the long central and still compelling African health challenge of combating the pandemic of HIV AIDS It then examines the global governance responses by the major multilateral organizations of the World Bank and the World Trade Organization and the newer informal flexible democratically oriented ones of the Group of Eight It also addresses the compounding health challenge created by climate change to assess both its intensifying impact on Africa and how all international institutions have largely failed to link climate and health in their governance response It concludes with several recommendations about the innovative ideas and institutions that offer a way to closing the great global governance gaps and thus improving Africans health and that of citizens beyond The Routledge Handbook of African Demography Clifford O. Odimegwu, Yemi Adewoyin, 2022-02-07 This handbook provides an authoritative and comprehensive overview of African population dynamics variations causes and consequences demonstrating the real world applications of research in policies and programmes African demography has come of age Over 50 years the discipline has grown exponentially in the number of training and research institutions specialist experts and academic output all with an aim of addressing the enormous demographic challenges faced by the continent The book draws on old and emerging analytical tools to explore the relationships between population dynamics and social economic cultural and political environments from African perspectives Key topics include fertility sexual behaviours healthcare ageing mortality migration displacement the causes and consequences of demographic changes and teaching and research developments in African demography The Routledge Handbook of African Demography will be an essential resource for students and researchers of African demography sociology development and cultural studies

Reproduction and Social Context in Sub-Saharan Africa Samuel Agyei-Mensah, John B. Casterline, 2003-06-30

Perhaps no region matches sub Saharan Africa in its social and cultural diversity In this collection of micro demographic studies the authors examine how the diversity of this region influences reproductive behavior The empirical studies distributed throughout the continent are localized in depth studies that give special attention to contextual effects of social structure and social organization A diverse range of topics is addressed including adolescent sexuality and the effects of early childbearing on later fertility the impact of development programs on fertility and the association between social organization social diffusion and reproductive regime Highly revealing of the determinants of reproduction in Africa these studies serve as a model for a new mode of demographic research The chapters are arranged by geographical regions of the continent with an introductory chapter outlining the editors vision of a micro demographic enterprise and a concluding chapter placing the African fertility transition in the context of the global fertility transition This volume inspires fresh thinking and theorizing about demographic change not only in sub Saharan Africa but also in all low income settings

World Hunger, Health, and Refugee Problems: Special study mission to Africa, Asia & Middle East United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on the Judiciary. Subcommittee to Investigate Problems Connected with Refugees and Escapees, 1973

The Demography of Africa Bloomsbury Publishing, 1996-11-25 Written lucidly and simply to serve as an introduction to the study of the African continent from a human population perspective this book demonstrates important factors in the ebb and flow of group size and structure using the example of the fastest growing region in the world From a total original population of less than a quarter million in prehistoric times to the present count of 642 million people in 1990 Africa is now demonstrating an annual growth rate of 3.0% the highest on the planet While the rest of the world's population is expected to increase by 60% Africa's is expected to increase by 100% doubling by the year 2025 to a projected total of 1.6 billion people The major factor creating the high growth rate is the drop in death rates while the fertility rates remain high Stress on the population has been related to urbanization which has increased since African countries attained independence in the 1960s Employment opportunities in cities are inadequate and slum conditions have appeared around most major cities Since agriculture remains the major industry and occupation rural development policies are seen to hold the most promise for stemming urban migration and reducing famine and poverty

Takyi,Yaw Oheneba-Sakyi,2006-03-30 The institution of family has been central to the well being of African societies over the years African families have undergone significant transformation caused by the interplay of indigenous Arabic Islamic and European Christian cultures The juxtaposition of these three cultures in the lives of African peoples captures the triple heritage image of the continent At the same time modernization urbanization and migration have played and continue to play significant roles in the transformation of families across the continent While it is true that the traditional family has changed in many ways and that African families are continuously confronted with new challenges the renowned contributors to this volume recognize that the African family continues to adapt to emerging structural changes In the new millennium a host of issues and challenges has emerged each with the potential to weaken or threaten the survival of the traditional African family These include the HIV AIDS pandemic a growing elderly population declining governmental support and economic decay How the post colonial family reacts to these threats and challenges has the potential to either maintain or undermine the family's role as a major organizing principle in Africa. The institution of family has been central to the well-being of African societies over the years. African families have undergone significant transformations caused by the interplay of indigenous Arabic Islamic and European Christian cultures. The juxtaposition of these three cultures in the lives of African peoples captures the triple heritage image of the continent. At the same time, modernization, urbanization, and migration have played and continue to play a role in the transformation of families across the continent. While it is true that the traditional family has changed in many ways and that African families are continuously confronted with new challenges, the contributors to this volume recognize that the African family has adapted to the emerging structural changes. In the new millennium, a host of issues and challenges have the potential to weaken or threaten the survival of the traditional African family. These include the HIV/AIDS pandemic which seems to afflict the young and able-bodied, a growing elderly population, declining governmental support, and economic decay. How the post-colonial family reacts to these threats and challenges has the potential to either maintain or undermine the family's role as a major organizing principle in Africa. Profound transitions have occurred in family structure and processes since the post-colonial period. This work points to some of the documented transformations in African family life, including the changing modes of decision-making due to the establishment of a cash crop economy, nuptial patterns, changing maternal roles, an increasing age at marriage, and declining fertility, a growing number of households headed by women, an increase in the rate of marital instability and dissolution, and changing patterns of mate selection and family relations.

African Families in a Global Context Göran Therborn, 2004. The family is one of the most important institutions of African societies. Where is it going today? How is it affected by global processes, cultural and political as well as economic? How does it compare with family developments in other parts of the world? These are questions which this book addresses. The contributors deal with the African family in a comparative global context, focusing on patriarchy, sexuality, and marriage, and fertility, biological and social reproduction in Ghana, under conditions of globalization and structural adjustment. Nigerian marriage relations under the impact of current conditions and family changes in the North, Britain from a family perspective, of the South, South Africa.

A Demographic Analysis of East Africa Mette Mønsted, Parveen Walji, 1978. Factors Affecting Contraceptive Use in Sub-Saharan Africa. National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Working Group on Factors Affecting Contraceptive Use, 1993-02-01. This book discusses current trends in contraceptive use, socioeconomic and program variables that affect the demand for and supply of children, and the relationship of increased contraceptive use to recent fertility declines.

Transitional Development and Attitudinal Changes in Society Man Singh Das, Vijay Kumar Gupta, 1996. The attitude concept is the widely acclaimed means of sociologists and psychologists for the analysis of empirical research used in the analysis of related theories and generalizations. Rapid changes in attitudes have been taking place in the recent decades due to the fast pace of economic development
