Sackett, 1992 Soil and cambium temperatures must be known to ascertain certain effects of prescribed fires on trees Thermocouple based systems were devised for measuring soil and cambium temperatures during prescribed fires The systems which incorporate both commercially available and custom components perform three basic functions data collection data retrieval and data translation Although the systems and procedures for using them were designed for research purposes they could be adapted for monitoring operational prescribed fires The Atlas of U.S. and Canadian Environmental History Char Miller, 2003-08-08 This visually dynamic historical atlas chronologically covers American environmental history through the use of four color maps photos and diagrams and in written entries from well known scholars Organized into seven categories each chapter covers agriculture wildlife and forestry land use and management technology and industry pollution Perspectives Canada III H. J. Adler, D. A. Brusegard, 1980 Statistics on and insights into social trends in Canada DNA-based markers in plants R.L. Phillips, Indra K. Vasil, 2012-12-06 The double helix architecture of DNA was elucidated in 1953 Twenty years later in 1973 the discovery of restriction enzymes helped to create recombinant DNA molecules in vitro The implications of these powerful and novel methods of molecular biology and their potential in the genetic manipulation and improvement of microbes plants and animals became increasingly evident and led to the birth of modern biotechnology. The first transgenic plants in which a bacterial gene had been stably integrated were produced in 1983 and by 1993 transgenic plants had been produced in all major crop species including the cereals and the legumes. These remarkable achievements have resulted in the production of crops that are resistant to potent but environmentally safe herbicides or to viral pathogens and insect pests. In other instances genes have been introduced that delay fruit ripening or increase starch content or cause male sterility. Most of these manipulations are based on the introduction of a single gene generally of bacterial origin that regulates an important monogenic trait into the crop of choice. Many of the engineered crops are now under field trials and are expected to be commercially produced within the next few years. The early successes in plant biotechnology led to the realization that further molecular improvement of plants will require a thorough understanding of the molecular basis of plant development and the identification and characterization of genes that regulate agronomically important multi-gene traits. Friedland, Stefano Mariani, John R. Waldman, 2004-10-15. Stock Identification Methods provides a comprehensive review of the various disciplines used to study the population structure of fishery resources. It represents the worldwide experience and perspectives of experts on each method assembled through a working group of the International Council for the Exploration of the Sea. The book is organized to foster interdisciplinary analyses and conclusions about stock structure a crucial topic for fishery science and management. Technological advances have promoted the development of stock identification methods in many directions resulting in a confusing variety of approaches. Based on central tenets of population biology and management needs Stock Identification Methods offers a unified framework for understanding stock structure by promoting an understanding of the relative merits and sensitivities of each approach. Describes eighteen distinct approaches to stock identification grouped into sections on life history traits environmental signals genetic analyses and applied marks. Features experts reviews of benchmark case studies general protocols and the strengths and weaknesses of each identification method. Reviews statistical techniques for exploring stock patterns testing for differences among putative stocks stock discrimination and stock composition analysis. Focuses on the challenges of interpreting data and managing mixed stock fisheries. Population Genetics of Forest Trees W.T. Adams, Steven H. Strauss, Donald L. Copes, A.R. Griffin, 2012-12-06. Tropical climates which occur between 23° 30° N and S latitude Jacob 1988 encompass a wide variety of plant communities Hartshorn 1983 1988 many of which are diverse in their woody floras. The FAO has estimated that there are about 19 million km² of potentially forested area in the global tropics of which 58% were estimated to still be in

There is currently limited acceptance of foreign clinical data by regulatory authorities although the reasons for repeating studies are poorly defined There are some proven genetic differences in drug metabolism and elimination which occur with varying frequencies in different populations In addition there are differences in culture environment and medical practice which can impact on drug responsiveness Perspective Canada ,1974
